Miss Elsie Watts Takes The Lead In The Shower With Margin of Only 810 Votes

By the small majority of 810 votes Miss Elsie Watts this morning takes the lead in the Shower of Gold over Mrs. Anna Johnson of Willamette. Both of these popular candidates made a good showing yesterday in their efforts to attain the leadership in the paper this morning with Miss Watts having a shade the best of the argument.

This however, will not be the means of the friends of Mrs. Johnson being down in the mouth. On the contrary from what we have seen of the supporters and constituents of this lady it will only serve to spur them on to further effort on behalf of their candidate.

Others in the battle of ballots remain about stationary this morning with the Eastham public school still holding the lead in the organization division. In fact the school did not poll a single, solitary vote yesterday and their standing remains the same as yesterday morning.

However, this does not prove that they are not on the job for from what we can learn every pupil in the Eastham school building have both "peepers" on the piano and are doing all possible to place it in their social hall.

At the present writing everything looks extremely rosy for all the candidates and organizations in the race. While some may be down in the list it can confidently be expected that they may, one of these fine mornings "spring something" and when they do in all probability it will place a different complexion on the list as it stands at the present time.

However, when all is said and done, there is only one time that one really wants to be on the "top of the heap" as it were and that time is one week from Sunday morning when the Enterprise will carry the names of the successful candidates. If you are out to win you will make the time intervening between now and one week from Saturday night, when the great race ends, the banner period of your campaign to date in the way of getting the votes and subscriptions of your friends.

Agriculture Will Prosper and Industry Languish While War Continues

By ROGER W. BABSON, Noted Statistician

NO expansion of our railroads can take place until this war is over. No mills can be built until peace has been declared.

This means that until there are some definite signs of peace business will not be very good, taken as a whole. GIVEN GOOD CROPS, THE AGRICULTURAL SECTIONS WILL PROSPER ON ACCOUNT OF HIGH PRICES, BUT THE INDUSTRIAL SECTIONS WILL SUFFER OWING TO LACK OF CAPITAL AND THESE HIGH PRICES FROM WHICH THE FARMER IS TO BENEFIT.

We shall have no panic, and, with the increase in railroad rates, conditions will not be as bad as many predict.

Of course, as soon as there are any signs of peace, business will pick up very rapidly, and labor will be in great demand. In fact, I believe that directly following this war our country will see one of the greatest booms in its history.

NO DOUBT PRICES WILL BE HIGH, BUT WAGES WILL ALSO BE HIGH, AND THE DEMAND FOR LABOR WILL EXCEED THE SUPPLY.

Unemployed Problem Solved

Bill Meyers Devises Hibernator

A sure and simple solution for the problem of the unemployed is being worked out by Bill Meyers. The details of the machine or device are yet a secret in the mind of the inventor, although a fair idea of its nature may be gained by its name—a hibernator. "You see, the proposition is this," said Mr. Meyers as he shoved his broad-brimmed hat on the back of his head with his left hand and thrust his right deep into his pocket. "I derived my inspiration from nature. The bear, the ground-hog, the squirrel, and every other animal unable to stand the wintry blast, hibernates. Now the question is: 'Why not man?'"

"Each winter we see thousands of men walking streets of our cities, jobless and without money. All that we can do with them until spring returns and with spring work, is to herd them together and feed them"—this latter bit of eloquence with arm extended.

"Now I ask this: 'Why cannot we profit by the example of nature and like the bear and the ground-hog place these men in a hibernator and keep them in good condition until work picks up in the spring.'"

"I am now working on the details of the hibernator but in order to protect my own interests, I cannot divulge any of the secrets of its design or construction until I have my own rights protected. I am not sure whether I will devise an article the size of a house or small enough to be carried in the pocket, but I believe that from the use of the hibernator, it must be necessary, be large."

Owing to the importance of his inspiration, Mr. Meyers is busily engaged at his home each day except when in the office of Justice of the Peace Stovers where he derives much knowledge from the Gladstonian.

C. H. ROWLAND IS A "MYSTERY MAN"

New Manager of White Sox an Unknown Quantity.

COMES FROM MINOR LEAGUE

He Failed as a Player, but Has Been Successful Handling Team—is a "Developer of Players" of the Type of Fielder Jones—He Also Has Ability to Get Runs With Few Hits.

Clarence H. Rowland, the new manager of the Chicago White Sox, is the "mystery man" of baseball. He was the manager of the Peoria team of the Three Eye league last season, and there was much surprise when it was announced that he had superseded the efficient, polished and popular Jimmy Callahan, had been lifted over the head of the experienced veteran Kid Gleason and had crowded out several experienced possibilities and been placed in charge of the White Sox for 1915.

"Who is Rowland? What has he done? Where did he play ball? Did he ever have a big league record? How can he get away with big league stuff on a minor league education? and a thousand similar questions were hurled from all sides.

Owner Comiskey's only explanation of the riddle is that Rowland is a "developer of players," the type of manager the White Sox club has not known since Fielder Jones left the club.

Connie Walsh of St. Louis, manager of the Danville Three Eye league club, who is now angling to succeed to Rowland's 1914 job as manager of Peoria, throws some interesting side lights on the man who crowded him out of the pennant last year in a nose finish and about whose big league finish there is so much speculation. According to Walsh, Rowland is a composite of Fielder Jones, Connie Mack and George Stallings, the wise owl, the fox and the wolf combined.

After listening to Walsh you gather in, among other things, a few ideas about Rowland like these: He's a regular guy. His cigars are good. His address is pleasant—at least those who live there (Dubuque) think so.

As to players, his preferences run to those noted for soft drinks and hard sense.

But he isn't teetotal. He allows his players to moisten their mustaches now and then. (N. B.—He doesn't like mustaches.)

He can destroy more third base grass in a given time than a flight of locusts or Hugh Jennings.

He discovered Rollie Daringer, but nobody holds it against him.

Reside him George Stallings seems a bowery datterer, in the matter of goat getting.

He never rides his men in public, but he uses a quilt and Mexican tilt in clubhouse workouts.

He never played for a major league club—what seems to be the major league's loss, not his.

He never managed better than a class B team.

"Rowland is a remarkable man, along Fielder Jones lines," says Walsh. "He gets results out of post stuff and weak run getters. I think he will score more runs with fewer hits and worse players than even Fielder Jones once did. 'He's a teacher. He shapes 'em up himself, like Mack. He has turned out a lot of good players. He has taken a lot of cheap players and run them into good positions, but he has never led a berth of more than class B importance. I have known a lot of baseball men, but Rowland seems to have all the requirements."

Rowland is thirty-six years old. He was born at Plattville, Wis., but removed to Dubuque, Ia., with his parents when a small tot. It was at Dubuque, the home of Ted Sullivan and the late Tom Loftis, that young Rowland first broke into the game.

When he was in knickerbockers Comiskey was earning his early fame as a ball player as a member of the Dubuque team. Clarence was a fairly good catcher when a kid, and he played good semi-pro ball about Dubuque, but he was never really heavy enough for active play in the professional ranks. He showed merit as a manager and handler of men, however, and when Dubuque needed a manager for her Three Eye league club back in 1907 Rowland was called upon to serve. He was then an employee of the late Tom Loftis and Loftis nursed him faithfully in the knowledge of the game.

Rowland then went to Winnipeg, where he stayed one season, going to the Aberdeen club of the Western Canada league in 1909. In 1912 he assumed charge of the Jacksonville (Fla.) club of the Northern association, and when that league disbanded in midseason Rowland returned to Dubuque, where he again assumed the reins as manager and part owner of the Hustlers.

KONETCHY A FEDERAL.

"Big Train" Will Stick Even if Law Prevents His Playing.

Ed Konetchy, the big first baseman who jumped from the Pittsburgh Pirates to the Pittsburgh Federal league team, says he will stay just even if the law prevents him from playing. An attempt will be made by his former employers to get an injunction restraining him from rendering service to his new team.

new employers, and if the injunction is issued Konetchy will be unable to play in Pittsburgh.

However, the "Big Train" is not worried as he has been assured that he will draw his salary whether he plays or stays at home. He had a batting average of .210 last season, a heavy drop for him. As a first baseman he stood second, having made but eight errors in 154 games during which he made 1,570 putouts and ninety-three assists.

Konetchy attributes his poor showing with the bat last year to the fact that he was unpopular with the fans and was the subject of unjust and severe censure. With better surroundings he declares that he will again be in the 300 batting class. His jump to the Federal was a severe financial blow to the Pirates, as it is reported that McGraw was ready to pay $25,000 to get Konetchy for the Giants.

1915 Schedules Same as in 1913.

The schedules of the American and the National league for 1915 will be the same as for 1913 except in so far as changes in the calendar will affect it. The opening will be on April 14. The fans need only dig up the 1913 schedule to learn how the teams will play in 1915.

The Stronger Material.

A crockery dealer was just closing up his store for the day when one of his customers, a grocer, came in in a great hurry.

"Here," said he, "I packed this jar full of butter and the jar split from top to bottom. Perhaps you can explain the phenomenon."

"Oh, yes; I can," was the ready reply. "The butter was stronger than the jar."—Atlanta Constitution.

Plain Talk.

"I think she's double faced."

"Oh, don't say that! One face like hers is bad enough!"

FRECKLES

February and March Bring Out Un- slightly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

The woman with tender skin dreads February and March because they are likely to cover her face with ugly freckles. No matter how thick her veil, the sun and winds have a strong tendency to make her freckled.

Fortunately for her peace of mind the recent discovery of a new prescription, othine—double strength, makes it possible for even those most susceptible to freckles to keep their skin clear and white. No matter how stubborn a case of freckles you have, the double strength othine should remove them.

Get an ounce from your druggist and banish the freckles. Money back if it fails. (Adv.)

70,000 Visit Oregon Display Opening Day

O. E. Freytag Writes of Success of Big Fair

Seventy thousand persons visited the Oregon building on the opening day of the Panama Pacific exposition, according to a letter received here Tuesday from O. E. Freytag, who represents Clackamas county.

Mr. Freytag, in describing the success of the Oregon exhibit, said:

"O. M. Clark counted 72 persons entering the Oregon building a minute on the opening day or about 70,000 passed through the building during that day. Everyone is wild about the Oregon building and a constant stream of people enter it. Mr. R. A. Booth, who pretended to be from Mis- souri, would stop people on the grounds to ask about the Oregon building. The reply would be: 'The Oregon building is over there where you see the big flagpole. It is the prettiest building on the grounds.'"

"The remarks are such that one feels our efforts are not in vain. The monster Willamette valley exhibit in the agriculture building containing 4035 square feet of floor space, is a hummer, and thousands of people thought it to be the Oregon building. Not less than 90,000 persons passed it today and, strange to say, people who at one time had lived in the evergreen state came into shake hands and said they wished they were back in Oregon. Many registered and asked for literature from cities in the valley. The southern and eastern Oregon exhibits are not yet complete owing to the workmen having difficulty in lifting the big logs into place. These exhibits also cover 4035 square feet of space. The exhibit will be completed within the next 24 hours."

Mr. Freytag has words of praise for the exhibit in general and declares that it "is the most wonderful thing ever attempted and that there is no real way to describe it for words are inadequate to express its beauty."

SHOWER SPRAY

Miss Watts takes the lead this morning.

Mrs. Johnson a close second, however.

And others with their "weather eye" on the leaders.

No more coupons after Saturday morning.

Subscriptions from that time until the end of the race will be the only thing that will count toward final success.

All paper votes MUST be in this office not later than 6 o'clock Monday night, March 1st.

This is positive and will be strictly adhered to.

If you want your votes counted see that they are in.

Of course, this only applies to the paper coupons which are now running in the Enterprise.

It has no bearing on the yellow certificates.

"Bright Eyes" is still wearing the smile that won't come off.

Her friends proudly assert that this little lady will be on top when the winners are announced.

And at the same time friends of others in the race make the same assertion.

Mighty hard at this time to even guess at the final winners.

Who will carry that $400.00 away from this office Saturday night, March 6th.

It will be here waiting for the lady whose name appears at the top of the column after the votes have been counted and tabulated for the last time.

Will it be you?

No reason why it cannot be.

Smile.

They're worth while.

These are sure the bustling days.

Especially between now and Saturday night.

"She of the check coat" is making nice progress these days.

"Golden Locks," Miss "Tan Suit" and Miss "Polka Dot" together with Miss "White Toga" all have their eye on that four hundred iron men.

Four hundred dollars in bright, yellow, shining golden dollars.

Oh, you mazzuma.

Hurry these last few days as you never have in the past to get your share of it.

Worrying over your chances of final success will never get you anywhere.

Enthusiasm and action will turn the trick, however.

Remember there is considerable honor in being declared the winner of the grand prize in a race of this kind.

On your way to victoryland through the land of hustle and energy.

The roads are good.

That is one week from Saturday night.

Get ready to win. You can.

IMPROVEMENT OF MAIN IS REVIVED

COUNCIL APPOINTS COMMITTEE TO STUDY PROSPECTS FOR NEW STREET

BIG CRUSHED ROCK CONTRACT IS LET

Oregon Engineering and Construction Company Gets Job—New Seventh Street Steps

Authorized

With the appointing of a committee, composed of Councilmen Albright, Templeton and Andrews, the plans of the council to force an improvement of Main street were renewed Friday night.

A motion to appoint the committee was made and passed with almost no discussion and no opposition. The committee will study the present condition of affairs, learn the attitude of the property owners and report to the council at the regular March meeting. A remonstrance, although it lacked a small fraction of the legal number of names, stopped all work on the street late last summer.

A contract to supply the city with 1000 cubic yards of crushed rock was awarded to the Oregon Engineer & Construction company. The bid of the successful applicant was $1.75 a yard for rock delivered to any part of the city excepting the Mt. Pleasant road and Molalla avenue and $1.95 for rock on those two streets.

The committee on fire and water was ordered to repair the flag on the city hall and given authority to purchase a new flag.
