

Rainbow's End

..A NOVEL.

BY REX BEACH

Author of
"The Iron Trail," "The Spoilers"
"Heart of the Sunset," etc.

Copyright by Harper and Brothers

CHAPTER XII.

A Woman With a Mission.
Within a few hours after O'Reilly's return to New York he telephoned to Felipe Alvarado, explaining briefly the disastrous failure of his Cuban trip.

"I feared as much," the doctor told him. "You were lucky to escape with your life."
"Well, I'm going back. Won't you intercede for me with the junta? They're constantly sending parties."
"Um-m! not quite so often as that," Alvarado was silent for a moment; then he said: "Dine with me tonight and we'll talk it over. I'm eager for news of my brothers and—there is some one I wish you to meet. She is interested in our cause."
"She? A woman?"

"Yes, and an unusual woman. She has contributed liberally to our cause. I would like you to meet her."

"Very well; but I've only one suit of clothes, and it looks as if I'd slept in it."

"Oh, bother the clothes!" laughed the physician. "I've given most of my own to my destitute countrymen. Don't expect too much to eat, either; every extra dollar, you know, goes the same way as my extra trousers. It will be a sort of patriotic 'poverty party.' Come at seven, please."

That evening O'Reilly anticipated his dinner engagement by a few moments in order to have a word alone with Alvarado.

"This lady who is coming here tonight has influence with Enriquez," Alvarado told him. "You remember I told you that she has contributed liberally. She might help you."

O'Reilly had met women with ideals, with purposes, with avocations, and his opinion of them was low. Women who had "missions" were always tiresome, he had discovered. This one, it appeared, was unusual only in that she had adopted a particularly exacting form of charitable work. Nursing, even as a rich woman's diversion, must be anything but agreeable.

O'Reilly pictured this Evans person in his mind—a large, plain, elderly creature, obsessed with impractical ideas of uplifting the masses! She would undoubtedly bore him stiff with stories of her work; she would reproach him with neglect of his duties to the suffering. Johnnie was too poor to be charitable and too deeply engrossed at the moment with his own troubles to care anything whatever about the "masses." And she was a "miss." That meant that she wore thick glasses and probably kept cats.

A ringing laugh from the cramped hallway interrupted these reflections; then a moment later Doctor Alvarado was introducing O'Reilly to a young woman so completely out of the picture, so utterly the opposite of his preconceived notions, that he was momentarily at a loss. Johnnie found himself looking into a pair of frank gray eyes, and felt his hand seized by a firm, almost masculine grasp. Miss Evans, according to his first dazzling impression, was about the most fetching creature he had ever seen and about the last person by whom any young man could be bored. The girl—and she was a girl—had brought into the room an electric vitality, a breeziness hard to describe. Altogether she was such a vision of healthy, unaffected and smartly gotten-up young womanhood that O'Reilly could only stammer his acknowledgment of the introduction, inwardly berating himself for his awkwardness.

Alvarado placed an affectionate hand upon Miss Evans' shoulder. "O'Reilly, this girl has done more for Cuba than any of us. She has spent a small fortune for medical supplies," said he.

"Those poor men must live on quinine," the girl exclaimed. "Anyone who can bear to take the stuff ought to have all he wants. I've a perfect passion for giving pills."

O'Reilly liked this girl. He had liked her the instant she favored him with her friendly smile, and so, trusting fastidiously to his masculine powers of observation, he tried to analyze her. He could not guess her age, for an expensive ladies' tailor can bamboozle the most discriminating eye. Certainly, however, she was not old—she had an idea that she would tell him her exact age if he asked her. While he could not call her beautiful, she was something immensely better—she was alive, human, interesting, and interested. The fact that she did not take her "mission" over-seriously proved that she was also sensible beyond most women. Yes, that was it. Miss Norine Evans was a perfectly sensible, unspoiled young person, who showed the admirable effects of clean living and clean thinking coupled with a normal, sturdy constitution. O'Reilly told himself that there was a girl who could pour tea, nurse a sick man, or throw a baseball.

And she was as good as her promise. She did not interrupt when, during dinner, Alvarado led Johnnie to talk about his latest experience in Cuba, but, on the contrary, her unflagging interest induced O'Reilly to address his talk more often to her than to the doctor. He soon discovered that she understood the Cuban situation as well as or better than he, and that her sympathies were keen. She was genuinely moved by the gallant struggle of the Cuban people, and when the dinner was over she exploded a surprise which left both men speechless.

"I'm Going Right to the Insurrectos With You."

"This settles it with me," she announced. "I'm going right to the insurrectos with you."

"With me!" O'Reilly could not conceal his lack of enthusiasm. "I don't know that the junta will take me."

"They will if I ask them. You say the rebels have no hospitals, no nurses—"

"We do the best we can, with our equipment."

"Well, I'll supply better equipment, and I'll handle it myself. I'm in earnest. You shan't stop me."

The physician stirred uneasily. "It's utterly absurd," he expostulated. "Some women might do it, but you're not the sort. You are—pardon me—a most attractive young person. You'd be thrown among rough men."

"Mr. O'Reilly will look out for me. But, for that matter, I can take care of myself. Oh, it's of no use trying to discourage me. I always have my own way; I'm completely spoiled."

"Your family will never consent," O'Reilly ventured; whereupon Miss Evans laughed.

"I haven't such a thing. I'm alone and unincumbered. No girl was ever so fortunate. But wait—I'll settle this whole thing in a minute." She quitted the table, ran to Alvarado's telephone, and called a number.

"She's after Enriquez," groaned the physician. "He's weak; he can't refuse her anything."

"I don't want a woman on my hands," O'Reilly whispered, fiercely. "Suppose she got sick? Good Lord! I'd have to nurse her." He wiped a sudden moisture from his brow.

"Oh, she won't get sick. She'll probably nurse you—and all the other men. You'll like it, too, and you will all fall in love with her—everybody does—and start fighting among yourselves. There! She has Enriquez. Listen."

Johnnie shivered apprehensively at the directness with which Miss Evans put her request. "You understand, I want to go and see for myself," she was saying. "If you need medicines I'll give them—bushels of the nastiest stuff I can buy. I'll organize a field hospital. . . . Oh, very well, call it a bribe, if you like. Anyhow, I've fully determined to go, and Mr. O'Reilly has volunteered to take care of me. He's charmed with the idea." Miss Evans giggled. "That means you'll have to take him along, too."

There followed a pause during which the two men exchanged dismayed glances.

"She doesn't seem to care what she says," O'Reilly murmured. "But—I'll put a flea in Enriquez' ear."

"Put it in writing, please." There was a wait. "Now read it to me. . . . Good!" Miss Evans fairly purled over the telephone. "Send it to me by messenger right away; that's a dear. I'm at Doctor Alvarado's house, and he's beside himself with joy. Thanks, awfully. You're so nice." A moment, and she was back in the dining room facing her two friends—a picture of triumph. "You have nothing more to say about it," she gloated. "The provisional government of Cuba, through its New York representatives, extends to Miss Norine Evans an invitation to visit its temporary headquarters in the Sierra de—something-or-other, and deems it an honor to have her as its guest so long as she wishes to remain there. Now then, let's celebrate."

She executed a dance step, plumed herself around the room, then plumped herself down into her chair. She rattled her cup and saucer noisily, crying, "Fill them up, Doctor Gloom. Let's drink to Cuba Libre."

Johnnie managed to smile as he raised his demi-tasse. "Here's to my success as a chaperon," said he. "I'm disliked by the Spaniards, and now the Cubans will hate me. I can see happy days ahead."

O'Reilly arose early the next morning and hurried down to the office of the junta, hoping that he could convince Mr. Enriquez of the folly of allowing Norine Evans to have her way. But his respect for Miss Evans' energy and initiative deepened when, on arriving at 56 New Street, he discovered that she had forestalled him and was even then closeted with the man he had come to see. Johnnie waited uneasily; he was dismayed when the girl finally appeared, with Enriquez in tow, for the man's face was radiant.

"It's all settled," she announced, at sight of O'Reilly. "I've speeded them up."

(Continued in next issue.)

Mystic Shriners

Choose Portland

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., June 12.—Portland, Or., was selected as the city which will entertain the 1920 Imperial of the Mystic Shrine, by the Imperial council, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles council meeting here today. The convention will be held in the Pacific coast city in June of 1920, during the annual Portland Rose Festival.

ASKS DIVORCE.

Inez Matthews filed suit for divorce Saturday against E. R. Matthews, alleging desertion.

They were married in Oregon City in December 1917, and have one son, of which she asks the custody. The alleged desertion occurred in January, 1918.

Tennessee Mountain Girl Who Became Bride of One of the Great War Heroes

This is the Tennessee mountain girl who has just become the bride of Sergeant Alvin C. York, hero of the Argonne drive, who accomplished the greatest individual feat of the war. This girl is seventeen, Miss Grace Williams, is very proud of her stalwart, unassuming husband, not only because he killed twenty Germans, captured 132 more and put thirty-six machine guns out of action, but because he did his duty, although he had been a conscientious objector until his commander convinced him he was fighting for a religious cause.

KENNETH ALTNOW WAS YOUTH WHO SAVED BURNING AUTOMOBILE

Kenneth Altnow, who was killed at Canemah when his motorcycle struck a rough piece of road near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Telford, Monday afternoon, was in the U. S. service during the war, and also his brother, the latter who has been in France, was recovering from wounds received in battle. Both young men had come to this city to make their home, Kenneth having been employed for some time at the Hawley Pulp & Paper Company's plant before entering the motorcycle business here.

It was through the presence of mind of Kenneth Altnow that the life of his brother and several others in an automobile were saved. The young man was driving the machine across the suspension bridge, when in some manner the machine caught fire, and Kenneth Altnow jumped from the automobile, extinguished the flames with his over-ear cap and disconnected the battery wires.

Although the young man had resided in Oregon City but a few months, he had made many friends, and had established a good business at Ninth and Main streets.

Auto Turns Over On Highway Trip

Mrs. Minnie J. Vopder Ahe, accompanied by her daughter, Louise, and son, Carl, of Hood River, and Miss Spears, of San Francisco, who is a guest at the Vonder Ahe home in Hood River, had a most eventful trip over the highway. At one point they saw a full-grown deer, leaping across the highway, and stopped the automobile in order not to frighten the animal. It was a beauty and did not seem to mind the presence of the motorists. At another point they saw an upturned automobile down a ravine of about 25 feet deep. The automobile turned two complete summersaults before landing at the bottom but the occupants escaped injury.

Mrs. Vonder Ahe is visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Jaggar, and other relatives at Crater, and also at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Arthur Millin and other relatives in Oregon City. They will return to Hood River Saturday evening.

GOVERNOR E. LISTER DIES LAST SATURDAY AFTER LONG ILLNESS

SEATTLE, Wash., June 14.—Ernest Lister, twenty-second governor of Washington, died at 8:30 o'clock this morning at the Swedish hospital, where he has been a patient for several weeks. He had been ill for nearly a year. His trouble was diagnosed as cardiac-vascular-renal disease, which affects both heart and kidneys.

FIRE DESTROYS MILL.

ALBANY, Or., June 13.—An early morning fire completely burned the mill of the Hardwood Lumber company, a small plant at the foot of Railroad street. The loss is $10,000, on plant and stock. The warehouse of the Rorer Bros' box factory was badly damaged, with a loss of $2000, partly insured.

ASKS DIVORCE.

Inez Matthews filed suit for divorce Saturday against E. R. Matthews, alleging desertion.

They were married in Oregon City in December 1917, and have one son, of which she asks the custody. The alleged desertion occurred in January, 1918.

WILSON ARRESTS MAN WANTED AT WOODLAND, CAL.

Arthur Gayet, wanted at Woodland, Calif., for forgery, was captured Wednesday by Sheriff Wilson at the Cromer mill, 10 miles east of Eureka.

Gayet is 23 years of age and was wanted for forging a check on the First National bank of Woodland, while he was drunk. Sheriff Monroe, of Yolo county, Calif., sent a description of the man to Wilson last Saturday and the latter got word Wednesday that there was a stranger working at the Cromer mill, who proved to be the man wanted.

When arrested Gayet was surprised that he could be found in that out of the way place and took the arrest so hard that he could not eat his supper. He made a complete confession to the sheriff.

The fugitive has a glass eye but this is hardly noticeable.

NEW BOAT IS MADE FOR PORTLAND RUN AND OTHER POINTS

The "Willamette Flyer," a new boat to ply between Oregon City and Portland, is nearly ready and will be put into service in a few days. This boat will take the place of the "Kitty Moran," which has made this run for the past two years.

John Gardner and Captain Larsen, the latter captain of the "Kitty Moran," are the builders of the new boat which will have a speed of 25 miles an hour and can carry 150 passengers.

The regular run of the boat will be between Oregon City and Portland, but it is licensed to go as far as the Columbia as The Dalles and as far south on the Willamette as Eugene.

FLOWERS MAKE FITTING CLIMAX TO ROSE SHOW

PORTLAND, June 13.—Flowery chariots of all sorts, including the bedecked apparatus of the fire department, were on display in the parade that was one of the most spectacular as regards beauty of design that has ever been held in Portland.

The Goddess of Victory and her loyal maids made their last appearance on the streets this afternoon, appearing at the head of the second division of the parade. Admiral Fullam and staff were in the first division and Major William H. Johnston rode in this division.

In the third division headed by acting Mayor Bigelow came the city entries including the old fire apparatus and the new.

The fourth division was one of the most beautiful of all, being the private automobiles that in years passed have won considerable attention, and the school floats.

Various clubs and organizations, as well as business houses exhibited in the fifth division.

Tonight Portland sang. The monster community sing was held at Multnomah field, preceded by a band concert.

Band concerts were also held at the same time at the south park blocks and in the Oriental gardens.

At 9 o'clock the Royal Rosarians held a big invitational dance at Cottillion hall and the amusements in the south park held an open house, while the usual closing festivities of the Rose Festival were held downtown.

PORTLAND OPERATORS NOT TO WALKOUT IN GENERAL STRIKE

PORTLAND, June 16.—There will be no strike of telephone operators or electrical workers in Portland, according to statements issued today by chiefs of the two crafts.

With the exception of the walkout this morning on the part of 1600 linemen, switchboard men and telephone operators at the plants of the Southern California Telephone company at Los Angeles and neighboring towns, quiet seems to prevail at all other Pacific Coast points today.

ATTORNEY DENYS GUILT

PORTLAND, June 12.—George A. Hall, an attorney who was co-defendant with John N. Slevens, Harry L. Henderson and Ethel Henderson in the $24,000 damage suit brought last March by Mrs. Pernella L. Tyler to recover the money alleged to have been extorted from her by fraud, filed an action in the circuit court today asserting good faith in all transactions in which he was involved and seeking to restrain prosecution of the Tyler suit until he is given an opportunity to prove that he had no personal liability. An accounting from all parties involved is asked.

IRISH DENY REPORT

LONDON, June 17.—The Irish office today issued a categorical denial of the charges contained in the report on conditions in Ireland made by Frank P. Walsh and others.

Rose From Plain Gob to a Lieutenant and Helped Pilot NC-4 Across Atlantic

Ambitious gobs have been absorbing what lies behind the success of Lieutenant Walter Hinton, U. S. N. He entered the navy as an enlisted man in 1913 and is now an officer because he is the sort of man the navy wants. He was one of the pilots of the NC-4, the lame duck of the flying fleet which started for Europe, was forced to drop out of the race, but overcame hard luck and was the only one of the NC fleet to reach Europe.

TWO MEET DEATH IN AEROPLANE ACCIDENT

PORTLAND, June 13.—In full view of hundreds of persons crowding the flying field at Eastmoreland, a private aeroplane, driven by W. B. Hutchinson, wealthy Walla Walla rancher, and in which Sergeant John Millowski, of Mather flying field, was a passenger, crashed into the concrete sidewalk of East Twenty-ninth street, following a sensation fall of several hundred feet.

Both men were killed instantly. The plane was smashed to fragments. The bodies of the pilot and his passenger were mingled almost inextricably with the controls of the machine.

Hutchinson was a former navy air service lieutenant. He bought the machine recently in San Francisco. It was one of the Canadian Curtiss type. He shipped it to Portland and completed assembling it yesterday. It was his intention to drive it to Walla Walla where it was his intention to use it for communication between his two ranches.

A few minutes before the catastrophe, Hutchinson had made a landing. Then he took up Millowski, who had had only 40 hours flying experience.

With Millowski he performed that spectacular falling "stunt" known as the leaf, in which the machine rocks from side to side as it falls. Then, on an even-keel, he started south. He dived.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

Those who saw the tragedy declare that he failed to shut off his engine, and that as a result when 200 feet from earth he found it impossible to regain control.

TELEGRAPHERS CLAIM 22,000 ARE ON STRIKE

CHICAGO, June 13.—The second stage of the commercial telegraphers' strike will be reached tomorrow, when railroad operators at 23,000 points in America are to discontinue handling commercial messages under an order issued by the Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

Such action, strike leaders declared tonight, will tie up all commercial telegraph business except between the larger cities, in which the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies maintain their own offices.

Meanwhile officers of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America continue to receive reports indicating the strike is spreading. S. J. Konenkamp, international president of the union, said the number of strikers had reached 22,000; that the strike of electrical workers set for next Monday would add 130,000 workers to the list of those idle, and that by early next week telephone service in many cities and towns will be greatly impaired through walkouts of operators.

TROOPSHIP IN COLLISION WITH BIG STEAMER

NEW YORK, June 12.—The lives of 560 persons were endangered when the big former Hamburg-American liner Graf Waldersee, now a troop transport, was rammed by the steamer Redondo in a dense fog 100 miles off the coast early today.

The transports Patricia and Levathia, bound for New York with troops, rushed to the side of the sinking Waldersee in response to her wireless dispatch of distress. A wireless dispatch a few hours after the collision reported that all the passengers and crew of the big transport were taken off by the Patricia. The Patricia is towing the Graf Waldersee to port, but her fire and engine rooms are so badly flooded it is doubtful if she will remain afloat. The Redondo, operated by the United States shipping board, was not badly damaged and made this port without assistance shortly after 8 o'clock.

ATLANTIC OCEAN IS SPANNED BY BRITISH PLANE

LONDON, June 16.—First to cross the Atlantic ocean in non-stop flight by airplane, Captain John Alcock, pilot, and Lieutenant Arthur W. Brown, navigator of the Vickers-Vimy machine in which the epoch-making trip was completed yesterday, today are receiving congratulations from every part of the world. The flight was accomplished in 16 hours and 12 minutes. The average speed from St. Johns, N. F., to Clifden, Ireland, was about 120 miles, the distance being more than 1900 miles.

Italy Prepared To Prevent Attack

PARIS, June 13.—General Diaz, the Italian commander in chief, has left for Italy to organize Italian defenses against the Jugo-Slavs on the Carinthian frontier.

(Recent reports stated that the Jugo-Slavs had invaded Carinthia, attacking the Austrians. Later it was said that an armistice had been signed and that hostilities had ceased.)

General Diaz was accompanied by Premier Orlando, head of the Italian delegation.

A secret session of the Italian chamber of deputies will be held on June 19 to consider the whole situation.

Before he left Paris Premier Orlando made a statement defending his refusal to negotiate with the Jugo-Slavs.

University Student Is Reinstated

EUGENE, Or., June 13.—John G. Dundore of Portland, who was expelled from the University of Oregon at the beginning of this term for implication in the publication of the Scarlet Sheet during Easter vacation, was relieved of the expulsion penalty and was ordered suspended for one term at a meeting of the faculty today.

New evidence introduced tends to show, in the judgment of the faculty, that Dundore was less responsible than the other three for the material printed in the Scarlet Sheet. As a result the faculty has shown leniency toward him. The suspension imposed is for the term just ending.

Gotham Street Is Scene of Holdup

NEW YORK, June 13.—Six hold up men operating at the entrance of an elevated station in up town Manhattan attacked two messengers of the Colonial bank shortly before noon today and made off in an automobile with a large sum of money, which was being carried to the federal reserve bank.

One of the messengers shot one of the robbers, who was carried to the automobile by his companions.

TO BOOST JOHNSON.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—The Hiram W. Johnson boom for president of the United States will be started here tomorrow night. Representative Republicans from all sections of the state will attend the gathering. Chester Rowell, of Fresno, who was scheduled to serve as chairman of the meeting, will not be able