MORGAN IS NOT UP ON LABOR CONDITIONS

FINANCIER HAS NO IDEA OF WAGES WORKINGMEN SHOULD RECEIVE

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—J. P. Morgan testified before the United States commission on industrial relations in New York city that he was a director in four industrial and transportation companies, whose investment reaches the total of $2,342,627,753. They are the United States Steel corporation,

J. P. MORGAN

Pullman company, International Mercantile Marine company and Northern Pacific railroad.

Regarding the condition of these companies, other than financial, Mr. Morgan answered these questions:

Q. How many employees have they?

A. I haven't any idea.

Q. What reports have you received as to labor conditions?

A. I wouldn't expect any at all.

Q. What do you think the length of a working day should be?

A. I haven't an opinion.

Q. What do you think should be the yearly income of an unskilled workman?

A. There again I haven't an opinion.

Q. Do you think $10 a week is sufficient compensation for a longshoreman?

A. If that's all he can get and he takes it I should say that is enough.

Q. At what age should a child be allowed to go to work?

A. I haven't any opinion about that.

Q. What do you believe about an age limit for the employment of workmen?

A. That is a question I should submit to the executive officers.

Q. In which of your industries are the men organized?

A. I don't know.

Q. Are you in favor of organization?

A. I'm not opposed to anything the men want to do that's within the law.

Not a Chance.

The Problem Unsolved.

A story is told of a young man in an English town, a great chess enthusiast, who was so annoyed at his failure to solve an apparently simple problem that he vowed he would neither sleep nor eat until the solution was found. He shut himself up in a disused room and was found four days later by his relatives terribly emaciated and out of his mind. He spent a year in a lunatic asylum as a result of his rash vow, and the problem remains unsolved—Exchange.

Their Great Scheme.

A local couple, recently married, hit upon a scheme for saving that they figured was just about right. Each month they would save a certain sum each day—the first day 1 cent, the second day 2 cents, the third day 4 cents. Each day the amount was to be doubled until the end of thirty days. By that time they would have a tidy little sum laid away.

Before starting the husband figured out just how much would be accumulated in this way. After laborious work he found the amount to be something like $5,300,000. So, after considering the matter, they decided that $1 a week would be about their speed. —Youngtown Telegram.

Personal Neatness is an Asset.

A foreign ambassador who has served at several large capitals of the world told of an emissary who had returned to him from a mission and announced failure. "Were you, may I ask, wearing that waistcoat?" with a thumb jerked in the direction of the crumpled garment. "I was." "Then," said his chief, "I do not marvel at your lack of success."

Next to a cheery manner a neat appearance is any man's best capital. The two together create an atmosphere in which "luck" likes to linger. Success will not come to meet you halfway unless you look inviting and agreeable.—Christian Herald.

Why Snow is White.

Water being transparent, rays of light pass through it without being reflected by the water itself. When drops of water are partially frozen into snowflakes they are transformed into a crystalline substance with a great many reflecting surfaces, from which the rays of light are sent back, just as a mirror reflects a great deal of the light or color thrown against it.

A mass of snow is whiter than a single flake because of the countless number of crystals that are compactly grouped, thereby greatly increasing the reflective power. Like a mirror, snow will reflect the color of any light thrown upon it.—Boston Herald.
