VIOLA MONAHAN IS SENT TO INSTITUTION

Viola Monahan, the 16-year-old girl who has figured in juvenile court proceedings for the last year, was sent to the state training school at Salem Tuesday afternoon by Judge Anderson following her latest adventure extending over a period of seven weeks.

She figured prominently early in 1914 when a party of three boys and three girls left Oregon City for Astoria and were gone several days before they were captured. For the last seven weeks the parents of the girl had no clue as to her whereabouts. The Portland police were appointed to locate her Monday night at the Oaks. She broke down at her hearing before Judge Anderson.

PARENTS WOULD ANNUL DAUGHTER'S MARRIAGE

When Nellie Ruth Bolton, aged 16 years, returned home after eloping with Robert Guy Smith and duly informed her parents that her name was no longer Miss Bolton but was Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Bolton promptly became indignant. That happened only several days ago but Tuesday their indignity increased to such an extent that they filed a suit in the circuit court to have the marriage annulled.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bolton, of Portland, the parents of the girl, base their hopes for a decree setting aside the marriage on two points: one that both the bride and the groom are not of age and the other that the married life of the young couple has not been harmonious. Robert Guy Smith is the 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Smith.

TRANSFERS, PRICE OF NEW FRANCHISE ASKED BY W. V. S.

COUNCIL SEEKS MEASURE TO BRING TRAVELERS TO BUSINESS DISTRICT

Ordinance Further Regulating the Handling of Liquor in Clubs Planned—Abuse of Present Law Reported

That a guarantee that the Willamette Valley Southern and the Portland Railway, Light & Power company will complete a deal for the exchange of transfers may be the price demanded by the council for the latest franchise asked by the Willamette Valley Southern is evident from the stand taken by Mayor Jones and members of the council.

The Willamette Valley Southern several months ago asked the council for a franchise over the Portland Railway, Light & Power tracks north to the city limits but action was postponed. Now the former company has come before the city officials and requested that the franchise be granted but definite action is not expected until some concession is made by the company. In order to encourage travelers over the new electric line to come to the business section, Mayor Jones and the council, after a quiet conference, decided that a guarantee of exchange of transfers should be the price for the franchise.

The establishment of a new room by the Portland Railway, Light & Power Co., probably near the corner of Seventh street, will probably be urged at the next council meeting.

Among other important matters being planned by the council is an ordinance regulating the handling of liquor in certain clubs, where, it is said, the present ordinances are being ignored.

"We have had many complaints that the rights of clubs to keep stores of liquor is being abused," said Mayor Jones. "I have been waiting for several weeks until City Attorney C. Schuebel, who is also a representative, returns from the session of the legislature at Salem. He is back now and I will thoroughly discuss the matter with him as soon as possible."

When asked concerning a pre-election promise that he would urge the adoption of an ordinance to prohibit absolutely the sale of whiskey in drug stores, the executive said: "The only reason why I have not seen to it that such a measure was prepared before is the absence of Mr. Schuebel. Of course, the state law does not make such an ordinance necessary, but I will advocate its passage merely to carry out the election promise."

REV. MAU PLEADS FOR STRICT NEUTRALITY

MINISTER RECENTLY RETURNED FROM GERMANY TALKS AT GLADSTONE

The importance of neutrality to the United States was strongly brought out in the address by Rev. A. Mau, who recently returned from Germany, before the Gladstone Commercial club Tuesday night.

He declared that as an American he was neutral, and denied the right of any person to take a stand on the situation. History alone would tell the cause of the conflict and the nation or ruler who was responsible. Rev. Mau assumed such a spirit of fairness that no person in the audience, although there were sympathizers from other countries than Germany present, was offended and a vote of thanks was extended him at the end of his talk.

Rev. Mau talked on impressions gained while eight months in Germany. The condition of the country, the spirit of the people, the preparedness of the government as well as his personal experiences were told.

The meeting was held in the Gladstone school auditorium and 300 persons, including many from Oregon City, were present. The gathering was the first of a series that will be held under the auspices of the Gladstone Commercial club.

A program preceded the talk by Rev. Mau. It follows:

Introduction, by Rev. Roy L. Dunn; music by Patterson brothers orchestra; vocal solo, Mathew Stanley Williams; quartet, Mulkey, Burke, Howell and Gault; vocal solo, Nora Webster, and closing song, "America," by the audience.

A PERSONAL STATEMENT

There are so-called "honey and tar" preparations that cost the dealer half as much but sell at the same price as the original and genuine Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. We never offer these imitations and substitutes. We know you will buy Foley's whenever you need a cough syrup if you once use it. People come long distances for the true FOLEY'S—over thirty years the leading remedy for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, bronchial and lagrippe coughs. Jones Drug Co. (Adv.)

THE CORK LEG.

A so called cork leg is really not made of cork, but principally of wood. The inventor of the modern artificial leg was John Cork, and the limbs he made, which took the place of the ordinary sticks that had hitherto been used, soon became famous. When any one speaks of a cork leg he is unconsciously paying a tribute to the skill of John Cork.

They're all good Rhode Island names too.—Schenectady Gazette.

CLACKAMAS TO BE JUDICIAL DISTRICT

BILLS CHANGING BOUNDARIES NOW AWAIT SIGNATURE OF GOVERNOR

ACTS ARE EFFECTIVE IN 90 DAYS

Gill Bill Will Not Close Upper River to Net Fishing Until 20 Days After Season Opens, Say Fishermen.

Clackamas county alone will comprise the fifth judicial district if two bills passed by the legislature are signed by the governor. A measure creating a new district out of Tillamook and Washington counties and another making Clatsop and Columbia counties a separate district were approved by both houses. Washington, Clatsop, Columbia and Clackamas counties now form the fifth district.

The bills were opposed by several members of the Clackamas county delegation. Representative Schuebel made a vigorous fight against the bills from the time they first appeared. He said Tuesday he had recommended that the governor veto them.

The fifth district now has two judges: Judge Campbell and Judge Eakin. The former holds court in Washington and Clackamas counties and the latter in Clatsop and Columbia although often a change is made. Under the two bills, Judge Eakin would continue to handle his work much the same as at present but Judge Campbell would confine his efforts to Clackamas county alone.

The bills creating a new judicial district, with other acts without an emergency clause, will become effective 90 days after the adjournment of the legislature. Because of this fact, the Gill bill which will close the river to net fishing from the falls to the suspension bridge, will not stop fishing on the river until 20 days after the net fishing season is open. During that time, local fishermen believe, a great quantity of fish can be taken from the deep holes below the falls.

COUNTY FILES ANSWER TO SUIT BY LEVINGS

W. L. Mulvey, acting as special attorney for the county, has filed an answer to the complaint of Detective L. A. Levings in his suit for $2,000 against the county.

The answer alleges that the contract was not signed at a regular session of the county court and that Commissioner Mattson had no opportunity to sign it. Levings was represented to the court as a "skilled" detective by E. T. Mass then sheriff, and District Attorney Hedges, the answer states, and the court was assured that with the case resting with Levings results could be expected at once. The answer further states that the court has no information of evidence secured by Levings.

KING ALBERT SENDS THANKS TO OREGON

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 18.—In spite of the multitudinous cares brought on him by his country's dire distress, King Albert of Belgium does not forget that he and his people have good friends on the other side of the world, who are doing their best to make less the sum of Belgian misery.

The following cablegram, addressed to Samuel Hill, as chairman of the Oregon Belgian relief committee, was received this morning:

"I thank you heartily for the help you bring to my country, and send you the sincere expression of my friendship. ALBERT."

Nothing More Needed.

"Oh, yes, we always have good meals at our home."

"Then you have a good cook?"

"No. She's a plain cook and hardly passable. My wife is the real cook."

"Your wife?"

"Sure. All I have to do is to praise the cook's cooking, and then my wife goes out and does the cooking herself."

JITNEY DRIVER NABS MAN, THROWING TACKS

CUMMINGS TAKES STRANGER BEFORE MUNICIPAL JUDGE LODER

A. B. Cummings is a jitney driver and his route leads from Main street to Mountain View.

In the last week he has averaged two punctures a day; a fact that has cut into his profits. It is not to be wondered at, therefore, when he saw a man apparently throw tacks on the street he jumped from the car and grabbed him. "Come with me, I am going to take you to the police," he shouted. The stranger protested but with no result.

Cummings turned his captive over to the police and the dispute was taken up to Municipal Judge Loder. "Tell us your story," commented the judge of the tack-throwing man.

"I am an advertising man. It is my business to tack outdoor display signs on barns and fences," was the reply. "I finished my work this afternoon and threw my empty tack box in the road and three or four tacks on the grass by the road side. I had no intention of hurting the jitney business or of wrecking vengeance on automobiles." He was released.
