SCHOOL BOARD NAMES TWO MORE TEACHERS AT REGULAR MEETING

At the meeting of the school board held Thursday evening Miss Gladys Robey and Miss Alice Steen were appointed as teachers in the Oregon City schools.

Miss Steen was named to fill the vacancy created through the resignation of Miss Margaret Gross, who was appointed before the start of the school year, but who was forced to resign after one week of service because of her inability to secure her release from the Dallas, Ore. schools. Miss Gross expects to take up her duties at the Dallas schools immediately. The Dallas school board was unable to grant her leave from that position through their inability to fill the position made vacant through her resignation.

Miss Robey has been selected by the school board to fill the need for the services of an extra teacher in the city schools brought about by the unprecedented attendance this term, and which has made the services of the regular staff of teachers inadequate to satisfactorily administer the studies of the school courses.

STALEY WALNUTS ON EILERS HOMESTEAD RELIC OF PIONEERS

Gerd Eilers, one of the well known residents of Clackamas county, whose farm is located near the confluence of the Pudding and Molalla rivers, claims ownership to some of the largest and oldest walnut trees in the Northwest. These trees, which are about 4 1/2 feet in diameter, about 400 feet high and with spreading limbs of from 120 to 140 feet, are the pride of Mr. Eilers and family. There are three majestic trees still remaining as a monument of the pioneer family that planted the walnut kernels, and from indications they will bear many more crops of the delicious nuts.

The old farm home occupied by the Eilers family is constructed of California red wood, which was brought by way of steamer from California to Portland and then shipped overland through Oregon City, and was built in the year 1844. President Buchanan signed the patent to the Eilers donation land claim.

Mr. Eilers came into possession of the farm in 1890 and takes much interest in his old pioneer home.

ELKS LODGE WILL BE CHAMPIONS OF BIG WAR SAVINGS STAMP DRIVE

At a regular meeting of the Elks lodge held Friday evening a communication was read from Harry G. Allen, State Chairman of the Elks' War Savings Stamp Campaign committee, notifying the local lodge that he would visit Oregon City Saturday in the interests of the campaign which is being waged throughout the United States in the interests of the savings stamps, and that he would meet the committee which has been named to take charge of the work in this district.

According to the letter from Mr. Allen, the United States' administration has delegated to the Elks organization the work of promoting the sale of War Savings Stamps throughout the United States and that organization with its characteristic thoroughness is getting behind the movement with its entire organization in a manner that bodes well for its success.

The question of laying a new floor in the lodge room, which was taken up at a previous meeting, came up for discussion at the meeting Friday night and final details for the completion of the work were worked out. It is expected that the new floor will be put down within the near future and that a ball will be given as soon as it is completed.

BABY HOME CAMPAIGN TO OPEN WITH MOVIE LECTURE, FRIDAY EVE

The formal opening of the Statewide campaign in this city by the committee in charge of the drive for funds for the Albetina Kerr Baby Home in Portland will be launched on Friday evening, October 10, with a moving picture and lecture at Moose hall, given under the auspices of the State committee of the Home.

Saturday morning the sale of "bricks" will be started and it is expected that a large force of young ladies will be on the streets early in the morning to offer the tags to the public for donations.

A baby show will also be staged on Saturday, showing a number of the babies from the home. These little ones will be placed in the show windows of Bannan & Co. establishment, where they will be on view to the public. It was remarked by a representative of the Home in an interview Wednesday that the babies attract a great deal of interest wherever they are shown and that they have proved a powerful appeal in the solicitation of funds. One of the babies, a beautiful little girl of about one and one-half years, was found on a doorstep in the negro quarter in Portland.

MY TRIP TO THE STATE FAIR

I was one of the two girls who won the free trip to the State Fair.

We went Wednesday morning and were met at the Fair Ground station by Mr. Vedder. We were then taken to the Boys' and Girls' Industrial Club camp. While there we felt just as if we were at home. There were four large tents. The girls had one, the boys had two, and the remaining one was used as a dining room, where delicious meals were served.

I must not forget the splendid lectures. We had visitors with us at dinner and supper nearly every day; these speakers were usually members of the Fair Board or Club Workers and their words of praise and encouragement are still with me. Thursday evening Governor Olcott was our guest for supper and I shall never forget the good speech he gave us and how the girls and boys cheered him.

There were 71 girls and 45 boys at camp while I was there. We spent some of our time looking at the splendid exhibits and on Thursday morning we went to see the state buildings. We went through the Capitol and up in the dome. The three departments leaving the greatest impression upon my mind were the Senate chamber, the house of representatives and the governor's private office. In the halls we saw many interesting things, among which were some American flags that had been on the battlefields of the different wars in which we have been engaged, also the figurehead of the battleship Oregon.

We went through the state printing office and through the state library. We then went through the supreme court building and then on through the state penitentiary. We also went by the state hospital and the state asylum but were not permitted to go inside. Friday the whole camp had their picture taken.

In closing, I wish to thank those who made it possible for me to take this wonderful trip.

COUNTY ROADMASTER REPAIRS BAD STRETCHES TO ELIMINATE MUD

The roadway leading from the Mount Pleasant school house to the South End road that has been undergoing repair, was completed Tuesday afternoon. This roadway has been covered with crushed rock, and extends for a mile, and this is the first improvement that has been made on it since 1895. Last winter the mud on the roadway was hub deep and almost impassable, and now the residents are rejoicing in the prospects of good substantial thoroughfare for the coming winter.

Another roadway receiving its first improvement is that passing the historical home known as Rose Farm and formerly the home of the W. A. Holmes family. This road leads from Mount Pleasant to Mountain View Addition and received its first crushed rock Tuesday. It has been in need of repair for many years.

W. H. Compton, county road supervisor, has planned the work that is being done, and the work is under his supervision, with A. C. Warner of Mount Pleasant in charge of the men employed. Mr. Warner has also had much experience in road work.

For the purpose of enlisting the necessary force to satisfactorily handle the immense task of taking the Federal census, which work will be started on January 2, 1920, a call has been issued from the office of H. A letter from Supervisor Crawford to Postmaster Cooke states that Civil Service examinations for the appointment of Census Takers will be held in this city in the near future and any persons desirous of taking the examinations are requested to write to Mr. Crawford for application blanks before October 15 in anticipation of the approaching examination.

The first district of Oregon, for which the examinations will be held, comprises 17 counties of the state.

Merits of Publicity

Newspaper publicity has taken a new turn since the war. The federal government has recognized the value of paid advertising, learning its lesson from the success of the various war drives. The merit of display publicity was brought out forcibly after the first Liberty loan bonds were floated. The government undertook to sell the bonds of the first issue through the media of publicity in the news columns of the daily and weekly press of the country, and found it a difficult undertaking. The subsequent campaign were comparatively easy of consummation, for the government, while making no direct appropriation, urged patriotic citizens in every section of the country, through the committees in charge, to buy display space to put the drives over the top.

Since the war closed, the army and navy departments have made direct advertising appropriations to stimulate recruiting and the campaigns so far conducted have been signal successes. Several hundred thousand dollars was recently appropriated for a recruiting campaign and even the stiff-necked bureau chiefs at Washington have admitted the value of the new plan.

There is no undertaking ever conceived that could not be materially aided by the use of newspaper space. The newspaper is read intensely and no other medium can be used with such a degree of success to cover a given territory. In Honolulu newspaper advertising has found a new field. Judge William H. Heen, who recently took office as city and county attorney, is buying space in the local dailies to further his campaign against gambling. Judge Heen made professional gambling the issue of his campaign for election and he has been running paid advertisements offering to pay for information that will lead to the arrest and prosecution against gamblers and owners of gambling joints.

OSWEGO GRANGE WILL HOLD ANNUAL FAIR SATURDAY, OCT. 11

Oswego Grange, winner of first prize in grange exhibits at the Clackamas county fair, will hold its annual fair at the grange hall Saturday, October 11. Many exhibits besides those in the booth at the fair grounds will be exhibited, and the members are planning on having one of the greatest fairs ever held by the grange.

All members are jubilant over the success of the grange at the fair and are taking much interest in the coming event.

FAIR CROWDS HOAXED BY FAKE CONCESSION DEMAND MONEY BACK

"Happy Canyon," one of the attractions of a carnival company at the Clackamas county fair during the week drew a large crowd, but this was one of the worst fakes ever put on at the fair, and in several instances the return of money was demanded by those entering the canyon, and it was quickly returned. The only attraction after entering the tent were some gaily painted dancing girls, who called out to the young men when entering the show place: "Come on, kid, and dance; only 25 cents a dance." Very few had the pleasure of dancing with the Clackamas county young men, for the girls were far from beautiful, and the young men could find much better choice among the Clackamas county delegation attending the fair and enjoying the dancing at the big pavilion.

Baker and also asking for the custody of a minor son and $25 per month for the support of the child. The couple were married in Clackamas county on December 25, 1905.

FORUM OF THE PEOPLE

Pomona Grange adjourned early at their quarterly meeting Wednesday on account of the sudden death of Mrs. Retta Rivers, who for many years was an officer and member of that grange, as well as her home grange, Abernathy. At the time of her death and during the war she was Oregon city representative of the Home Demonstration work. She was one of the six or seven members of the local grange who worked unselfishly for the Grange, whether they led or not, and her life has been bright and upright, although she has withstood the most bitter assaults against her work and aims from her jealous rivals.

The entire program was postponed and the address to be given by Henry C. Dye will be delivered in Portland instead.
