THE FASHIONS

New York, October 7, 1915.

Afternoon frocks for more dressy occasions are quaint and becoming to a degree; many of them look as if they might have been worn by grande dames of the period just following the French Revolution, with perhaps a little added dignity.

The taffetas, failles, and velvets favored for these frocks lend themselves particularly well to the draperies now in vogue, panniers, puffs, and the loose panels of Watteau's figures.

The tang of winter in the air recalls us all to the dignity of formal dinners, dances, teas, and like occasions, with their respective demands for more formal frocks than those we have enjoyed all summer, our simple wash and taffeta models, so becoming and youthful-looking. This winter, however, the added formality consists merely of the addition of a few quaint ruffles, and draperies that will appeal to most of us very pleasingly.

Overskirts Growing in Popularity

Many of the imported gowns show the apron overskirt, usually made of chiffon, embroidered or heavily beaded, combined with straight full skirts paneled with velvet, on cloth and silk frocks. Some of these models show a profusion of trimmings; there are simplicity and dignity itself, relying entirely on the cut and color combination for effect.

Chiffon as a Trimming

Many bolero effects are noticed on winter frocks and costume blouses, as corsage trimmings. Chiffon, heavily soutached, and chiffon veillings play important parts in the scheme of trimmings. Many of the new blouses are made of lace or net, banded by several rows of moire ribbon, at the line of the bust, veiled by the chiffon.

Dinner, Dance and Ball Gowns

Dinner and ball frocks are extremely dainty and quaint this winter. The pannier, with its graceful draperies over contrasting underskirts of figured or flowered taffeta, or one of the charming embroidered brocades of the moment, in silver or gold. Now and then one sees a ball or dinner gown of black satin, heavily trimmed with sparkling jet; there are many veiled models, too; taffetas, failles, and satins, veiled with beaded nets or chiffons. Gray is nearly as popular a shade for this type of frock as for daytime wear; often it is combined with black lace over white most effectively. Much velvet is used, combined with satin, taffeta, or faille, or as landings for the cloth frocks which are quite popular.

The Day of the Dance Not Passed

Dancing is still much in favor. Some charmingly capricious frocks have been designed this winter especially for the maid or matron who dances. Many of these are delightfully youthful and frivolous; one especially dainty creation has a skirt made entirely of ribbon, with net bodice, veiling a band of the ribbon at the bustline. Net, and the daintily colored bordered chiffons, are much used for these gowns; also the quaintly patterned taffetas and brocades, so reminiscent of days gone by. The nets and chiffons are usually hung over slips of satin or taffeta, or looped up, pannier fashion, over a silver or gold beaded satin underskirt.

The Fancy Dress Costume

There are times when it is pleasant to dispense with the frock especially designed for certain purposes, and to let fancy take her own way, and garb us as she will, in some particularly fantastic creation all her own. All Saints' Eve, or Hallowe'en, is one of these times. The maid who looks for her fate in the candle's flame, and the man who frolics in fantastic garb, are at perfect liberty to enjoy this weird evening in whatever costume pleases them most. There is no more demure, pleasing costume for the maid than this quaint Empire frock with its frilled pantalettes, its crescent and star-decked bonnet, and its fuzzy-tailed black cats, world-wide omens of good luck and witches' magic.

bordering its short, full skirt. The man may wear a Pierrot costume; it has always been a favorite and loses none of its charm this winter.

There are many interesting plays in town; afternoon teas are among the social demands and the tea rooms of the Ritz, Plaza, Asto and Vanderbilt are once more gay with the laughing chatter of many voices. The charming array of gowns makes these more public places wonderfully interesting. The dark rich velvets, combined with satins, taffetas, broadcloths, and velours are most effective and wintery-looking with the touch of fur which almost invariably appears on some part of the gown.

Perhaps the most generally favored style of gown or blouse is the jumper; there is the little jumper bodice made with narrow shoulder straps, crossing suspender fashion down the back, or continuing down each side of the back in straight lines. The sleeveless basque in various styles is popular, too, with sleeves of satin, taffeta or crepe Georgette. Many of the blue serge gowns, and then eavier fabrics, such as duvetyne and velours de laine, are made this way, as many dislike a heavy sleeve. This is also an economical idea, as the sleeves may be varied; a pair of satin or taffeta may do service for morning, and by substituting a guimpe of crepe Georgette, or chiffon cloth, the same frock becomes dressy enough for afternoon wear. A very chic dress of the new tobacco brown duvetyne, built on these lines was made with the jumper bodice buttoning in a double-breasted line in simulation of a vest front. This frock was accompanied by a guimpe of self-tone chiffon. Another material favored for contrasting sleeves is broad-clothed grosgrain; a blue serge for instance is made with a guimpe of blue grosgrain brocaded with gold, with charmingly harmonious effect.

Every Woman Should Know

There are three entirely different kinds of baking powder, namely:

- (1) Cream of tartar, derived from grapes;
- (2) Alum, a mineral acid; and
- (3) Phosphate of Lime.

(1) Baking Powders made of Cream of Tartar add to the food the same healthful qualities that exist in the ripe grapes from which Cream of Tartar is derived.

(2) Baking Powders made of Alum add to the food some form of Alum or Aluminum, a heavy metal, wholly foreign to any natural article of food.

(3) Phosphate of Lime is made from rock or by burning bones which by chemical action are changed into a white, powdered acid. It is used in baking powder because it is a cheaper substitute.

A CREAM OF TARTAR POWDER NEVER CONTAINS ALUM OR PHOSPHATE.

Every housekeeper should read the names of the ingredients printed on the label and know what she is using.

CHARTER REVISION DIES

Committee of Nine Is Discouraged After Mass Meeting Is Held

Fans for the revision of Oregon City's charter, so that a manager could be employed to run the city's affairs, died a sudden and painless death Monday night of this week, when a mass meeting held at the Commercial club S. McDonald, the noted prohibitionist; Emery Dye and young Lloyd Riches talked the matter blind, deaf and senseless.

O. W. Eastham also hammered in a few knocks at the city-manager plan, saying that he thought it would open the door for graft; and though Livy Stipp endeavored faithfully to explain the benefits that would result from the adoption of the new system, the citizens and others present did not take kindly to the scheme. When general discussion of the proposition was invited by Mayor Jones, Messrs. McDonald and Dye, and young Riches, asked so many questions that the meeting devolved into a farce, and Dr. J. A. van Brakle finally moved adjournment.

Following the meeting members of the committee of nine, who had worked out the new charter plans, declared that they were both surprised and discouraged at the reception that had been accorded the matter, and added that their enthusiasm was decidedly on the wane.

With the temporary dropping of charter revision plans, it is expected that the mayoralty campaign will open up with renewed vigor, and that a lively scrap for places on the city's governing body will commence.

TAX INCREASE DUE

Acts of Legislature Make Raise in County Levy Necessary

According to County Judge Anderson, there is every reason to believe that county taxpayers will have to pony up more than 3.2 mills this year when taxes are collected. Just how much the increase will be the county court has not yet determined; but owing to fancy legislation adopted at the last session of Chris Schuebel and other solons at Salem, the business of running the county will cost more than formerly.

Chief among the items that will add to the county's expense account are a new registration law, which provides that all voters must register again; the high school tuition law, which creates a fund out of which the county pays tuition for pupils who live outside of standard high school districts.

The increase probably will not be sufficient to bring the levy up to four mills, but it is believed that the final figure will be only a small fraction under this sum.

FLARETY LOSES CLOTHES

Hotel Lodger Wakes up to Find Even His Pipe and Razor Gone

C. Flarety is good-natured and trusting. Or rather he was. He shared his room with a friend, and never doubted for a minute the honesty of his partner. Wednesday morning, however, he began to have misgivings, for when he woke up he was minus several necessary articles. So much was he minus that he had to notify the officers of the law by telephone, there being a city ordinance against appearing on the street without clothes.

According to Flarety, his partner "cleaned him out flat." This meant that during his peaceful slumbers somebody—he thinks it was his partner, because that gentleman is missing—entered his room and took his clothes, raincoat, pipe, razor and tobacco. He has sworn to a warrant charging his former room-mate with the deed; and Constable Jack Frost and Sheriff Wilson are looking for the missing man—and incidentally for Flarety's effects.
