

ATTEMPT IS MADE TO DYNAMITE STEEL MILL

PITTSBURG, Oct. 8.—An attempt was made to wreck the plant of the American Sheet Tin Plate company at McKeesport early today, when a mine exploded, tearing a large hole in the roof of the structure. No one was injured.

The police believe the explosion was caused by a time bomb placed on the roof of the building. No trace of the person or persons responsible for the blast could be found.

The tin plate plant has been affected by the steel workers' strike. During the past week however many men are said to have reported for work.

The police say that a number of these men have been threatened with death if they continued to remain at work.

STATE UNIVERSITY REGISTRATION FOR TERM IS NEW RECORD

EUGENE, Oct. 3.—Registration of the university has passed far beyond all previous enrollments with a total of more than 1400 up to last night. Many more are expected in the next few days, at least 200 more being expected. The offices in the administration building have been crowded for the past three days and officials and clerks have been working overtime to keep up with the rush.

Classes opened at the university yesterday and practically all professors were greeted with overflowing classes when they convened for the first time. Schedules have not yet been all arranged and it will be the first of next week before classes are organized completely.

The housing situation is becoming acute at the university and urgent appeals are being made to the people of Eugene to offer all rooms available to the incoming students. Limited accommodations for the increasing number of students is causing the university officials considerable worry and old houses are in many instances being remodeled to handle the situation.

Being Deported as Enemy Alien Doesn't Worry Elsa Pelster

It isn't the fault of Elsa Pelster that she is being deported. She happened to have been born a year or so ago in Cuba. Elsa seemingly didn't mind a bit when she was sent to Germany with a number of older Germans who had been interned during the war because they were trying to hurt Uncle Sam.

CORDON OF SOLDIERS THROWN OUT TO ROUND UP NEGRO PLOTTERS

HELENA, Ark. 6.—In an effort to capture Edward Ware, alleged ringleader, and a band of 20 other insurgent negroes believed to be still at large following last week's disorders, 300 soldiers at daylight today were thrown out in a cordon encircling an area of approximately 35 square miles in Southern Phillips county.

Sam Wilson, a negro, suspected of the killing last Thursday of Corporal Luther Earle, company H, 4th infantry, was captured at Snow Lake, 40 miles south Sunday afternoon, and was taken to Helena last night, and one prisoner was shot down attempting to escape.

SPANISH MINERS WIN FIGHT FOR SEVEN-HOUR DAY

The deputations of miners from the province of Oviedo, which came to Madrid to wait upon Premier Toca and present their demands, was informed by the premier that the mine owners had granted the seven-hour day for work in the galleries and eight-hour day for outside.

Forecasts

The nationally-read-after sport writers who forecasted an easy victory for the white-sox in the first game of the world series saw their dope sheet torn to pieces, when Cincinnati walloped the team from the windy city by a 9 to 1 score.

It is so easy to be a forecaster. We have them with us always. The weather man leads the way, the political wise-acre comes a close second, and the know-it-all sport is not far distant. Once in a while they hit it and build a reputation that lasts for a short while, until the next turn of the wheel of fortune upsets their prognostications utterly.

Newspapers are prone to forecast events, though of late years the more conservative of the press plan and execute a poll before making public their opinions on what they believe is going to happen.

Nothing is safe from the chronic forecaster. He knew how long the war would last. He had a cinch on the people's choice for president, and he was certain the senate would ratify the peace treaty in two weeks. Blithely he forecasts the time when the price of labor will take a drop and when the high cost of living will tumble, and when the Russian bolsheviks will get theirs. Such little things like the amount of income tax John D. Rockefeller will pay next year are pie to him. Many lend an attentive ear to the wanderings of his mind, and, like the poor, he will remain to amuse and entertain us during the years to come.

The next job for the local forecaster will be to tell us the exact majority of the vote that is going to be cast for the road bond issue.

PLOT REVEALED FOR WIDESPREAD WHITE KILLING

ELAINE, Ark. Oct. 6.—Discovery of what is believed to have been a widespread plot on the part of organized negroes for a general killing of whites led officials today to tighten up on emergency measures.

The existence of the supposed conspiracy was brought to light by the committee of seven appointed following the race disorders here last week.

According to committee members, negro captives readily revealed to them the inner workings of the plan. Today, October 6, the negroes declared, was the date set for the uprising.

Women are said to have been members of the organization, which the authorities say was known as the Progressive Farmers' and Household Union of America.

Twenty-one white planters in this district, according to the confessions, had been singled out to be killed first.

The killing of the 21, it was asserted, was to be followed by a general massacre of white, after which the negroes were to take over the land and till it.

Efforts were being made to connect white men with the propaganda to arouse the negroes and incite them to killing the white residents.

THE MAY BASKET

By GENEVA A. ELDRIDGE.

Scent of apple blossoms filled Cynthia Smith's living room, a clumsy boy tumbled up and down the outside of the screen door, and now and then a swallow darted across the sunshine, his blue wings glistening. Away down the street sounded the rat-tat of a drum, and Cynthia heard the patter of children's feet running toward the town square. Still she sat tense and upright in the old-fashioned rocking chair, her mouth drawn in a straight hard line, her eyes fixed upon the work in her hands.

The screen door squeaked on its spring and a round-faced, brown-eyed little boy squeezed in, his eyes filled with surprise when he saw her sitting there so stiff, her work in her hands, and he stammered a little as he said: "Wh-why, Aunt Cynthia, ain't you going to meet the train and see the p-parade?"

Soft and quick came her answer: "No, dear, not today."

"But Aunt Cynthia, they ain't gain't to be no more p-parade days, an' I got on my white suit, an' mother thought maybe you'd like to have a little boy what was all spic and span to go wiv you."

And his little face grew wistful and troubled. He had never seen an Aunt Cynthia like this before, so straight and strange.

He meant to know before he left just why she was staying home the day everyone else in town was going down to welcome the boys from France. So he crept up close and whispered: "Is it 'cause Joe ain't comin', auntie?" Tears sprang to her eyes as she gathered the little spic and span boy close.

"Yes, Teddie boy, that's just why auntie isn't going. She can't bear it."

Now that Teddie was sure he felt that he ought to say something to help make auntie happier, so he said as he stroked her face with his fat little hand: "Never mind, auntie; I've got a secret and maybe tonight 'bout dark you'll know it. Maybe right fore supper, maybe right after, anyway, don't you come out doors right that time, will you?"

And auntie promised to stay in the house. Then hearing his mother calling he scampered away leaving Aunt Cynthia alone with her thoughts. Slowly she closed her eyes and in imagination saw the town square filled with people, the train pulling in filled with returning soldiers, the happy greetings, and far and faint she heard the band and the cheering.

The hot tears trickled slowly down her face as she whispered, "And mine reported missing; my boy, who was the pride of my heart!" And then Teddie's happy little face seemed to shine out, and she remembered what a comfort he had been all the weary months, "and now he is coming to hang me a May basket, bless his dear little heart, and I must cheer up for his sake. I think I will plan a little surprise myself."

So she went into her dining room and set the pretty table, bringing in great bunches of apple blossoms to decorate it with until the room looked like fairyland in the pink and white dress. She frosted little round cakes and made an iced drink for the crystal glasses, and almost before she knew it, twilight came drifting down. The drums had ceased their rat-tat and happy voices called to one another in the street. "It's almost time for Teddie and his secret," she thought as she patted her hair into place. Then she heard steps tiptoeing up the board walk and a child's quick panting breath, and she smiled the old-time glad smile that she used to greet the boy with who was missing tonight when he came to hang May baskets at the very same door.

When two fat fists pounded hard on the screen door she waited only long enough for a small boy to hide before she opened the door, to find a dainty little basket, all fringed and festooned and fairly bursting with candy kisses, setting on the step.

"Why, how surprised I am," she said. "Who could have left this beautiful little basket here? Surely it's a mistake; some little boy must have brought Susie Grimes' here."

Just then a small boy in white wig

Going Up 50,000 Feet to Communicate With Mars

Professor David Todd.

Professor David Todd of Amherst College intended to take observations of a solar eclipse on May 29 from an airplane, but during a storm the plane was torn from its moorings at Pernambuco, Brazil. He now plans to communicate with the planet Mars from a balloon which he expects to rise to a height of 50,000 feet. The balloon will be enabled to rise to this great height, says Leo Stevens, balloon instructor at Fort Omaha, by use of an invention which divides it in two compartments, the upper containing hydrogen gas and the lower fresh air. Professor Todd has perfected a signal apparatus for the experiments.

GOVERNMENT TO BUY CUBAN SUGAR CROP TO PREVENT HIGHER COST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Senator McNary will offer at once a bill authorizing the purchase by the sugar equalization board of the remaining three-quarters of the Cuban sugar crop for 1920.

Unless the crop is secured the price of sugar may go to 20 or even 25 cents retail, he says. This is the result of testimony before the subcommittee on agriculture, of which Senator McNary is chairman. There will be no more dealings. Chairman Zabriske of the sugar equalization board was the principal witness. Judge Glasgow, counsel for the food administration, was also examined.

STEEL WORKERS IN PITTSBURG RETURN TO WORK

PITTSBURG, Pa. Oct. 6.—Steel plants in the Pittsburgh district that have been closed since the beginning of the nationwide strike two weeks ago threw open their gates today and attempted to resume operations. Early reports from different sections said that workmen returned in large numbers.

One of the three great blast furnaces of the United States Steel corporation at Clairton, which had been "down" were blown in today. Four large mills in Denora and Monaca, which have been closed tight by the strike, started this morning. Officials expected that at least 60 per cent of their employees would return.

EPISCOPAL CONVENTION OFFERS DRASTIC LAW

DETROIT, Mich. Oct. 7.—No person, divorced for any cause whatever arising after marriage, can be married by a clergyman of the Episcopal church, if the report of the committee on legislation relative to matrimony, received by the secretary is adopted by the general convention which opens its three-week session here tomorrow.

The present canon has an exception, providing that the innocent party when the divorce was obtained on the grounds of infidelity, may be remarried by a priest of the church, when the consent of the diocese is obtained. The proposed amendment to canon 40 reads:

"No marriage shall be solemnized by this church between parties either of whom have a husband or wife still living, who has been divorced for any cause arising after marriage."

This is the same amendment that was defeated by a narrow margin at the last convention, being voted down by the laymen.

gled out from behind the snowball bush and called breathlessly, "No, no, Aunt Cynthia, 'tain't no 'stake, it's my secret and some more of it is 'hind the catalpa tree. You come see."

But just then a khaki-clad figure sprang out with wide-open arms, and then Ted's secret was out.

"Oh, Joe," cried Aunt Cynthia as she wept in his arms, "how you must have felt not to find me at the train to meet you."

"That's all right, mother; I don't blame you under the circumstances."

"When Ted told me his secret I thought I'd wait and surprise you."

"Some May basket all around, hey? Say, Ted, it looks like frosted cakes and lemonade in the dining room; let's hurry for mess."

And as mother and son wiped the tears of gladness from their eyes, a little voice shrilled out: "You won't never cry no more on p-parade day, will you, Aunt Cynthia?"

SENATE KILLS 36 AMENDMENTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—At last reaching the stage of action in its consideration of the peace treaty, the senate swept aside in quick succession today 36 of the 45 amendments which had been written into the document by the foreign relations committee.

The smallest majority recorded against any of the committee proposals was 15, and the largest was 25. All of the amendments considered had been introduced by Senator Fall, republican, New Mexico, and were designed to curtail American participation in European settlements resulting from the war.

At adjournment the treaty advocates declared themselves elated at the day's work and the opposition leaders also were claiming a victory on the showing made for their amendments.

MILWAUKIE TO HAVE BIG BOXING ARENA FOR EXHIBITION BOUTS

PORTLAND, Oct. 2.—The establishment of a boxing arena at Milwaukie just outside of the city limits of Portland was assured yesterday by the signing of the lease for a year between the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, and Frank Kendall, boxing promoter, for the use of the old car barns of the company at Milwaukie.

Kendall's plan calls for the immediate remodeling of the building with accommodations for seating in the neighborhood of 4000 persons.

The arena could be used for boxing without having to conform to any of the regulations imposed in Portland since certain ordinances recently passed at Milwaukie will permit boxing with more freedom than here.

The old car barns that are to be remodeled are situated just east of the carline on the main street of Milwaukie and have not been used for several years.

WHITE SALMON HIGH SCHOOLS CLOSE FOR APPLE HARVESTING

WHITE SALMON, Wash., Oct. 3.—The White Salmon high school closed today for three weeks to enable pupils and teachers to help with the apple harvest which was in full blast in the lowest altitudes when heavy rains on Tuesday and Wednesday interfered with picking.

MACHINE INSTALLED.

Pickers and packers are exceedingly hard to obtain this season in spite of the high wages offered. Several Locke Hill district orchardists, who were handicapped for housing their apple crops, clubbed together and purchased a circus tent for this purpose and will use it to house a large grading and sizing machine.

PACKING IS TAUGHT.

An apple packing school has been started in the growers' warehouse, White Salmon, a grading machine of 500-box capacity is in operation and orchardists near town are hauling their fruit to town to be packed.

ASTORIAN RED CROSS REMOVES SLACKER ALIEN FROM ROLLS

ASTORIA, Or. Oct. 3.—Thomas Nelson last night was removed as a member of the executive committee of the Red Cross.

The action was taken after a long letter had been read from the local post of the American legion, giving another side of the records in the court actions in which Haines F. Huttula, the alien slacker, whose harboring by Nelson aroused the ire of the service men here.

This letter showed that Huttula sought to evade service in the armed forces, and went so far as to obtain a Russian passport to Finland.

The letter sent to Nelson quotes the section of the by-laws of the American Red Cross under which the action was taken and is signed by Stella H. Spedden, secretary.

The local post has issued a statement containing a partial transcript of the testimony in the circuit court here when Huttula had his naturalization papers canceled, in which it is shown that the man refused to support the constitution of the United States, and declares that he would not assist peace officers in time of riot if force was necessary because he did not believe in the use of arms and force.

PORTLAND AMERICAN LEGION HEADS BIG CIVILIAN RESERVE

PORTLAND, Oct. 4.—By the organization of a great civilian reserve composed of all loyal citizens, Portland may become the radiating center of a movement that will sweep the country. This is the hope of the American Legion, whose executive committee Thursday passed a resolution advocating such a reserve, enrolled by voluntary enlistment and for the purpose of combating "the I. W. W., the bolshevik, the red-flag agitator, the anarchist, the anti-government propagandist and alien slacker."

ARKANSAS RACE RIOTS REACH ACUTE STAGE; SEVERAL ARE KILLED

HELENA, Ark. Oct. 2.—Four white men and seven negroes are known to have been killed in race riots at Helena, near here. Sheriff Kitchens of Phillips county stated today. Several other negroes are believed to have been killed, the sheriff declared.

One white man and a number of negroes were killed when the riots were renewed early today. The others lost their lives in Wednesday's fighting.

Race trouble started when W. D. Adkins, special railroad agent, was shot and killed from ambush while accompanying Deputy Sheriff Pratt to arrest a negro on a minor charge.

Special deputies were sworn in by Sheriff Kitchens and sent to Helena. Two of these, Clinton Lee and J. A. Tappan, were killed.

Resumption of the rioting proceeded the arrival in Helena of 500 veteran soldiers of the third division who were sent there from Camp Pike, armed with machine guns. Order was restored as soon as the troops took charge.

In addition to the soldiers, surrounding towns sent armed citizens to Helena. Helena contributed 500, Clarendon 150, McGee 25 and Lula, Miss., 30. Three hundred reserves were held at the Helena courthouse. Others patrolled the streets of Helena, fearing race hatred might communicate to this city.

ERUPTIONS OF MAUNA LOA IN HAWAIIAN GROUP ATTRACTS TOURISTS

HILO, T. H. Oct. 2.—A stream of lava 1000 feet wide is flowing into the sea at the rate of from 20 to 30 miles an hour from the crater of volcano Mauna Loa, which first threw forth lava Saturday.

It is now a virtual river from 20 to 30 feet high. Where the lava flows into the sea, the waters are boiling for half a mile and are strewn with dead fish.

The sides of the flow are banked up by cooled lava. Red hot boulders carried in the stream explode when they hit the water. Property damage resulting from the activity of Mauna Loa has not been large, although some forests and a few houses have been destroyed. The lava flow is mostly through a barren country covered by previous flows.

Several herds of cattle are reported penned in by the divergent flows. Near the source of the flow the volcano remains normal and is seemingly unaffected, although great clouds of steam can be seen coming from the peak. Volcano Kilauea, on an adjacent peak, remain unaffected by Mauna Loa's activity. Thousands of people are going from Hilo and other points on the island to witness the flow.

RUSSIAN WOMEN ARE PREPARING FOR DEATH BY POISONING ROUTE

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Chemist shops at Archangel are openly selling poison to many young women who are buying it with the expected intention of killing themselves rather than fall into the hands of the Bolsheviki, according to an American officer who has just arrived from Northern Russia.

Widespread reports of the giving of women to the state and making them public property under Bolsheviki rule are said to be responsible for the sudden trade in lethal drugs.

CAPTURED SUBMARINE ENROUTE TO PORTLAND FOR VISITING TRIP

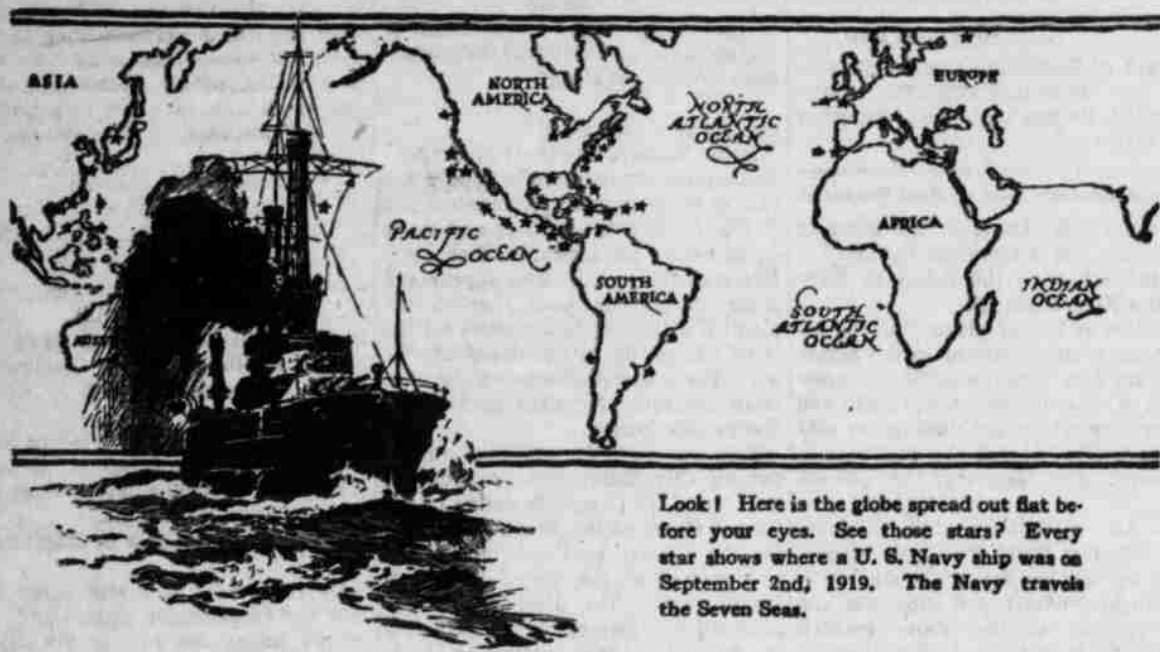

ASTORIA, Oct. 2.—The U-S-S, a war prize, one of the vessels turned over to the allies when the Imperial fleet surrendered, left here this morning for Portland. The ship, which came across the Atlantic, through the Panama canal and up the Pacific coast, is accompanied by the mine sweeper Bittern. The trip from San Francisco to Astoria was made in 48 hours, and part of the time the undersea craft was submerged, Lieutenant J. L. Nelson, her commander, said.
