THATCHER TRIUMPHS AGAIN

"Hill Murderer" Found by "Expert Criminologist" is Turned Out

Expert Criminologist Thatcher, of whom Clackamas county hears every now and then, and who some three months ago "solved" the Hill murder at Ardenwald, and persuaded a deputy of Sheriff Wilson to arrest one Ed Ramsey, alias Frederick Alexander, for the crime; has achieved another "triumph." The "triumph" came on Tuesday morning of this week, when the grand jury, after thoroughly looking into the "unmistakable evidence" that Thatcher had secured, returned a not true bill in Alexander's favor. Ten minutes later Alexander or Ramsey, or whatever his name is, was on his way rejoicing.

It will be recalled that at the time of this man's arrest Mister Thatcher resented somewhat remarks that were made in the Courier about the arrest, and the Portland "expert criminologist" was quite peeved because the Courier laughed at his "evidence." It is hoped that Mr. Thatcher will now transfer his peeve to the grand jury, which apparently didn't take any more stock in his dreams than did the Courier. Having "positively identified" three "Hill murderers" to date, perhaps Mr. Thatcher will wait a few months before finding another one. And maybe Billy Wilson will not be so ready to keep open house for Thatcher's next find, too.

"Paddy" Trembath, who works as a deputy under Billy Wilson, and who took a deep interest in Alexander, confided to Chief of Police Ed Shaw Tuesday afternoon that he knew Alexander's real name. Chief Shaw said he was surprised at the extent of Paddy's knowledge.

SCHOOL PRINCIPALS MEET

Oregon City Man Elected Head of Organization for Year

The schoolmasters' club, composed of principals of the county schools, met in Milwaukie this week and listened to speeches by County Superintendent Calavan and P. J. S. Tooe, of the county seat. Mr. Callavan urged the holding of school rallies at frequent intervals and some changes in the method of teaching spelling. Mr. Tooe urged debating matches as a means of developing individuality among high school pupils, and offered a silver cup to be competed for providing four teams would enter. Mr. Tooe made it a condition of his offer that debaters should receive no training except that obtained from teachers in the schools which they attended.

Officers for the coming year were elected. Mr. Tooe being named president; H. E. Eckles, of Canby, vice-president; J. E. Boland, secretary. Officers were also elected for the Clackamas School league, being chosen as follows: Principal Tatrow, of Oregon City, president; Mr. Eckles, vice-president; Mr. Tooe, secretary; Mr. Roland, treasurer, and Mr. Meek, publicity man. Students from the Estacada and Molalla schools will serve with these officers as a student executive committee.

Following the business meeting the principals enjoyed a banquet prepared by the domestic science classes of the Milwaukie schools, after which adjournment was taken until the next meeting, which will be held in Oregon City.

ESTACADA PLAYS WELL

Milwaukie Highschool Defeated by 162 to 0 at Football

Estacada highschool's football eleven got into the limelight good and proper last week when they piled up their second "century score" in football this season. Estacada some weeks ago walloped the Canby football aggregation 102 to 0; but they beat this score all to pieces last Saturday, when they took the Milwaukie school in tow to the tune of 162 to 0.

The score does not entirely represent the difference in the two teams as far as skill goes, though it gives a fair idea of the mass weight of the Estacada team. Superior use of the forward pass gave Estacada most of her gains against Milwaukie, and the repeated goals showed that her players were built of sturdy stuff.

In view of what has happened to Milwaukie and Canby, there is some inclination to bet that Estacada will run away with the county championship this year.

ADVICE IS WANTED

John Burns, of Canby, Asks How Gopher Traps May Best be Laid

Editor Courier: Will some reader of the Courier tell his or her experience with the best gopher traps. I have tried small steel traps several times, but they do not always work. If anybody knows of any new traps, or any good way to combat this pest, I would be glad to hear from them; and I think many other Courier readers would also like to know the best way of destroying this worst pest with which we are afflicted.

TEMPERANCE MEET HELD

Convention of W. C. T. U. Brings Cheer to Attending Members

The state convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union wash held at Newberg in the Friends' church. Clackamas county was represented by Mrs. Wolfe, president of the Molalla Union; Mrs. Full, of Milwaukie; Mrs. Lillie M. Welter, of Sunnyside, and Mrs. E. B. Andrews of Oregon City.

There were 145 present as delegates from different parts of the state. The same officers were re-elected for the coming year, being: Mrs. Kemp, president; Mrs. Russell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Meeker, recording secretary; and Mrs. Henstan treasurer.

Of the 40 departments represented by our organization, some of the more important ones which we hope to carry on successfully this year are, Scientific Temperance Instruction, Medical Temperance, Medal Contests, Sunday School, Flower Mission, Anti Narcotics, Mothers' Meetings, Press, Good Citizenship, Sabbath Observance Institutes, Work among Lumbermen, Social Meetings and Red-Letter Days, Purity and Revenue Work and perhaps some other lines of the work.

Our county received first honors in three lines of work this past year. The greatest number of comfort bags made for lumbermen of any county in the state; the largest number of essays written in any county compared to the membership of the county, and the largest percent of gain in membership of any county in the state. This entitled the county president to a free trip to the National Convention in Seattle. Among the noted speakers in the convention were Dr. Whitcomb, governor of our state; Mrs. Lillian Mitchner, state president of Kansas; Dr. Anderson, of The Dales, who explained our prohibition law; and Daniel Poling, president of the United Societies of C. E.

Governor Whitcomb pledged himself to enforce the law in so far as it is in the governor's power to do so and said that we must all, as citizens, stand together and do our duty.

Daniel Poling is a very fine speaker and paid a very high tribute to womanhood and mothers. He said that John Barleycorn must be slain, and it could only be done by the vote of all the citizens, also that failures in public life keep step with indifference in private life; that the average private citizen does not do his duty and that the average man in public life does not know his duty. He said prohibition is the tool; the O. P. PORTUNITY, and CAN be enforced again with great emphasis!

We were all urged in ALL departments of the work to greater, earnest, new and faithfulness; that our work was just started. We must agitate, educate and organize, and be constantly on the watch. Do our whole duty as citizens; show our appreciation when officials do their duty, and be ready to do our part whenever opportunity presents itself.

The great national convention in Seattle, where all the states were represented, 435 delegates being present, was held in the splendid new Plymouth (Congregational) church. The inspiration gained in sitting day after day and listening to the talented mothers of our land, and not only the talented, but the consecrated mothers, will not be soon forgotten.

The two great thoughts most often expressed were: More Conservation; More Earnest Service for the Master, and National Constitutional Prohibition. The accounts of the rapid growth in the temperance work and with it the increased efficiency along all lines were truly wonderful.

We came home filled with the earnest desire to push every practical department of the work into every neighborhood in our great county of Clackamas, where we could find one or two faithful ones who would carry and superintend the work. Dear sisters, if you have no Woman's Christian Temperance Union in your neighborhood, and you feel the need of one, or see an opportunity, please let us hear from you and we will help you in every way possible to organize and carry on the work.

We take particular pains with the stationery we print for our customers.

WILL HAPPEN THIS WEEK

Oregon City Will Eat at its Newest Restaurant on Saturday

Ex-Sheriff E. T. Mass has asked us not to give this any special prominence, because he is a modest man and hates publicity. But as the Courier tries to print most of the local gossip and news that is of general interest, we feel that we will have to take a chance on displeasing the ex-sheriff, and tell all about it.

Saturday at eleven o'clock the doors of Mass's Restaurant and Hotel will be opened to the public. In the restaurant there will be an orchestra that will furnish sweet strains of music while local epicures enjoy the home-cooked food that will be served under the personal supervision of Boniface Mass and his good wife. And the ex-sheriff says that he will put up a real feed, and that every day thereafter the feed will be just as good and wholesome.

Mass's Hotel and Restaurant, as it will be called, occupies the renovated and rebuilt quarters formerly graced by the Brunswick. The building however, has been completely altered and made modern, and the new house will be one of the most comfortable in the county seat. Ex-Sheriff Mass will cater to both permanent and transient trade, and in the restaurant will endeavor to serve the best meals in the county. He says that when eggs are ordered he is going to serve eggs, and not present his patrons with "egg-powder" and water, as has been done in other hotels in the universe. Mr. Mass also admits that his lamb, when served, will be lamb and not mutton that has been beaten tender; and adds that everything will be clean and hot.

Democrats in good standing may be able to obtain credit at the new house for periods not exceeding seven days, but they will have to prove that they are democrats.

BIG THINGS SHOWN

Oregon Display at Fair Brings Monster Plants to Attention of All

According to word sent out by the Oregon commission at the Panama fair, San Francisco, there is no little rivalry between the representatives of different sections of the state in the effort to secure the largest fruit or vegetables for display purpose—not that the large stuff really counts except to attract attention, but simply that there may be something to boast about. Up to date the situation stands thus: Willamette Valley, largest apples, weight one pound two ounces to one pound five ounces; Eastern Oregon, largest cabbage, weight 34 pounds; also largest squash, weight 99 pounds; Southern Oregon, largest peach, weight 22 ounces; Coos and Curry counties, largest crabs, clams and cranberries. Columbia county has some apples that crowd the Willamette Valley for first place, and both Klamath and Coos county representatives affirm that their sections can produce cabbages that will beat Lackey's and potatoes will beat anything in the Universe—but can they? There is no evidence here that they can. There is some prospect of Southern Oregon getting in on the "big Beet" game. Warren, the Lane county man here, says he will have down here within a short time one squash that will outweigh the Eastern Oregon whopper by twenty pounds.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Distribution of Taxes under two Systems Is Plainly Shown

People in Massachusetts, who are interested in taxation problems should get in touch with Assessor S. H. Howes, of Southboro, according to the American Economic league.

Mr. Howes was one of a delegation that appeared before the State Tax Commission at Boston on October 7 to discuss proposed changes in taxation. There he presented facts and figures which, if known to farmers generally, might make them the most enthusiastic of Single Tax advocates.

Mr. Howes showed that the 33 cities of the State occupy about 7 percent of its area, but have 82 percent of its land values. So if Massachusetts were to adopt Single Tax, 82 percent of taxes for State purposes would be raised from these 33 cities, while farmers occupying 93 percent of the State's area would pay but 18 percent.

WOODBURN MAN HELD

Stanley McKay Arrested for Violating State Highway Laws

Following a collision between his automobile and a carriage in which Miss Marie Harvey and her brother, B. L. Harvey, were riding, Stanley McKay, of Woodburn, was technically arrested in Portland Saturday night by officers from Clackamas county and held in $50 cash bail to answer a charge of violating the state highway laws. The definite charge against McKay is that he failed to keep on the right-hand side of the road and that he failed to give a passing vehicle one-half of the roadway.

McKay and a companion left Woodburn Saturday afternoon and headed north in his powerful car. It is said that on his ride he stopped in every "wet" town south of Canby. On the Twilight road, a short distance south of Oregon City, the McKay machine crashed into a carriage in which the Harveys were riding, breaking it to kindling wood, and injuring the two occupants severely. Miss Harvey, who is a book-keeper with Williams Brothers, sustained a fractured collar bone and two broken ribs, and her brother, an employee of the woolen mills, had his back hurt and may have sustained internal injuries.

News of the collision was telephoned to Oregon City by farmers who heard the crash, and Patrolman Woodward attempted to stop the McKay car as it flashed down Main street and over the suspension bridge. McKay failed to heed the officer's signal, however. Sheriff Wilson was notified of the case and asked to have the car stopped by his deputy at Oswego, but the Oswego deputy failed to do anything of the kind. The car swept on past Oswego, and finally broke down a short distance from Portland, where McKay hired a jitney driver to tow his machine to an East side garage operated by a friend of his.

Two hours or more after the accident Sheriff Wilson secured a warrant for McKay's arrest from District Attorney Hedges, and then left by streetcar for Portland. Had the sheriff telephoned Portland when he was first told of the accident, Portland officers could have intercepted the car near the city limits. After the sheriff's arrival Portland police officials succeeded in locating the car, but not its driver. McKay appeared in the county seat after reading of the accident in the Sunday morning papers and surrendered, putting up bail for his later appearance.

Life Is Indeed Hard

If the preachers of Columbia county would initiate Lorenzo Dow next Sunday morning and carry a good sized stone into church and lay it by the side of the bible, then after song and prayer, and reading an appropriate passage of Scripture, pick up the stone and inspect it carefully, state to his congregation: "I am going to hit the man between the eyes who owes the editor," and draw his hand back like he intended to throw, there would be a dodging all over the house which would discount turkeys in a thunder storm.—(Columbia Herald, Houlton, Ore.)

Minister Gives Testimony

The Rev. C. M. Knighton, Havanna, Fla., writes: "For three months I suffered intense pain in kidneys and back, which at times laid me up entirely. I read of Foley Kidney Pills and after trying various remedies without result I decided to try the Foley treatment. I was relieved almost with the first dose and it is a fact that I used only 1 1/2 bottles when all of the pains disappeared. I am 55 years of age and now feel like a young man again."—Jones Drug Co.

BRIDGE CONTRACT LET

Contract for the construction of a covered bridge across the Molalla river at Trout Creek was awarded by the county court last week to George Lammers, whose bid was $825. The span will have a length of 70 feet and is to be finished by the first of the year. The bridge will be of frame construction. Lammers was the lowest of five bidders.
