"FRIENDLY ALIENS"

Here is a public question that is growing more important each day the war continues: Does the alien friend who refuses to fight for Old Glory deserve the protection and freedom of that starry banner?

In Clackamas county we have had several notable examples of the patriotism of our alien friends. On the other hand we have had many evidences of a spirit that is decidedly un-American and very unfriendly. On the books in the office of County Recorder Boyles a quarter section of the finest land in the county is divided in title between three sons. These young men live among us, have been raised among us. Their land is the land of the American nation. One of the young men has been drafted. His exemption claim based on the statement that his crops would perish was denied. He will press the claim and take it to Washington if necessary. Meanwhile he married an American girl.

On all sides of him his brothers are cultivating their land and selling their crops on American markets. They are marrying American girls. They are enjoying every blessing that American government can give them until they appreciate their adopted country enough to become naturalized in it. Would they let their brother's crops perish while he served the nation that gives them home and life? Do they not owe and does their brother not owe to this country some debt that has not been paid? Do we give our land and the fruits of our free government to such as these to have them prove unworthy when we need them? Do we give our American girls to husbands who will not lend their aid to the preservation of their home and the flag that protects them?

Just exemption claims should not be denied. This case is not just. The man was single and for years had profited from his labors and his life on American soil, when he was called to the highest authority now to prove that he is an alien, exempt from service. It is not right; it never will be just to exclude friendly aliens from military service.

The Courier rises in hearty approval to Senator Chamberlain's important war measure that would draft all friendly and enemy aliens to service—the friendly alien to combatant duty, the enemy to non-combatant work. Let those who rely upon treaties for exemption leave the nation that gives them the bread of life within 90 days. We have no quarter for their ilk—we are better for ridding ourselves of them. Thousands of friendly aliens, appreciating the debt they owe our country have enlisted voluntarily. Others we cannot force to see the light of patriotism. In America in this hour of trial we do not need friendly aliens who make of themselves enemies to our land and our homes. We should have no daughters for them and we should have no market for their crops.

FAIRS AND FAIR MONEY

The annual fair at Canby is not the only institution deserving of support from Clackamas county taxpayers. If eastern Clackamas county is to be called upon to pay its good money into the treasury of the county fair, which sometimes does not fairly represent the county, then the taxpayers of other parts of the county should have no kick coming when they are asked to fork over for the Estacada fair.

And the exhibition at Estacada is not the only one that is worthy of more general support than it has been receiving. If the people of the George neighborhood pay their money into the county fair treasury Oregon City and Canby people should as willingly try to aid the George show each year.

The smaller expositions must be made incidental to the general annual county fair, but they can remain incidental and at the same time help to make a bigger, better county fair.

if they are given a little financial support aside from that which the promoters can raise in their own districts.

The Courier believes that the best solution of the problem of aiding the smaller fairs about the county is through a general appropriation from which such shows can draw equitably each season. We are interested in every fair attempted in the county and they are all worthy of our support. We figure it this way: If Estacada and George and Molalla and Oswego—or any other town in the county—holds a successful fair they will do just that much toward making the annual county exposition better and bigger. And by helping them to finance their fairs properly the taxpayers are buying an assurance that the county fair will profit accordingly.

The cynic says the phonograph was a great invention. "A feller doesn't need to get married to get a talking machine."

One Oregon City housewife tried to avoid paying 10 cents for a 10-ounce loaf of bread. She made her own and a loaf of the same size weighed three pounds.

The anti-cigarette argument wins! Congress has slapped a war tax on the poor little things and the price has raised 50 per cent. In proportion to the price increase is the decrease in their use.

Speaking of the affairs of Mars in Russia a headline says: "Men Hide as Mates Go Gaily into Fray." "Seems we have seen men go into hiding right here at home when their mates went into the fray."

Swift & Co., packers, are said to have divided two million dollars among stockholders. Question: Who pockets the difference between the 10 cents the farmer gets for bacon and the 45 cents we pay at the stores?

How many Liberty bonds could have been purchased with the money that was spent for tickets and preparations for the world's baseball series? And how vastly much more good would the money have done?

If congressmen and senators spent as much time devoting themselves to the work for which they were elected as they do to building political fences their constituents would have more reason to send them back to Washington.

"We are the Old Dutch Cleanser," was the legend scrawled on the side of a car of drafted soldiers which passed through here on the way to American Lake last week. The boys are showing a spirit that true Americans are proud of.

The Live Wires will sell beans from their demonstration farm direct to the consumer at cost. The woman who paid 30 cents for four skinny little pork chops on Monday evening would like to see the club start a meat market.

Cruelty is Charge

Helen A. Baker filed suit for divorce from E. M. Baker, to whom she was married at Dodge Centre, Minn., on October 10, 1916. Mrs. Baker charged her husband with cruelty.

FINANCING THE WAR

THE practical way to subscribe to the various issues of the Liberty Loan is from current earnings, not accumulated resources. Instead of using one's Savings, we advise putting aside a reasonable percent of the income for this purpose each month. In this way one gains a substantial investment—and retains his Cash Reserve.

You will always find The Bank of Oregon City willing to give helpful information, suggestions and advice.
