Home of Roosevelt's Mother May Be Memorial

NEW YORK, October 18.—Leading Southerners, including United States senators, have joined in an organized movement to make the birthplace of Theodore Roosevelt's mother, the famous old Bulloch homestead at Roswell, Ga., a permanent Roosevelt memorial.

Both the Georgia senators, Hoke Smith and William J. Harris, as well as former Senator Thomas W. Hardwick, all of whom were active political opponents of the late president, are leaders in the movement.

Seven Reservations

Everybody except the rubber stamp individual who votes and thinks under orders ought to be satisfied with the reservations to the League of Nations as suggested by Republican and Democratic senators alike. Some of the reservations may, at first glance, appear drastic, but a study of them indicates they merely safeguard to our statesman of the future that integrity of American citizenship that has kept this country free from the intricacies of European politics.

The initial reservation leaves the United States the sole judge as to whether all of its obligations under the covenant have been fulfilled. Who is there to argue that a European nation should be the judges of our conduct? The second reservation provides that the United States assumes no obligations to preserve the territorial integrity or political independence of any other country or to interfere with controversies between nations, or to employ the military or naval forces of this country for any purpose, unless congress, which, under our constitution has the sole power to authorize the employment of such forces, shall by joint resolution, so declare.

The third and fourth reservations reserve to the United States the right to decide what questions are within its domestic jurisdiction, and provide that all domestic questions are not subject to treatment at the hands of the League and saves the application of the Monroe Doctrine for this country to decide. The fifth clause reserves full liberty of action on the part of the United States as to the Shantung agreement, and the sixth and seventh reservations refer to the six votes of England and her dominions, whether the principal country involved or any dominion is a party to the dispute or not.

The United States does not want to be forced to make a separate treaty with Germany, but neither should the Senate, authorized under our constitution to ratify or reject treaties, be forced to swallow any document, with a tail tied to it, unless it is satisfied that the rights of this nation are fully preserved.

IN SOCIETY CIRCLES

The engagement of Miss Eva Estelle Wallace and Edwin P. Edwards, of Gladstone, is announced, the marriage to be a very quiet affair, and will be solemnized November 12. Miss Amy Peckover is to be the bridesmaid and Merritt Wilson will be best man. The bride-elect is an accomplished young woman, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wallace, of Parkplace.
