LOGAN

Jack Frost ripened the late potatoes and digging is the order of the day. Hands are scarce and in great demand. Late potatoes have the lead for size this year and some fields will give a good turn-out, though the skin slips from lack of maturity.

An agent for a San Francisco potato firm was around the other day getting the lay of the land and offered $1.35. He found farmers were holding for $2., and may get it.

The grange committee for the Red Cross entertainment is showing activity and will have things moving soon for the great relief organization.

Mr. Jens was around the other day wearing one of Uncle Sam's suits. He was down in Mexico and is still in the service on home work.

N. H. Smith, proprietor of the Cedar Hill dairy, has bought a fine new truck and his partner continues to make daily trips to Portland with the lactical fluid. Mr. Smith expects his silo to furnish a supply of succulent feed for the satisfaction of the cows and their owner.

Peter Wilson is with his son, Frank, now.

J. C. Young and Mr. Feathers are kept busy hauling now.

The supply of hen fruit is running low but other things are coming and going.

Miss Erma Babler is acting as assistant secretary at the creamery.

Jacob Gerber was out last Sunday with his friend, Mr. Peoples, and children from Gladstone. Mr. Peoples drives a Ford that brought himself and family from Kansas via Los Angeles two years ago at a cost of about two sets of tires.

Kohl brothers have rented Ole Thompson's place for two years.

We are sorry to hear that Gustave Fischer is not enjoying good health, and hope to hear of his improvement soon.

The Kaiser and his followers believe in vicarious atonement for sin. The Russians mobilized their army and the punishment was applied to France and Belgium. Nearer home, easier done, more promising returns. Got a slice from France once before, you know. They also believe that might is right and are going to be convinced by their own argument they are in the wrong. The Kaiser says if we want Alsace and Lorraine, come and get 'em. So help us, Hannah, Bill, that's just what we are going to do, and we are on the way now.

Mrs. Vivian Gerber and son have returned from their southern Oregon visit, after taking a trip to the coast. All the hunters are home from the mountains and as we have not heard any game reports we take it that the killing was not good.

Fred Gerber and A. J. Johnson are still working on the log house at Clear Creek park. The writer has assisted in building log houses, but it did not take so long then. Neighbors got together, one man astride of each of the four corners, to do the fitting, the others rolled up the logs and the walls were built in a day.

The chinking and the roof did not take very long and often mother earth was the floor so what are now called kiddies did not have to go out of door to play in the dirt. And the old school house was made of logs, too, and had a stick and mud chimney and benches for seats. Good old times, in memory.

The roads in this vicinity have been greatly improved and motorists are now following the P. R. L. & P. track from Gladstone to Glen Echo station and thence on Steele avenue to the River road. This makes the route much shorter and avoids a bad hill.

Mrs. Charles Moran attended a party at the home of Mrs. Brayton in Parkplace, on Monday. Mrs. Brayton entertained the Willing Workers and others of the Baptist church. Miss Eva Moulton of Fern Ridge, kindly donated the use of her car for the convenience of the several women who were present from this locality.

We were impressed, on our recent visit to Oregon City, with the unkept appearance of the many flags floating from the business houses along Main street. With the exception of two or three, they show frayed and dirty, as though they had been hung, then forgotten; left out in all kinds of weather, night and day, until nothing remains of the once bright red, white and blue, but a few faded strings. We would like to see Oregon City business men keep our flag clean and whole, for example means much at this time, and we should keep Old Glory just as clean as we try to keep the principles for which it stands.

What few birds that are left have

ADAMS QUIT BUSINESS SALE

Oregon City and Clackamas County probably never before witnessed a sale where the people took such a deep interest as in this sale. They know our dry goods are all new and dependable—none better. They know our clothing, shoes, furnishing goods, and furniture are the best that money can buy—they know this store gives exactly what it advertises—they know that merchandise is going sky high in price and many a man, woman and family are not only anticipating their present wants, but buying their future needs as they realize that they may never again have an opportunity to buy goods at such prices as are now offered at this MIGHTY CLOSING-OUT SALE. This is no clearance sale or sale to reduce stock and unload it—it is a real bona fide closing out sale and without regard for present high cost of merchandise, we are sacrificing our entire stock bought before the big advance—at prices very much less than wholesale costs in many instances. REMEMBER every dollar's worth of goods in this store must and will be sold and there will be no let up to the cutting and slashing of prices until every dollar's worth is disposed of. All our fixtures, show cases, safe, adding machine, etc., are for sale and no reasonable offer refused.

FURNITURE BARGAINS

The Building containing our furniture department is to be torn down so we are giving great bargains to move stock quickly poor chances these days.

I wonder what school children would think if they would go to school some morning and find the school house changed to an old log house with wooden benches and only one door; a big old fireplace in one end and not a blackboard in the house and the teacher well supplied with switches? This was the kind of school house the writer went to back in the '70s. The writing desk was made by driving wooden pins into holes in a log. Putting a broad board on pegs made a bench and as many as could sit on this bench at a time could catch the art of penmanship.

STAFFORD

As Mr. Oldham was returning from Nestucca, Tillamook county, he met a soaking rain storm in the mountains, but none came near Stafford.

The frost of last Tuesday night left a few green stalks on most potatoes, so they will yet have a chance to ripen.

Neighbors to the number of about seventy gave Mrs. M. A. Gage a very enjoyable surprise party on Wednesday of last week, to celebrate her 82nd birthday. Her son Henry and wife from Burns, eastern Oregon, had arrived that day very unexpectedly, which was surprise No. 1. Mrs. J. Q. Gage and children came from St. Helens, and then after dark, a procession of auto lights was seen coming up the lane—a knock at the door, and there they were laden with lunch baskets and good wishes. The jolly crowd played games, talked, laughed and visited as old friends can, and departed after lunch at midnight; with hearty hand shakes and many congratulations for the venerable hostess.

On Thursday the Ladies circle met with Mrs. Jack Ellegren and finished up some Red Cross work and picked and carded enough wool for a comforter.

Mr. Nussbaum is slowly recovering from his recent sick spell.

Arden Gage and wife motored out from Nestucca on Sunday and on Monday he and his mother went to Portland and purchased a tractor, two gang plows and a double disc to cultivate their tide land, recently diked. They spent about $1600.

An auto load of friends from Portland visited at Mr. Ellegren's Sunday.

Joe Rabbie and Herbert Duncan returned last week from eastern Oregon.
