Money Couldn't Buy It

The relief he personally experienced moved Mr. W. F. Briggs, Konowa, Okla., to write to the Pinus laboratories a letter of appreciation in which he says:

"Fruitola and Traxo helped me so much I am advising all who suffer with gall-stones to try them. Money wouldn't buy what this medicine has done for me."

Fruitola is an intestinal lubricant that softens the congested masses, disintegrates the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expels the accumulated waste to the intense relief of the patient. Following a dose of Fruitola, Traxo should be taken three or four times a day to restore the system that has been weakened by constant suffering. It is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach most beneficially.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Oregon City, Portland, Canby and Hubbard they can be obtained at the Huntley Drug Stores.

Obituaries

Peter Long

Peter Long, for eighteen years a resident of Oregon City and for the past eight months a resident of the Airline district in Polk county, passed away at his home there last Wednesday at the age of 59 years. Mr. Long had only recently left Oregon City to take up a farm in Polk county. His death was sudden and a great shock to his host of friends here. He is survived by a widow, one son and two grandchildren. The funeral service was held in Oregon City on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Susan Chuck

Mrs. Susan Chuck died at her Oswego home on Thursday after suffering a stroke of paralysis and was buried in the Oswego cemetery on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Chuck leaves a wide circle of friends in her home community as well as in other parts of the county and a large number from Oregon City attended the funeral service. Mrs. Chuck is survived by three sons, one of whom, Walter, is stationed at the Mexican border with the Oregon National guard. The other boys are Edward and Joseph, who make their home at Oswego.

McCARVER RECOVERS

Man Suffers From Pellagra and Is Completely Cured

Fred K. McCarver, formerly a resident of this city, has fully recovered from pellagra, after an illness of four years. Mr. McCarver's case has attracted attention among medical men, inasmuch as he was through all the stages of the disease. When taken to a hospital in Los Angeles recently he was not expected to recover.

The outstanding feature of the cure according to news received by local relatives, was that the patient was placed on a meat diet. The doctors demonstrated that meats and foods containing proteins form the best diet for those afflicted with pellagra.

Dr. Raymond Sands, one of the attending physicians, will publish a paper concerning the case in the American Medical Journal showing that the Italian theory regarding the disease is not only insufficient but probably wrong, in that it was held that the disease was caused by accumulations of silica in water and transmitted to the system, while the treatment and recovery of Mr. McCarver indicated that the probable cause is largely due to eating too much carbohydrates, or cereals, and not enough proteins and fats, including meat, beans and peas.

Mr. McCarver, who was bald on the top of the head before the attack of the disease, now has an abundant growth of hair.

SYNOD CLOSES

Rev. Mr. Landsborough Is Member of Consolidation Committee

At the closing session of the 26th annual meeting of the Synod of Oregon last week a strongly supported resolution was passed requesting the national board of temperance of the Presbyterian church to send representatives to Eugene to aid in the work to defeat the proposed "brewers' amendment" that is to come up for the approval of the people at the November elections. Resolutions were adopted in favor of a more strict observance of the Sabbath and recommending that more attention be given to keeping the day as it was intended to be kept, as a day of rest and devotion. The Rev. J. R. Landsborough of Oregon City attended the Synod and was appointed a member of a committee to consider the possibilities of the consolidation of Albany college and Pacific university.

HOLDS 13,608 CLASSES

Professor Makes Record of Being on Spot When Bell Rings

When the Summer School at the University of Oregon came to an end Friday of last week, Professor Timothy Cloran, according to the closest estimate he can make, had completed his 13,608th class since he began teaching. In all his twenty-one years of service he has not failed on account of sickness, conflicting duty, or for any reason whatever to meet every single class for which he had been scheduled. "Absent" has never been entered opposite his name.

Dr. Cloran, whose name appears in "Who's Who in America" as one of the most distinguished Oregonians, is professor of French, Spanish and Italian.

INEXPENSIVE LUNCHEONS.

CREAMED CODFISH WITH EGG. Place two cups of shredded fish in pan, pour on cold water enough to cover and let come to a boil. Drain off and add a pint of milk, and when scalded stir in a quarter cupful of flour mixed to a smooth paste with a quarter cupful of milk, add good sized piece of butter and stir until boiling point is reached. Just before taking from stove add quickly a beaten egg and serve at once.

Fried Apples.—Select tart apples, core, but do not peel, slice in rings, and then fry in hot fat. When browned drain and sprinkle lightly with sugar and serve with broiled ham for breakfast. There must be plenty of hog fat, otherwise the apples will be greasy, as it is a well known fact that things fried in a little grease absorb it, while fried in plenty of grease little is taken up.

Baked Cheese.—Cut stale bread in dice sized pieces to the amount of a cupful. Throw them into a pan containing three tablespoonfuls of hot butter and fry until crisp. Set aside to cool slightly. Cut half a pound of rich cheese in small pieces and put them into a buttered pie plate, sprinkling them lightly with salt and paprika. Beat two eggs to a foam, add a cupful of rich milk in which has been dissolved a "pea" of baking soda. Sprinkle the bread dice over the cheese, pour over all the milk and egg mixture. Bake until firm and serve immediately.

Tamale Pit.—Materials: A pound of hamburger steak, a pound of lean pork meat, an onion, a can of tomatoes, chili powder, cayenne pepper, ripe olives, cornmeal, salt. Directions: Mince or put through meat chopper the steak, pork and onion. Add tomatoes and seasoning. Cook half an hour. Make a cornmeal mush, adding a little chili powder to it. Place in the casserole a layer of meat sprinkle with small ripe olives, then cover with a layer of mush; repeat, having mush on top. Bake half an hour and serve with tomato sauce. If the meat mixture is not moist enough add water in sufficient quantities.

BUSINESS REVIEW

Dun's Review Says Business in Northwest Holds Out Even

The mid-summer period finds business holding about even with recent months. There is considerable activity in certain retail lines and jobbers report a fair volume of orders. Lumber trade is quieter, but prices are steady. Crop prospects have improved materially throughout the entire Pacific northwest. The rain came at just the proper time for growing cereals, which were beginning to show the effect of the drought.

Fall wheat is filling well; spring wheat is making excellent growth. Barley harvesting will be started in the coming week. Grain dealers estimate the wheat crop of the three states at about 55,000,000 bushels, as against 70,000,000 bushels produced last year, the deficiency being due to the reduced winter acreage.

No ocean tonnage is available to move the crop from this coast, and the entire surplus may again be exported by way of Atlantic and Gulf ports. Transcontinental railroads are making provisions to handle a larger quantity of grain in bulk than ever before. Wheat prices are slowly advancing in sympathy with higher markets in the middle west.

Buyers in the southwest have placed substantial orders for flour with interior mills for early shipment, and this has steadied the flour market, which was declining to the new crop basis. Tidewater mills, with higher rail freights, are unable to compete for the business.

Summer livestock receipts are liberal, but the demand has broadened and cattle and hog prices have advanced, while the sheep quotations of the last months have been maintained.

The remaining clips of wool scattered throughout eastern Oregon are being gradually bought up at strong prices, and the only considerable quantities still unsold are stored in Portland warehouses.

The Oregon hop crop has improved, and present estimates are for a yield of about 100,000 bales. There is but little eastern demand for futures, and a restricted export trade is anticipated. The bulk of the small fruit crop has been marketed, and early orchard fruits are now being harvested. The outlook is for an apple crop considerably larger than last year's. Prunes will also yield heavier and growers are looking forward to a firm market.

16 CITIES CONTROL MUCH

Oregon City One of Group Figuring Large in State Banking Business

Oregon City is one of the sixteen cities in Oregon which have 73 1/2 per cent of the banking capital and 79 per cent of the bank deposits of the state, according to figures which have been compiled by State Bank Superintendent Sargent. Portland, of course, takes the lion's share of honors, as the banks of that city have 48 per cent of the capital and 55 per cent of the deposits of the state.

Sixteen cities, among them Oregon City, having over $1,000,000 deposits each, have 41 state and 33 national banks. Their capital stock and surplus total $19,616,663.04 and deposits $102,418,026.64. All other towns have 136 state and 51 national banks, $7,039,414.52 capital and surplus and $26,946,493.75 deposits.
