AUGUST J. FRIEDRICH SLIGHTLY IMPROVED

OREGON CITY MAN WHO SHOT SELF IN CALIFORNIA IS STILL IN DANGER.

Word has been received here that August Friedrich, of this city who shot himself at Weaverville, Cal., is slightly improved although not entirely out of danger. The following account of the shooting was printed in a California paper:

A. J. Friedrich, blacksmith at Lorenz mine, shot at Mrs. Mamie Davis, a widow, at close range, missed her, and then shot at himself three times, hitting himself once, a bullet passing through his neck. His condition is serious.

Friedrich has been paying attention to Mrs. Davis, but she had not given him any encouragement. They attended a picnic together Sunday. In the evening he told her he "had a notion" to kill her and himself. Mrs. Davis treated this as an idle jest.

She lives with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Testy, a mile below town. Friedrich hired a heavy buggy and drove down to the Testy home, calling for Mrs. Davis. She went to the door and Friedrich fired, aiming at her head. Mrs. Davis fled into the house.

Testy took the bleeding man from the buggy into his home and Mrs. Davis jumped into the rig and drove for Dr. Fields.

Friedrich is a cripple and has been a well-behaved citizen. He is 39 years old and his home is in Oregon City. He is a member of the Eagles Aerie in Lodi and the Pythian lodge in Galt.

Friedrich remembers nothing of the shooting. He thinks he was in a runaway and that something hit him on the head. Three weeks ago he was hurt in an explosion of acetylene gas. Dr. Fields believes he is mentally unbalanced.

CLACKAMAS DISTRICT AROUSED OVER TROUBLE BETWEEN FAMILIES

Lester Wade and Mother Are Both Sued by Girl—Action Instituted Monday Afternoon Was Expected.

A second $10,000 slander suit in the troubles between the families of Louis Erickson and Henry Wade, both of the Clackamas district, was filed in the circuit court Monday by Attorney R. N. Hicks. Miss Vernie Erickson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Erickson, is the plaintiff and Mrs. Louise Wade, the defendant. The suit is filed through Louis Erickson, guardian ad litem for his daughter.

The plaintiff claims that Mrs. Wade told neighbors of alleged improper relations between Vernie Erickson and her brother, all of which are vigorously denied by the girl. Lester Wade, the son of Mrs. Louise Wade, is the defendant in the first action filed by Vernie Erickson a week ago. In the first suit, as in the one against Mrs. Wade, the plaintiff asks for $10,000.

The entire Clackamas district is worked up over the Erickson-Wade suits. The trouble first came to a head two weeks ago when Lester Wade is alleged to have been attacked by Louis Erickson. Erickson was taken before Justice Blevins and convicted on a charge of assaulting Wade with an umbrella and fined $10 and costs. Erickson claimed in the trial that he did not intentionally injure Wade but merely forced him away.

A few days after Erickson's conviction, the first suit was filed. At that time Attorney Hicks said that a second action would probably be instituted against Mrs. Wade at an early date. Further actions are not thought possible at this time.

Domestic Troubles Are Laid To Revivals Religion Broke Up His Home, Says Husband

The revivals of Rev. Bulgin in Portland are blamed for the domestic troubles in the Smith family by Charles F. Smith, a Portland fireman, who has filed a suit for divorce against Mrs. Annie E. Smith, in the Clackamas county circuit court.

The husband claims that his wife attended the Bulgin meetings and was converted. From the time she joined a church, he says, she began to try to convert him but with poor success. Smith's one pleasure in life is fishing, but even his wife denies him. Every trip into the country is followed by a scolding and then a lecture on religion, he alleges. Before Mrs. Smith attended the Bulgin meetings, Smith says she attended too many dances.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were married in Portland February 10, 1904, and have lived in that city ever since. He claims that their differences began about 1910 when, owing to her objections to his fishing trips and his complaint concerning her dancing, they separated for a short time. The couple has one son, Melvin D. Smith, aged nine years.
