

A Letter From Washington

The Food Administrator Writes Us:

"The use of baking powder breads made of corn and other coarse flours instead of patent wheat flour is recommended by the Conservation Division of the Food Administration. The wheat needed for export is thus conserved, and at the same time healthful food for our own people is provided. The circulation of recipes providing for these uses would be of assistance in carrying out our plans."

The following recipes for Corn Bread and Rye Rolls save wheat flour and make attractive and wholesome food for every day when made with

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

CORN BREAD

1 1/2 cups corn meal
1/2 cup flour
4 level teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups milk
2 tablespoons shortening

Mix thoroughly dry ingredients; add milk and melted shortening; beat well; pour into well greased pan and bake in hot oven about 25 minutes.

Our red, white and blue booklet "Best War Time Recipes" containing additional similar recipes sent free on request. Address: Royal Baking Powder Company, Dept. H, 135 William Street, New York.

RYE ROLLS

2 cups rye flour
2 cups salt
4 level teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons shortening

Sift dry ingredients together; add milk and melted shortening. Knead on floured board; shape into rolls. Put into greased pans and allow to stand in warm place 20 to 25 minutes. Bake in moderate oven 25 to 30 minutes.

Eyes

Your eyes are changing all the time. This is due to increasing age, condition of health, working by artificial light or other causes.

It's important that you have your eyes examined often. Your glasses must be properly fitted to preserve both your health and your eyesight.

Better drop in and let us examine your eyes. If you don't need glasses we'll tell you so, and if you do need them we'll fit you properly.

CENSUS OF COUNTY

School Children Will Aid in Work of Food Conservation

A census of the families in Clackamas county will be taken by school children for the purpose of reaching them with food conservation propaganda, according to a plan which is being executed by J. E. Calavan, county school superintendent. In a communication to teachers outlining the school department's part in the food conservation program Superintendent Calavan asks that each teacher devote three or four hours a week in aiding the children to a thorough understanding of the conservation plan. The children will be given cards later on which they are to have signed by their parents pledging the families of children to observe the rules of the conservation program.

On October 20, O. M. Plummer and Mrs. M. Trumbull, of Portland, will address high school students in this city and later will be guests at a Commercial club luncheon, attended by club members.

PRICE BROS. TAKE ADAMS CORNER FOR NEW STORE

The lease of the corner of Seventh and Main streets and the proposed renovation of the property was a business announcement made Monday by Price Bros., who have been in the men's furnishing business in Oregon City since 1895. The store room involved in the lease is the property of the Methodist Episcopal church, and is at present occupied by L. Adams' department store. Mr. Adams is selling out his stock and will vacate the fine corner in time to permit Price Bros. to take it over on January 1.

The corner room will be completely renovated and a feature of the plan is to provide plate glass windows on both sides. The present furniture department of the Adams store will be torn out and a modern two-story brick building erected on the site. This will be used by Price Bros., and the upper floor will furnish Sunday school quarters for the Methodist church.

Price Bros. will enlarge the scope of their business by adding a number of new lines, through which they can cater to the trade of women. It is proposed to make the establishment rival any similar store in the Willamette valley outside of Portland. The new location will give the firm a floor space of a clear 10,000 feet, including the mezzanine floor in the proposed new building. All plans and construction will be completed by April 1 if the new lessee can make that possible.

WANTS SOCIETY NAMES

Friends of Allies Asked to Help in Merchandise Bazaar

Editor of the Courier: I am writing you to learn whether you have any information at hand, that will give us the names of any of the societies that might be connected with the allies. We are seeking this information for the reason that there might be some society in your city that would be glad to assist us in the work we are carrying on and that would be glad either to donate their services or to donate merchandise to be sold at this bazaar.

The Portland societies of the French, British, Belgian, Japanese, etc., are putting forth great efforts; the others, while not so large, are getting along beautifully, with their end of the work.

We are not asking for money. We expect to make the bazaar so large and attractive, that we are confident that we can raise considerable money through the entertainment, that we expect to give them, as well as through the sale of merchandise.

Yours very truly,
JOSEPH M. REG,
Manager.

BREAD PRICES VARY

Oregon City's Price is About the Average for Entire Community

Consumers' reports to the food administration from 52 cities and towns in all parts of the country show wide differences in bread prices according to advices from Washington. The lowest price reported was from Pleasantville, N. J., where a 16-ounce loaf sells for 6 cents. The same size loaf sells for 15 cents in Rock Falls, Ill.; Eastport, Me.; Red Bank, N. J.; Miami, Okla.; Nashville, Tenn.; Laramie, Wyo., and Newport, R. I.

A 16-ounce loaf is sold for 8 cents in many cities throughout the west and in some cities in the east. The 5-cent loaf of 12 ounces is sold in a few cities.

Oregon City pays 10 cents for the 16-ounce loaf or three loaves for 25 cents, both of local baking and that imported from Portland.

CROWDS WATCH CATCH

Salmon Run into Federal Traps is an Interesting Sight

Great crowds are interested spectators each Sunday at the government fish hatchery on the Clackamas river. Last Sunday scores of persons from Portland and Oregon city watched the federal employees running salmon into their traps and collecting eggs from which the season's hatch will be raised for distribution in the streams of the state. The process of catching the salmon, killing them and extracting the eggs is a highly interesting proceeding to those interested in the propagation of fish. Many Indians come to the hatchery each fall to get the dead salmon from which the eggs have been taken. They dry the fish for their winter's food supply. The many salmon not taken by the Indians are buried.

MARRIAGE AT OUTLOOK

Event at Swedish Colony Featured by Splendid Musical Program

A church wedding of more than usual interest was held in the Swedish Methodist church at Outlook, Clackamas county, last Saturday evening, October 6.

The couple united in matrimony, were Charles Westerland and Miss Catherine Hendrickson, both members of the colony. The church was beautifully decorated and the music and songs were of high order, and a large gathering of colonists were present. The Rev. John Ovall performed the marriage ceremony. This is the second wedding in this new colony, and others are expected to follow in the near future.

WOULD SAVE WHEAT

Dr. Kerr Has Plan to Use Other Grains in Its Place

A suggestion which paves the way for a substantial saving in wheat has been proposed by W. J. Kerr, president of the Oregon Agricultural college, who, as federal director of food production for Oregon, is now busily engaged perfecting the details of his plan. The co-operation of Oregon farmers and ranchers is all that is needed to effect the saving, and Dr. Kerr has facts at hand to show how several million bushels of wheat can be saved for the soldiers.

The substitution of corn for wheat as food for poultry and livestock is the keynote of the plan. The corn crop in the middle west is large beyond precedent this year, and all that is needed for the release of western wheat is a method by which corn can be moved from the middle west and delivered to northwest farmers.

"Just as an example of the saving that can be accomplished," said Dr. Kerr, in discussing his plan, "consider the poultry that are to be fed during the coming winter. It is estimated variously that 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 chickens are being maintained in the three northwest states, and that each of them will consume a bushel of wheat. Nearly all poultry owners have already bought feed to maintain their stock, or else have set the required amount aside for feeding. Therefore, we deduce that several million bushels in granaries among the farming communities of the northwest.

"There will be almost unlimited corn available in this country, but the problem is for shipment and distribution where it can be used most effectively. There have been appeals to householders to use corn so far as possible in place of wheat. The same can be done in the feeding of poultry, and on a greater scale. If the change from wheat to corn can be made economically desirable to the owners of poultry, a large amount of corn can be released. Two million bushels would be a low estimate for the saving of wheat, even if only partial change is effected. But 2,000,000 bushels of wheat would be a tremendous help to our allies."

ELECTRIC FAN IN NEW ROLE

Now Used to Dry Fruits and Vegetables in the Home

The electric fan has many novel and useful tasks to do besides keeping the room cool in summer. Its latest task is to assail the high cost of living by assisting in drying fruits and vegetables for winter consumption.

According to the U. S. department of agriculture, it has been found that many sliced vegetables and fruits when placed in long trays 3 feet by 1 foot, and stacked in two tiers end to end before an electric fan, can be dried to the requisite dryness within 24 hours. Some require much less time. For instance, sliced string beans and shredded sweet potatoes will dry before a fan running at a moderate speed within a few hours. In many cities the electric fan will cost not more than one-fourth of a cent an hour to run. The fan should be placed close to the stack of trays and they should not be filled so full that the air cannot pass freely through them. The fan method has a marked advantage in that the product keeps cool owing to evaporation while it is being dried, thus tending to retain the color and reduce spoilage.

MOTHERS TO MEET

State Gathering Will be in Eugene. Is 14 Years Old

The annual convention of the Oregon Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' associations will be held

The PERUNA Family

has three members you should know if you desire to enjoy life.

1. The popular liquid form of Peruna—the reliable tonic of the American household, with a long history of success in treating all catarrhal difficulties.
2. The tablet form, which is made after the same formula and is more convenient for many.
3. Manalin, the ideal laxative, by the regular use of which constipation may be overcome and natural action restored. Manalin has no habit-forming drug, but is an aid to nature. Your druggist has all three. So many thousands have received benefit from the use of one or both these remedies that they are a recognized part of the equipment of every careful household.

this year in Eugene, October 17-20. An excellent program has been prepared, including as some of the speakers Governor Withycombe, Dr. W. T. Foster of Reed college, President P. L. Campbell, University of Oregon; President W. J. Kerr, Oregon Agricultural college; J. A. Ackerman, president Monmouth, and others.

The Oregon Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher association is now in the fourteenth year of its activity. Its membership reaches the remotest corners of the state and its influence as a factor in the betterment of conditions surrounding the young, comparatively inconsequential and necessarily localized at first, has become widespread.

The inception of the organization was incidental to the visit to her daughter in Portland of Mrs. Frederic Schoff of Philadelphia, president of the National Congress of Mothers. The eminent leader in child welfare work laid before a little group of Portland women who called themselves the Home Training association, the ambitions of the national association. Encouraged, she lent her active aid and organized the "Oregon Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations."

Worth Their Weight in Gold

No man can do his best when he suffers from backache, rheumatic pains, swollen joints, sore muscles or other symptoms of kidney trouble. B. H. Stone, 840 N. 2d St., Reading, Pa., writes: "I contracted a most severe case of kidney trouble. I gradually grew worse and for months was unable to attend to business. I began to use Foley Kidney Pills and soon found the pains were gone and I have had no aches since. They have been worth their weight in gold to me."—Jones Drug Co.
