

Rainbow's End

A NOVEL.

BY REX BEACH

Author of
"The Iron Trail," "The Spoilers"
"Heart of the Sunset," etc.

Copyright by Harper and Brothers

"You're an early riser," the lazzie remarked. "I hardly expected—"

Enriquez broke in. "Such enthusiasm! Such ardor! She whirls a person off his feet."

"It seems that the Junta lacks money for another expedition, so I've made up the deficit. We'll be off in a week."

"Really? Then you're actually going?"

"Of course. Don't be hateful, and argumentative, or I'll begin to think you're a born chaperon." Miss Evans exclaimed. "Come! Make up your mind to endure me. And now you're going to help me buy my tropical outfit."

With a smile and a nod at Enriquez she took O'Reilly's arm and bore him away.

The days of idle waiting that followed were trying, even to one of O'Reilly's philosophical habit of mind. He could learn nothing about the Junta's plans, and, owing to his complete uncertainty, he was unable to get work.

At last there came a message which brought them great joy. Enriquez directed them to be in readiness to leave Jersey City at seven o'clock the following morning. Neither Johnnie nor Leslie Branch slept much that night.

As they waited in the huge, barlike station Enriquez appeared with Norine Evans upon his arm. The girl's color was high; she was tremulous with excitement. Leslie Branch, who saw her for the first time, emitted a low whistle of surprise.

"Glory be! That goddess!" he cried. When Norine took his hand, bloodless hand in her warm grasp and flashed him her frank, friendly smile, he capitulated instantly.

Enriquez was introducing a newcomer now, one Major Ramos, a square-jawed, forceful Cuban, who, it seemed, was to be in command of the expedition.

"My duties end here," Enriquez explained. "Major Ramos will take charge of you, and you must do exactly as he directs. Ask no questions, for he won't answer them. Good-by and good luck."

When he had gone the three Americans followed their new guide through the iron gates.

Major Ramos proved that he knew how to obey orders even though the other members of his party did not. He remained utterly deaf to Miss Evans' entreaties that he let her know something about the plans of the expedition; he would not even tell her where he was taking her, where the other filibusters had assembled, or from what port their ship would sail.

When Philadelphia, Washington, then Baltimore, and finally Richmond were left behind, Miss Evans was, in truth, ready to explode, and her two companions were in a similar frame of mind.

It was not until the train was approaching Charleston that Major Ramos finally announced: "This is the end of our journey; the other members of the expedition are here. But I must ask you not to talk with them or with any strangers, for our friends are being watched by detectives in the employ of the Spanish minister at Washington and by United States deputy marshals. One little indiscretion might ruin everything."

The hotel to which Major Ramos led his guests appeared to be well filled; there were many Cubans in the lobby, and the air was heavy with the aroma of their strong, black cigarettes. As the major entered they turned interested and expectant faces toward him and they eyed his companions with frank curiosity. Miss Evans became the target for more than one warmly admiring glance.

As for O'Reilly, the familiar odor of those Cuban cigarettes, the snatches of Spanish conversation which he overheard, awoke in him a great excitement; he realized with an odd thrill that these eager, dark-visaged men were now his friends and comrades, and that those Americans loitering watchfully among them were his enemies—the spies of whom Ramos had spoken. There were at least a score of the latter, and all were plainly stamped with the distinctive marks of their calling. That they, too, were interested in the latest arrivals was soon made evident by their efforts to get acquainted.

On the next afternoon word was quietly passed to get ready, and the filibusters, carrying their scant hand baggage, began to leave the hotel in groups, followed, of course, by the watchful spies.

As the three Americans prepared for departure Norine whispered: "Listen! Everything is all right. We're not going aboard the Dauntless at all; she's here as a blind."

"Are you sure?" O'Reilly shot her a quick glance.

"Major Ramos himself gave that story to the newspapers; it's all a part of his plan. I promised not to tell, but—I just can't help myself. Gee! I'm having a good time."

Leslie Branch shook his head mournfully. "You may enjoy it, but I don't," he grumbled. "We'll end it by being pinched, and that will finish me. One week in a damp cell, with my lungs—"

O'Reilly, whose spirits had risen magically, clapped him heartily on the back, crying: "Congratulations! You're feeling better."

"I never felt worse!" the other complained.

"Nonsense! That's the first kick you've made since we hit cold weather."

"They're 'Wops,' or Greeks, or something."

By the time we reach Cuba you'll be pale and melancholy and your cough will be all gone."

Ramos led his three charges to the railroad station and into the rear coach of a south-bound train, where the other members of the expedition had already found seats. As they climbed aboard a secret service agent stepped to follow them, but he was stopped by a brakeman, who said:

"You can't ride in here; this is a special car. Some sort of a picnic party. They're 'wops' or Greeks or something."

Evening came, then night, and still the party was jerked along at the tail of the train without a hint as to its destination. About midnight those who were not dozing noted that they had stopped at an obscure pine-woods junction, and that when the train got under way once more their own car did not move. The ruse was now apparent; owing to the lateness of the hour, it was doubtful if anyone in the forward coaches was aware that the train was lighter by one car.

There was a brief delay; then a locomotive crept out from a siding, coupled up to the standing car, and drew it off upon another track. Soon the "excursion party" was being rushed swiftly toward the coast, some twenty miles away.

Major Ramos came down the aisle, laughing, and spoke to his American proteges.

"Well, what do you think of that, eh? Imagine the feelings of those good deputy marshals when they wake up. I bet they'll rub their eyes."

Miss Evans bounded excitedly in her seat; she clapped her hands.

"You must have friends in high places," O'Reilly grinned, and the Cuban agreed.

"Yes, I purposely drew attention to us in Charleston, while our ship was loading. She's ready and waiting for us now; and by daylight we ought to be safely out to sea. Meanwhile the Dauntless has weighed anchor and is steaming north, followed, I hope, by all the revenue cutters hereabouts."

It was the darkest time of the night when the special train came to a stop at a bridge spanning one of the deep Southern rivers. In the stream below, dimly outlined in the gloom, lay the Fair Play, a small tramp steamer; her crew were up and awake. The new arrivals were hurried aboard, and within a half-hour she was feeling her way seaward.

With daylight, caution gave way to haste, and the rusty little tramp began to drive forward for all she was worth. She cleared the three-mile limit safely and then turned south. Not a craft was in sight; not a smudge of smoke discolored the skyline.

It had been a trying night for the filibusters, and when the low coastline was dropped astern they began to think of sleep. Breakfast of a sort was served on deck, after which those favored ones who had berths sought them, while their less fortunate companions stretched out wherever they could find a place.

Johnnie O'Reilly was elated. Already he could see the hills of Cuba dancing behind their purple veils; in fancy he felt the fierce white heat from close-walled streets, and scented the odors of "mangly" swamps. He heard the ceaseless sighing of the royal palms. How he had hungered for it all; how he had raged at his delays!

It had seemed so small a matter to return; it had seemed so easy to seek out Rosa and to save her! Yet the days had grown into weeks; the weeks had aged into months. Well, he had done his best; he had never rested from the moment of Rosa's first appeal. Her enemies had felled him once, but there would be no turning back this time—rather a firing squad or a dungeon in Cabanas than that.

(Continued in next issue.)

NO $1 COFFEE LIKELY

PORTLAND, June 26.—Householders who read in a Thursday afternoon paper that the price of coffee is about to jump to $1 a pound have no cause to worry—at least to that extent. In the opinion of Arthur H. Devers of Clossett & Devers and F. C. Stephenson of Wadhams Co., the price is not likely to attain anything like that figure. They blame speculators and profiteers for advances already made and say their influence is being exerted for further rises.

ORE STRIKE RICH

LAKE CITY, Colo., June 24.—A very rich strike of gold and silver ore, running from $1000 to $5000 a ton, is reported in the Golconda mine in Horseshoe basin, near here. The ore is a ruby combination with a telluride similar to calaverite, running a little more in gold than silver, and is regarded as one of the greatest

LAW SUIT AGAINST GEORGE A. HALL AND JOHN SIEVERS OPENS

PORTLAND, June 24.—Years before the proceedings now being brought, based upon charges of conspiracy and blackmail, certain agencies began work upon a plan to rob, under the cloak of the law, a woman, then in her early eighties and weak with the infirmities of age, who had just come into a legacy of $150,000, on which she hoped she and her only son might live in comfort the rest of their days.

This was the contention of Attorney Dan J. Maloney in his opening argument before the jury today in the suit of Permelia L. Tyler against George A. Hall, a Portland attorney, John N. Sievers, an attorney of Oregon City, and Harry and Ethel Henderson, on trial before Circuit Judge Kavanagh. Already considerably more than $55,000 of a legacy received by Mrs. Tyler has disappeared, and the lawyer left a strong inference that certain practitioners at the bar are responsible for its disappearance.

On January 26 Henderson filed a suit against Mrs. Permelia Tyler for $100,000 damages, charging her with alienating the affections of Mrs. Henderson. On January 27, Sunday, at the home of Mrs. Tyler, 1604 East Forty-fifth street, Henderson, Hall and Sievers demanded that the suit be settled, it is alleged. Mrs. Tyler was ill and confined to bed. She testified at the last trial that the attorneys frightened her with threats of imprisonment for herself and her son, and that Sievers, representing her, was almost as urgent as Hall, representing Henderson, that a settlement be made. Finally, it is claimed, $20,000 worth of stock was paid over by Mrs. Tyler.

On January 28, the attorneys and Henderson are accused of dividing the money, each attorney getting one-third. The Hendersons then fled to Vancouver and have not been seen since. There is a warrant out in Multnomah county for their arrest.

NATIONS LEAGUE FIGHT MAY BE ABANDONED BY LEAGUE OPPONENTS

WASHINGTON, June 26.—There were growing indications today that opponents of the league of nations might abandon all effort "to force a test vote on the subject" in the senate before the Germans act on the peace treaty.

Hope of bringing a rollcall on the Knox resolution virtually had been abandoned and some leaders thought it might be permitted to die without even coming before the senate for action.

It was designed to give notice of opposition to accepting the league covenant along with the peace terms, and in the general opinion it will cease to serve its purpose after Germany has accepted the treaty.

CLACKAMAS PIONEERS ARE HONORED BY OREGON ASSOCIATION

PORTLAND, June 26.—Rev. A. J. Hunsacker, of Yamhill county, who came to this state in 1847, was Thursday night elected president of the Oregon Pioneer association at its meeting in the auditorium. C. H. Canfield, 1853, of Oregon City, was made vice-president, while George H. Himes, 1833, was re-elected secretary for his 33rd consecutive year. William Ladd was chosen to act as treasurer. The board of directors will include John W. Baker, 1853, of Multnomah county; Miss Ella Chamberlain, 1857, and G. D. Chitwood, 1853, of Clackamas county.

Pacific Fleet Will Make Trip East

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Movement of the new Pacific fleet from the Atlantic coast will be begun by August 1, Secretary of the Navy Daniels said today.

The fleet will be practically formed before it starts through the canal but will be joined by a few ships on the Pacific side.

Secretary Daniels may accompany the fleet. He will visit the Pacific coast in August and hopes to be able to sail with the warships.

Labor Refused To Aid Prisoners

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 26.—The American Federation of Labor, in convention here, refused today to ask for the release of so-called political and industrial prisoners convicted under the espionage and other war-time acts. Instead the federation adopted a modified resolution requesting that these acts be rescinded with the formal coming of peace.

A campaign to organize all telephone operators will be started at once, according to Julia O'Connor, international president of the telephone girls.

HUNS TALK REVENGE

BALTIMORE, June 23.—Germany's spirit is as ugly as ever, according to Dr. Raney, librarian of Johns Hopkins university, who has just returned from a trip to Europe.

The Teutons, Dr. Raney declares, have not repented or reformed. Instead, they are talking of revenge on their enemies in the next 10 or 15 years.

Dr. Raney does not believe that the acceptance of the treaty terms by the new government implies any sincere intention to abide by them.

Vacation Land

Clackamas River, the Molalla, Clear Creek, Milk Creek and other beautiful streams that make our county a vacation paradise are bringing to their banks people from the city. Rufus Holman, county commissioner of Multnomah, has purchased a summer home at Meadowbrook. Dr. R. C. Coffey is transforming the old Hackett place on the Clackamas, where he and his family may have a place set apart from the hum of town life. By the same murmuring stream Mr. Honeyman is planning a rather elaborate summer place. C. S. Jackson has a lovely spot where Clear Creek empties into the Clackamas. George Bannon of Oregon City has secured an attractive site. Dr. J. C. Elliott King is another to have a country home. Eagle Creek is becoming popular. These are only a few of the men who have seen and appreciated.

Within an hour's drive from Portland are thousands of desirable tracts along the cooling little rivers. Here and there the best of them are fast finding buyers, but there are plenty left for those who will come. The paved road will naturally speed the exodus from the city to the country, and eventually the town dweller will forsake his urban home entirely, waiting only for an all-year-round highway.

Clackamas, the Vacation Land! Rich in fertility, wonderful in attractiveness, she will become the habitat of those who, in their love of nature, seek those spots profaned only a little way by the hand of man.

ELECTRICAL WORKERS PARTLY SETTLE BIG STRIKE IN CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Striking electrical workers employed by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company in California today accepted the company's compromise, but will not return to work until the phone operators have received their full demands. L. C. Grasser, representing the electrical workers, announced today.

The electrical workers asked $6.40 a day. The company offered $6 a day. The girls were offered, and will probably reject, $12 a week for beginners and a sliding scale, based on length of service, by which they would be able to earn as high as $19 a week.

The operators allege the wage advance is misleading. They declare the maximum cannot be reached in less than seven years' service and only a small percentage of the operators would be bettered.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS TO MAKE ATTEMPT TO REPEAL LUXURY TAXES

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Another attempt will be made soon by Republican leaders in the house to repeal the luxury taxes carried in the war revenue law passed by congress last winter.

It was expected, leaders said today, that the second effort will meet with a better reception by the house because the repealing legislation will embrace all, and not be restricted to a portion of the luxury taxes and consequently its support will be more general.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

The first repealing bill, presented some weeks ago by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, repealed only the taxes imposed by Section 906 of the revenue law, which are confined largely to wearing apparel. It was attacked immediately by members who were receiving complaints from their constituents because of the war taxes on soda water, ice cream sodas, optical glasses, furs and many other things and articles in general use.

ALLIES ARE ASKED TO AID BALTIC STATES AGAINST BOLSHEVIKI

PARIS, June 16.—Colonel Warwick Green, chief of the American military mission to the Baltic states, who left Riga June 13, told the Baltic commission today that the allies should immediately extend food relief to the Baltic states, send officers to insure the enforcement of the allied ultimatum that German armies there should be withdrawn and to prevent the Bolsheviks from again overrunning the states after the Germans have left.

Colonel Green says there probably are 60,000 regularly organized German soldiers in Latvia and Lithuania, under command of General von der Goltz. In addition there are several thousand Germans and German Russians under Major Fletcher, military dictator of Riga. He declares the present Lettish and Lithuanian governments are "mere creations of Germany."

PORTLAND UNIONS VOTE IN FAVOR OF STRIKE TO AID MOONEY

PORTLAND, June 26.—A majority of union labor men in Portland are favorable to the Mooney sympathetic strike, according to reports received by the Central Labor council at its regular meeting last night. From 28 unions the total vote was 1506 for and 692 against the strike. Five unions reported in favor of the strike but failed to furnish tabulated returns of the vote to show the sentiment of the individual members. There are 66 unions affiliated with the council and that returns from all may be obtained as soon as possible a committee of ten was named to call on the unions not reporting.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Senator Proposed A Separate Peace

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Separate peace with Germany without the formality of a treaty was proposed to congress by a joint resolution introduced in the senate by Senator Fall of New Mexico.

The resolution declares the war at an end and directs the president to bring back to America immediately all the soldiers who are now abroad. The return of all the naval forces not required to remain in foreign ports in time of peace is also demanded.

The amendment also declares that the war with Germany and with Austria is at an end.

A resolution drafted along lines similar to that of Senator Falls was introduced by Senator Edge of New Jersey. The two resolutions were referred to the foreign relations committee, of which Senator Fall is one of the Republican members. The amendment to the military bill will be voted upon later in the week.

A resolution drafted along lines similar to that of Senator Falls was introduced by Senator Edge of New Jersey. The two resolutions were referred to the foreign relations committee, of which Senator Fall is one of the Republican members. The amendment to the military bill will be voted upon later in the week.

Summer Session Opens at O. A. C.

CORVALLIS, Or., June 24.—Summer session registration started Monday at the Oregon Agricultural college and every indication points to a large enrollment. Some of the prize winners in boys' and girls' club work arrived on the campus for the short course which will give them intensive work in agricultural subjects and home economics and plenty of entertainment features.

Dr. Richard Burton, head of the department of English of the University of Minnesota, well known lecturer and author, gave the first address of a series Monday night. His subject was "Mark Twain." Dr. D. V. Polling, Y. M. C. A. secretary, led in mass singing. Summer school students are being provided with meals at the college for the first time on the cafeteria plan.

League President Assails Daniels

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Statements of Secretary of the Navy Daniels recently before the house naval affairs committee as regards the character and conduct of the Navy league of the United States constitute "gross insult to 300,000 American women who have labored for the comfort and welfare of the men of the navy during the war and slander an organization which comprises among its membership many of the most noted and respected men of the nation."

Henry Breckenridge, the league's president, said yesterday in an open letter to the committee.

Villa Gets Aid From U. S. Is Asserted

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 26.—Francisco Villa's campaign against Carranza is being financed by Americans. His arms and ammunition have come from the United States despite the war time embargo. He has not had access to army reports on either the eastern or western coasts of Mexico and only along the United States boundary has he been in contact with possible sources of supply.

Jose Garza Zertuche, Mexican consul in Los Angeles, voiced these opinions today, declaring that with the capture of Juarez the Villistas had hoped to be in a position to obtain recognition of their revolt from the United States.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

Reports on labor conditions at Vancouver were given by a committee consisting of A. G. Enright, secretary; W. A. Rowe, organizer, and W. H. Gilchrist, of the Vancouver Labor council. They urged the organization of a branch of the musicians' union at Vancouver.

</