AMERICAN LEGION SHUTS OUT OSWEGO IN INITIAL GAME

The Oregon City American Legion football team took its first plunge into the football game of the state Sunday by walloping the Oswego "Cement Grinders" to the tune of 22 to 0. The game was interesting to the crowd of spectators from the first kickoff to the final whistle. Oswego fought gamely to the last but was no match for the powerful ex-soldier machine.

Early in the first quarter the Legion smashed its way by a series of line bucks near to the Oswego goal line and Quarterback Wallace Montgomery went over for the first score. After that there was no stopping the Oregon City team. Before the first half was up Fulback Mass carried the oval across for the second score.

The second half opened with Oswego showing good form with the use of the forward pass. They completed several passes for good gains but failed to advance consistently or get the ball into Oregon City territory and before the final whistle put an end to the battle three more touchdowns were added to the score of the winning team. Clyde Montgomery, Ernest Mass and Wallace Mass each added one to his credit.

The game was marked by clean playing on the part of the majority of players of both teams. No one was injured to the extent of having to leave the game though hard hitting caused several to be in temporary need of the water bottle and towel which Ed Laver had ready for the emergency.

Oregon City was penalized often for offside play which is no fault in a beginning team. They took their medicine in yardage lost without a complaint. At the end of the game each team gave the other a farewell cheer and agreed to meet again sometime this fall on the Oregon City field.

Story, Wallace Mass, Seller and Captain Ernest Mass are entitled to special mention for their stellar playing.

The team is being strengthened in its weak points. Walter Dungey, an old 200-pound star, will soon be out to help make the line a stone wall. The coaches are trimming up the interference and developing new plays for the coming contest with a Portland team on the Oregon City field next Sunday.

The lineup was: Hampton, c; Ray, r. g.; Stanich, l. g.; J. Montgomery, r. t.; Story, l. t.; Kendall, r. e.; Seiler, l. e.; W. Montgomery, quar.; Mass, l. h.; W. Mass, f. b.; C. Montgomery, r. h.

OREGON CITY WINS FROM CANBY HIGH BY SCORE OF 24 TO 6

By a score of 24 to 6 Oregon City High won at football from the Canby high school team Friday afternoon on Canemah field. In the first quarter Canby swept the home team from its feet, scoring a touchdown within three minutes of play, but the local lads took a brace and from that time on the Oregon City goal was not in danger.

In every quarter Oregon City put the pigskin over the line for a touchdown, kicking a goal in each instance. Canby was outwitted, though Hampton and Kendall played a fast game, the latter scoring in the first quarter. McDonald, Hoefler and Damback put the ball over for Oregon City, Damback having two touchdowns to his credit, while Beattie also starred in the back field. Vierhus, Harbison, Warner and Captain Wilson made a strong line. Rutherford replaced Mass in the third quarter.

High school fans from both towns were out in force and the Oregon City rooters cheered their team to victory.

Coach King is well satisfied with the progress of his team, which has won its second game this season without a defeat, and will play the Salem high on Saturday of next week at Salem.

Potato Harvest Will Start Next Week

Next week will see the potato harvest on in full blast. In this county, probably one of the most productive districts in Clackamas county for spuds is that of the Sandy district. The soft, sandy soil in that neighborhood produces fine yields and the potatoes are very large. The American Wonder seems to be the most popular brand there, and while not many grow in each hill, the size and quality of the product surpasses that of the California kind. Farms situated on the "Hog Back" ridge, about three miles from Sandy, have the most fertile soil in the world for potatoes. The frost does not reach the high places there, and the climatic conditions seem to be the best for fruit and vegetables.

EDITORS FOR STATE OFFICES HAVE GOOD LOOK IN WISCONSIN

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 18.—The present outlook indicates that Wisconsin newspaper men will have a large representation among the candidates for state offices in the 1920 campaign. It is stated on good authority that Merlino Hull, publisher of the Black River Falls Journal, who is secretary of state, will enter the field as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. O. G. Munson, publisher of the Viroqua Censor, a former state senator and chief clerk of the Wisconsin senate for several years past, will try for the Republican nomination for secretary of state. Col. John Turner, formerly publisher of the Mauston Star, is understood to be candidate for state treasurer on the Republican ticket.

JOHNSON TELLS WHY HE KILLED HIS BENEFACTOR

PORTLAND, Oct. 21.—Fear that Mrs. Eunice W. Freeman, who obtained the parole of Clarence Johnson from the San Quentin prison, would cause his return to the penitentiary as a parole violator is given by Johnson as his reason for murdering Mrs. Freeman on August 15.

"I didn't want to kill her, but hell, I couldn't help it," said Johnson, in a corridor of the Multnomah county jail this morning, as he told in detail how he murdered Mrs. Freeman, at her home at 424 Fourth street.

With scarcely a sign of emotion Johnson repeated how he had fought against his desire to murder not only his aged benefactress but also another woman, whose name he refuses to divulge.

After he killed Mrs. Freeman, according to his story, he waited an hour and a half at the hotel of the other woman whose life he planned to take.

Then he visited the city park, spent an hour in a moving picture theater and made two trips to his room before he decided that safety lay in flight. He left for Seattle at 4 o'clock that afternoon.

One day was spent in Seattle and the next day he sailed for Alaska, where he was arrested by U. S. Marshal Emmett Jordan, of Nome, upon telegraphic advices from the Portland police.

A. Z. AYERS SUES FOR DIVORCE ON FRAUD CHARGES

Recision of the marriage contract which binds him to Greta Smith Ayers on grounds of fraud, coercion and intimidation is demanded by A. Z. Ayers, aged 19, in an unusual suit filed in the circuit court Saturday at Portland. He was married at Vancouver, Wash., August 11, 1915.

Charles Cassidy and Mrs. Harriet Cassidy, step-father and mother of his bride, are held responsible for the marriage, into which Ayers maintains he was forced. They came to his home in Oregon City by automobile, he asserts, and took him to Vancouver, where Mrs. Cassidy represented that he was 21 years old and by threats and intimidation compelled him to contract marriage with her daughter, according to the complaint.

From the license bureau, Ayers says he was taken "to a grasping minister, who performed the marriage ceremony."

Numerous false representations were made to the young man as a result of which he married the girl, it is asserted, though they are not set out in detail. One concerned her previous chaste character, he says, but he contends that he discovered after marriage that his wife had at one time been an inmate of the Cedars.

The young couple lived together three weeks, when the wife is alleged to have represented that her mother was sick at Independence, Or., and that she would have to go to her. Ayers declares she went to live with one Budley Lewis, going from Independence to Hood River with him.

E. M. Melody was appointed guardian ad litem to act for Myers in the bringing of the suit for annulment of the marriage contract.

Charges Husband With Move Habit

Edna A. Grant, who was married at Astoria, October 2, 1912, to John R. Grant, has filed suit for divorce, alleging her husband had a disagreeable habit of remaining only a short time in a town, and that in every locality where he lived he went into debt, signing notes and obtaining her signature. She asks to be allowed to resume her maiden name of Edna A. Frelove.

About 35 of Company F appeared in uniform in their new hall last Monday evening. The boys are very proud of their new outfit and will may they be.

The case was tried before a jury which went down to Gladstone and looked over the premises. C. Schuebel appeared for Mrs. Schoenhelz and the Forshners were represented by Jos. E. Hedges.

LEADERS IN SENATE TO AGREE UPON 7 CHANGES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—When the senate ratifies the treaty of Peace some time between now and November 15 there will be incorporated in the resolution of ratification seven reservations.

There may be some slight modification and in the final form there may be some concessions to secure the acceptance of these reservations by the senate leaders for the administration. These reservations have been approved by the so-called mild reservationists, including Senators McNary, Kellogg, Lenroot, Nelson and three or four others.

The reservations as given herewith have been tentatively approved by Senator Lodge, chairman of the foreign relations committee, and other members of the committee. The first four have been expected all along, but the fifth on Shantung and the sixth and seventh on voting are new.

All of them have been clarified and made somewhat more drastic than the administration hoped for, but the acceptance of these in practically the form given by the Democratic senators is the only basis on which the treaty of peace can be ratified.

The seven reservations to be incorporated in the resolution of ratification of the peace treaties are:

First Reservation—Withdrawal

"That the United States understands and construes article 1 that in case of notice of withdrawal from the League of Nations as provided in said article, the United States shall be the sole judge as to whether all its international obligations and all its obligations under said covenant have been fulfilled."

Second Reservation Concerning Article X

"The United States assumes no obligations to preserve the territorial integrity or political independence of any other country, or to interfere in controversies between nations, whether members of the league or not, under the provision of article X or to employ the military and naval forces of the United States under any article of the treaty for any purpose, unless in any particular case the congress, which, under the constitution, has the sole power to declare war or authorize the employment of the military and naval forces of the United States, shall by act of joint resolution, so declare."

Third Reservation Concerning Domestic Questions

"The United States reserves to itself exclusively the right to decide what questions are within its domestic jurisdiction, and declares that all domestic and political questions relating to its internal affairs, including immigration, coastwise traffic, the tariff, commerce and all other domestic questions, are solely within the jurisdiction of the United States and are not under this treaty, submitted in any manner to arbitration or to the consideration of the council or the assembly of the league of Nations, or to the decision or recommendation of any other power."

Fourth Reservation Concerning Monroe Doctrine

"The United States does not bind itself or submit for arbitration or inquiry by the assembly any question which, in the judgment of the United States depends upon or involves the long-established policy commonly known as the Monroe doctrine, said doctrine is to be interpreted by the United States alone and is hereby declared to be wholly outside the jurisdiction of said League of Nations; and it is preserved unaffected by any provision in said treaty contained."

Fifth Reservation Concerning Shantung

"The United States refrains from entering into any agreement on its part in reference to the matters contained in articles 56, 57 and 58 and reserves full liberty of action in respect to any controversy which may arise in relation thereto."

Sixth Reservation Concerning Vote of Dominions (Where Neither Principal Country nor Dominion is Party to Dispute)

"The United States reserves the right, upon the submission of any dispute to the council or the assembly, to object to any member and its self-governing dominions, dependencies or possessions having in the aggregate more than one vote; and in case such objection is made the United States assumes no obligation to be bound by any election, finding or decision in which such member and its dominions, dependencies and possessions have in the aggregate cast more than one vote."

Seventh Reservation Concerning Votes of Dominions (When Principal or Dominion is Party to Dispute)

"That the United States understands and construes the words 'dispute between members' in article 15 to mean that a dispute with a self-governing dominion, colony, dependency represented therein and that a dispute with such dominant or principal member is a dispute with all its self-governing dominions, colonies or dependencies; and that the exclusion of the parties to the dispute provided in the last paragraph of said article will cover not only the dominant or principal member but also its dominions, colonies and dependencies."

A Question of Method

Time changes and men change with the times. A few years ago, the few advocates of good roads in Clackamas county were considered by the rank and file, a dangerous and noisy element, with no possibility of carrying out their Utopian dream.

Times have changed and its safe to predict the next general election will find most of the candidates for local office adopting as their published slogan: "I am the first, only and original good roads advocate in Clackamas county."

With the county sections almost unanimous for good roads, the point of division has narrowed down to the question of the manner in which construction is to be financed, and how fast shall construction proceed.

At a recent meeting in the courthouse, with residents of the country districts in the majority, they declared their sentiments for issuing bonds to the extent of $1,700,000 and building roads, and building them as quickly as road beds could be prepared, in no uncertain voice, for of the 137 persons who stood up, 124 voted for and 13 against bonds.

Chas. E. Spence master of the state grange consistent in his opposition to bonds is heading a movement, for the purpose of crystallizing sentiment favorable to voting a five mill tax levy for ten years, extending the work over a period of that duration, and expending $1,500,000 on the pay as you go plan. Evidently the battle will not be waged against road construction; but will be centered on how best to finance the undertaking. The question is one where men may well differ in opinion. During the next few weeks advocates of each plan will carry their arguments into every corner of Clackamas county in a campaign of argument and education that will leave the voter no excuse for not casting an intelligent ballot on the question whose proper solution means much to the county.

COAL MINE STRIKE MAY BE STOPPED BY WILSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Failure of operators and miners to settle their difference after a four-hour conference today with Secretary of Labor Wilson may force the government to step in and prevent the strike of 500,000 bituminous coal miners called for November 1.

Although another effort will be made tomorrow to bring peace to the industry the fight tonight loomed big and close at hand and leaders of the two sides said there was little hope.

While the full scale committees representing miners and operators were fighting their battles today behind a closed door, a strike storm raged in the senate, and federal agencies looked up the law, firmly convinced that it would have to be invoked to save the country from untold distress and suffering, with mines shut down and less than a month's stock on hand to keep fires burning.

President Wilson Continues To Gain

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—President Wilson rested comfortably today and his physicians were increasingly hopeful that the prostatic complication which has retarded his recovery would not necessitate an operation.

FARM BUREAU ASKS COUNTY'S AID TO ERADICATE PESTS

The members of the executive committee of the Clackamas County Farm Bureau met at the court house Saturday afternoon and perfected a more complete organization. The question of paid membership was discussed and decided against for the present. It was decided to circulate a petition for presentation to the county court, asking for a fund sufficient to provide for the extermination of the squirrels that are a pest in some sections of the county. Canada thistles will also receive the attention of the bureau and an earnest effort will be made to have the law providing for their eradication enforced.

COW CASE CARRIED TO CIRCUIT COURT FOR FINAL TEST

Fred Wendland was recently awarded a judgment against John Blum in Justice Stipp's court for $100 and costs amounting to $22.60, the amount being claimed as damages sustained by Mr. Wendland in the purchase of a cow which it was claimed did not measure up to the guarantee given. Mr. Blum Saturday filed an appeal and will carry the case to the circuit court.

GOVERNOR HUGHES MAKES STRONG PLEA FAVORING MEMORIAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—William Boyce Thompson, president of the Roosevelt Memorial Association, today gave out the following statement from Charles E. Hughes, former Governor of New York and ex-Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, who is an honorary president of the Association:

"I have a great desire that in all that is done memorializing Colonel Roosevelt, that there should be constantly impressed upon the succeeding generations of America, the habit of thought and the ideals of that man as he actually was and walked among us. If there is anything that has rescued Washington from the mists of an impossible legendary character, and brought him to us and enabled us in some way to reconstruct his life, it is Mount Vernon and the picture of the conditions amid which he actually lived. And in a future day, I have no doubt there will be pilgrimages to Sagamore Hill in equal number with those that are made to Mount Vernon, and in that community there may be gathered various articles which will illustrate his activities, and there will be continued the atmosphere of his home, and the place where he lived among his neighbors, and in his hours of retirement after his public service."

"But after all, we have this to consider. You can never perpetuate memory by monuments; those whose memory will ever abide, need no monuments. Nothing can be done in the way of tribute to the great; they abide because they are great; they abide because there is something in their influence which humanity needs."

"There is an instinct in humanity which goes out after the food of the soul, just as there is an instinct in the animal to go out after its natural food, and those who have really sensed those who have enlarged our conception of what the human mind is capable of, those who have really touched the hearts of the masses and made the people feel that here is a great man, kin to all—those can never die; and I believe that Theodore Roosevelt is one of those abiding personalities."

"The invested capital of American democracy consists in the memory of her great leaders and servants, and among those we put in the foremost rank our old friend, Theodore Roosevelt."
