

MACHINE WITH FAMILY GOES OVER EMBANKMENT

To have their light automobile go over an embankment and pin them underneath after rolling over their bodies and then escape with only minor bruises was the experience of Mr. and Mrs. Frank King and their 15-year-old daughter Sunday afternoon. The family was returning from Portland to the King farm south of this city, and between Oregon City and Oswego a large machine, coming from Portland, attempted to pass the King machine. Mr. King, at the wheel, turned too far toward the edge of the bluff, and his auto went crashing over. Mrs. King and her daughter were thrown out and the machine passed over them, pinning them under a portion of it. The soft bed of brush and high grass is said to have been the only thing that saved them from death. Mr. King was slightly injured when the steering wheel rested on his chest, but the others were only slightly bruised and shaken.

The King machine is said to have twice turned completely over before it landed at the bottom of the bluff in a badly damaged condition. The floor was torn loose by the force of the accident. The big machine which was responsible for the accident did not even slow up after its occupants had seen what happened. It hurried on its way, and Mr. King did not learn its number.

M. E. CHURCH INCREASES SALARY OF ITS PASTOR

At the quarterly conference of the Methodist Episcopal church Thursday night the congregation voted an increase of $250 annually in the salary of the Rev. E. E. Gilbert, who has been pastor here during the last year. Mr. Gilbert was returned to the local church by the annual Methodist conference at Springfield recently.

The church trustees were authorized to sign an agreement with Price Bros. for the lease of the ground floor property of the church, calling for a consideration of $36,000 for the 15-year term. The renters will make improvements valued at $8000, including the construction of a two-story brick on the present site of the Adams store furniture department. The building will give the church an additional floor space 52 by 66 for Sunday school classrooms. The trustees were authorized to offer for rent the buildings occupied by a fish market and the Morgan grocery store.

Plans for holding a diamond jubilee celebration were made at the conference, and committees will have charge of a program for the first week in the new year commemorative of the founding of the local church in 1843.

REFUSES TO MARRY 18

Compact Between Local Ministers Works Against Divorced

The fact that Dr. W. T. Milliken has refused to perform wedding ceremonies for 18 couples within the past year, according to his annual report read at the church last Thursday evening, brings to mind again a compact among the ministers of Oregon City to refuse to marry couples where either applicant is known to have been divorced. Most of the refusals made by Dr. Milliken were of this class. Although they have no explicit rule against such a practice, the ministers have for several years consistently declined to take part in such ceremonies. The offices of the justice of the peace or the county judge are the only havens of those who have once had the matrimonial yoke removed by the courts.

FOURTH QUOTA DELAYED

Mistakes of Local Board to be Corrected During the Interval

The fourth and final quota of draft men will not start for Camp Lewis until October 27, it was announced Monday at American Lake receiving and mustering headquarters.

While it has been presumed unofficially that the fourth quota would follow, at about the same interval as marked the coming of the second after the first, and the third after the second, it has been found advisable to allow a ten-day period within which the hundreds of mistakes of local exemption boards may be straightened out. In the fourth quota local boards will be expected to make up all deficiencies in the previous quotas and to use greater care that those sent are proper subjects of the draft. Clackamas county will send seven men when the fourth quota is called. These seven men will be selected from the 15 who have been certified.

Thief Is Arrested

A petty thief said to have operated extensively in Oregon City was caught in Portland on Monday when officers arrested Leopold Miller. Miller is said to have confessed to minor robberies in this city, as well as many in Portland. He is being held in the metropolis awaiting action of state authorities.

BENSON PRAISES SPIRIT OF EASTERN CLACKAMAS

Quoting S. Benson, chairman of the state highway commission, the Oregonian says:

Residents of eastern Clackamas county deserve a lot of praise, according to S. Benson, chairman of the state highway commission. F. W. Vogler, president of the Northwest Auto company, last week brought pictures of the new Bluff road to Mount Hood, which is the first permanent link of the road to Hood and which has been built by the farmers of that rather sparsely settled community with their own funds.

"Those people have taxed themselves to the very limit," says Mr. Benson, "that they may have roads over which to carry out their farm products and keep in touch with the other communities. The Clackamas county court has not helped them and is mainly absorbed in building roads around Oregon City. These people have taken the matter on themselves, have raised their own funds and have gone ahead and built the road without supervision and general advice and the result is quite surprising."

"The Bluff road is remarkably good, measured under present-day standards. The grade is well established and the drainage and other features of road practice have been well observed. There is only one thing where assistance from the county or other funds would have made a saving. These people naturally wanted to make their money go as far as possible and so the first covering of rock was, of course, light. "According to the report of Mr. Vogler, this road showed signs of giving way even after the first rain. This might have been avoided had the road district had assistance from the county which would have enabled it to place enough rock on the road at the outset. However, while there will be some loss through the rock going right through and failing to pack, the next time it is graded the base will be much firmer and in any event the road is a credit to the people who have built it. Their spirit is commendable."

The chairman of the highway commission also approved of the plank road which the people are putting down further up on the road through Sandy. This he declared as the most economical of temporary improvement.

"Such work will, of course, be taken into consideration when the highway commission takes up the improvement in that section and will mean that we will be able to give them a better road in the end." Mr. Vogler found crews busy improving the road beyond Sandy and planking at several points. Before "Indian Summer" is over, the road to Mount Hood will indeed be a "no-chains-needed route" for when he returned there were but a few short stretches where the men had not yet placed the boards.

CITY OF OSWEGO NOT TO IMPROVE COUNTY ROAD

In a decision written by Judge Bagley, of Washington county, and sent here Thursday from Hillsboro, the case of Mrs. Julia Cooper against A. King Wilson and the City of Oswego was decided for Mrs. Cooper and the city is restrained from the improvement of Front street, which is declared to be a county road and out of municipal jurisdiction. Mrs. Cooper's complaint asked that the city be prevented from working on Front street, where much money has been spent for hard surface and other improvements by the city, until other needed improvements were made in accordance with the will of the people as expressed on petitions presented to the council. Judge Bagley's decision says:

"The city has no jurisdiction over the road in controversy, either permanent or temporary, which would authorize the outlay of its moneys in the improvement thereof without the express authorization of its legal voters. I am not unmindful of the importance to the city of the improvements proposed, and its undoubted benefit to the inhabitants thereof, but only rightful expenditures of its funds should be made and that may be accomplished by securing jurisdiction of the road in question."

CHARLES BOLDS CALLED OVER THE GREAT DIVIDE

With the death Sunday night of Charles Bolds at Good Samaritan hospital, Portland's oldest pioneer and Oregon's oldest Indian War veteran has passed over the great divide.

He was born in Springfield, Ky., February 27, 1822, and came to Oregon in October, 1845, making his residence at what is now Linton. In 1847-48 he fought in Captain Thompson's company in the Cayuse Indian war and was active in other Indian uprisings which took place between The Dalles and the Blue mountains in those perilous pioneer days.

Shortly after he arrived at Linton Mr. Bolds changed his residence to Oregon City and had resided here the greater part of his life, although he lived in Portland at different times.

He was first married to Mrs. Margaret Coleman, who died some years later. Several years after her death he married Mrs. Dorcas Cross.

He is survived by three children—Mrs. M. C. Welch, Mrs. Josephine Hayne and Edward Bolds, besides six stepsons—Caleb, Elmer, Dell, Charlie Harvey and Frank Cross.

Mothers of Oregon Prepare for Trouble!

When a girl becomes a woman, when a woman becomes a mother, and when a woman passes through the changes of middle life, are the three periods of life when health and strength are most needed to withstand the pain and distress often caused by severe organic disturbances. Many thousands along the Pacific Coast would testify just as do the following:

MONROE, OREGON.—"I am certainly glad to recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I think it is a God-send to womankind. During expectancy I was, oh, so sick with that terrible morning sickness. I was so bad that I just could not eat one thing. I commenced taking the 'Favorite Prescription' and I was relieved at once—no more nausea, no headaches, no backache, and I got through to well."—Mrs. W. T. Pockrus, Care McCready Camp.

SONOMA, CALIF.—"I have suffered everything during expectancy but the last time I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I never missed a meal and had comparatively no suffering. I would surely recommend the 'Prescription' to all prospective mothers and, also, for young girls coming into womanhood. A friend is taking this medicine now as I advised her to and she is improving fast. One would not know she was the same woman."—Mrs. H. E. Gibson.

VETERANS ENTERTAINED AT GLADSTONE OUTING

Civil war veterans and their wives, together with the Relief Corps, were honored at a picnic party at Gladstone park on Saturday, given under the auspices of the Oregon Veterans' Drum corps. The drum corps took an active part in an interesting program by rendering patriotic selections. Addresses were made by Dr. W. T. Milliken, of this city; Rev. Alfred Joselyn, of Canby; Rev. C. E. Cline and J. G. Chambers, G. A. R. commander for this state. At the noon hour a bountiful basket lunch was spread at the park. Miss Winifred Ball, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ball, of this city, danced the Highland fling for the veterans. Huntley Bros., of this city, supplied a phonograph for the occasion.

The Whole Neighborhood Knows Mrs. Anna Pelzer, 2526 Jefferson

St., So. Omaha, Neb., writes: "I can recommend Foley's Honey and Tar as a sure cure for coughs and colds. It cured my daughter of a bad cold. My neighbor, Mrs. Benson, cured herself and her whole family with Foley's Honey and Tar, and everyone in our neighborhood speaks highly of it." This reliable family remedy masters croup. It clears the air passages and eases the gasping, strangling fight for breath.—Jones Drug Co.
