

Wire Fence

We have just received another load of Peerless Wire Fence and we can offer you a good saving

"Just fence" may be good enough for the man who owns land worth three dollars an acre, but the up-to-date farmer wants, nothing but PEERLESS.

There's a lot of satisfaction in knowing that everything around the farm is dependable and as good as money can buy.

It's worth while to "turn down" cheap, flimsy fence, pay a few cents more, and get the kind you know is strong, rigid, elastic and durable.

We handle Peerless fence because we know it meets these conditions. We might sell more "cheap" fence for one season, but we know we can sell Peerless season after season, and make friends doing it.

Peerless hard steel galvanized wire and the superior Peerless construction can be seen at our store at any time. No matter for what purpose you need a fence, we have just what you want in the Peerless line. Why not take ten minutes and talk it over with us?

THE FASHIONS

New York, November 25, 1915.

It looks just now as if all the world would go on skates this winter just as all the world took up the dance craze last winter. Our Hippodrome is displaying some wonderfully attractive skating notions in its present show, and many of the glass-enclosed roof gardens have taken up the fad and are giving a skating cabaret instead of the dancing cabaret. The sport is wholesome and appeals to young and old.

Piquant Skating Costumes

Among the costumes, particularly youthful and chic, are the box coats, worn with short flaring skirts and tasseled Tam-o-Shanters. The Norfolk model too, is much in favor, and the sweater in some popular vivid tone combined with skirt of corduroy or tweed, is a prime favorite. Each of these suits allows the ease of movement so necessary to this sport, and the grace of line so much sought after in all costumes.

Pantalotte Costume

Fabrics favored for skating suits are tweed, in its various mixtures of soft browns, reds and grays; sweater cloth, warmly and vividly colored; lamb's wool, so light and warm; and numberless novelty wools and other fabrics favored for sports use. Corduroy should not be omitted; in wide and narrow wale, it is being used for both coat and skirt. The colors are pleasing and of course the wearing qualities of corduroy are too well known and appreciated to require mentioning. Corduroy lends itself particularly well to the belted Norfolk models for golfing and other out-of-door sports, as well as skating.

Coats Are Unlined

The belted Norfolk, the sweater coat, and the box model, now worn for sports are all of them unlined unless it be perhaps a shoulder yoke of satin or heavy silk as a sort of body foundation. This fact makes the fashioning of them at home a much simpler matter. Sport clothes, being more or less of a luxury, are of necessity expensive when purchased ready made; materials however may be purchased and the garment made at home very reasonably. A particularly effective suit seen recently, was developed in a soft sage green English coating; it was reversible, the underside being checked in soft blues, greens, reds and browns. Collar, wide cuffs, lapels and belt were made with the check outside; the coat was fastened with large brown leather buttons; a line of the buttons extended down the front of the skirt as well, adding a smart bit of trimming. Pockets are a great convenience for sports wear, and coat and suits this winter are well supplied. The various styles of collars too, so much a part of the new coats, are particularly adapted to real out-of-doors wear. The wide chin collar, coming well up about the throat and ears is becoming and wonderfully warm and practical. The throw scarf of the same material as the coat, or of a fur fabric, often attached directly to the coat itself, is a practical and comfortable notion; what could be more ideal for skating than the wide muff cuff, into which one may slip the hands and remove them instantly if necessary, doing away entirely with the danger of losing a valuable muff, and also the inconvenience of carrying one when the hands may be put to better use.

Pantalottes for Skating

Few of us but will appreciate the practical side of the pantalotte petticoat for skating and out-of-door wear. These pantalottes are generally made of heavy satin in the same tone as the suit, or skirt, and for skating, dancing and the numerous other purposes for which they are equally well suited, are trimmed with fur; then again the pantalottes are of silk, satin, or sateen, the lower part being faced with the same material as the suit. A dark blue corduroy skirt combined with a beautifully colored silk sweater with tasseled shawl ends, and fur-trimmed collar, worn over dark blue satin pantalottes edged with dull gold braid, was unusually chic. Just a glimpse is caught now and then of these fascinating accessories, as the wearer flashes by on her shining skates, or dips in the dance.

The Natty Tam-o-Shanter

Velvet, fur, fur-cloth, lamb's wool and the material of the suit are all used effectively in these charming little caps. Some are made Mandarin fashion with just a round hall of fur directly on the top by way of trimming; others have a hanging tassel of silk, and still others are woven with the very long, tasseled end of the Tyrolean skater's cap. Some of these are in black, but the majority are in a bright shade, orange, emerald green, royal blue, scarlet, or purple. The lamb's wool caps in these bright colors are particularly effective.

Tea time at college, just at candle light is perhaps the most enjoyable time of the day. The lonely girl from the West meets the lonely girl from the East, and friendships spring up which often endure through life. Many and varied are the topics of conversation at these late afternoon gatherings—clothes, of course, come in for a large share of attention, and often a girl with a small clothes allowance is given a hint or two which helps her to improve her appearance with little added cost.

The Girl with Deft Fingers

College and boarding school girls often enjoy an hour or two of sewing now and then; it varies the monotony of study and enables them to add effective little touches of their own to frock and blouse, rendering them somewhat different and more suitable to their own personality. At tea the other afternoon, one girl wore a simple serge jumper frock made with short full skirt and sleeveless over-bouse and an underwaist of dark blue crepe Georgette veiling emerald green crepe Georgette. The guimpe was made with a high collar finished at the top with a tiny frill of white; and closed straight down the front with small dull gold buttons. Narrow black moire ribbon formed the girdle.

closing on the left side in a small flat bow with long streaming ends. Six bands of the moire ribbon had been sewn on to the skirt at graduated intervals, giving the effect of flounces, and adding wonderfully to the appearance of the simple frock. The ribbon, which the wearer had herself applied, made the commonplace dress most attractive and unusual.

Variety in Collars and Cuffs

The simplest frocks or blouses may be made attractive and becoming by adding contrasting cuffs, or an unusual collar; these may be made removable and others substituted at will, thus achieving a pleasing change when the dress is becoming somewhat worn. It is an easy matter to fashion any number of these contrasting sets from bits of velvet, or ribbon (which is at the height of popularity for trimmings of all sorts just now), crepe Georgette, or chiffon. Nothing is softer or more becoming than a hem-stitched collar of crepe or chiffon; it will add a dressy look to the plainest of costumes. There is great choice in girdles, too, this winter. One of the popular notions is the narrow band of velvet, faille, or picot edged moire ribbon, drawn around the waist and tied in long ended flat bows.

Possibilities of Guimpes

Perhaps the greatest number of possibilities for varying the simple dress, when one has a limited supply of clothes, lie in the guimpe. These as a rule are charmingly simple, depending for effect upon the color contrast, the soft sheerness of the material, and perhaps a button or two, or a jeweled buckle by way of trimming. The everyday dress of serge, taffeta or broadcloth may have a variety of these guimpes for all hours of the day—for morning wear there will be one of plain black satin or taffeta; for afternoon and informal evening affairs, club luncheons, and teas, a guimpe of crepe Georgette, chiffon cloth, or net, in a harmoniously contrasting shade will render the costume dressy enough and most becoming.

Three Piece Suits

Another convenience is the three-piece, semi-tailored suit consisting of coat and skirt, combined with blouse of satin, chiffon-cloth, crepe de Chine or other contrasting material, in the same color or a shade that combines well with the color of the suit. A suit like this is easily fashioned at home, as there is absolutely no sign of the old-time tailored stiffness, padding, and various other things which a few seasons ago made the idea of fashioning a coat at home so alarming. The touch of fur which is so much a part of these suits just now renders them smart and becoming, as well as warm. Among the novelties noticed on many of these fur-trimmed suits is the "muff cuff." These are wide and flaring, made of fur or a fur fabric, and arranged so that the hands may be slipped into them quite as one would use a muff. This idea is especially practical for the suit for shopping or general wear, also for the heavy coat, as there is no danger of losing a valuable muff.

Muff Chains Once More

While speaking of the muff it is interesting to note that the muff cord or chain is again in favor. One sees it often; knotted satin and moire ribbon often form the cord; the regulation twisted cord is favored, too, and the jeweled chain is smart and effective. Fur trimmed petticoats and pantalottes are among the season's startling novelties; while the idea is somewhat ridiculous, a glimpse of the fur edged petticoat showing beneath the heavy suit is nevertheless attractive and fetching.

WILSON GREAT SLEUTH

Sheriff of Clackamas County Known about Murder Ahead of Time

Sheriff William J. Wilson, of Clackamas county, is a greater sleuth than William J. Burns. Maybe that isn't saying much, and maybe it is. William J. Burns says that William J. Wilson is the greatest detective that ever happened; but William J. Wilson doesn't claim any such distinction. Yet he ought to.

Truth is said to be stranger than fiction, and what follows should prove it.

Friday night there was a gruesome murder committed in a Portland lodging house. A man was strangled, and his dead body stuffed into a trunk. And before the crime was committed, Sheriff William J. Wilson foretold it. If that doesn't prove he is a great sleuth, it at least proves he is a clairvoyant.

Friday evening early Sheriff Wilson, Patrolman George Woodward and a humble Courier reporter were standing on Main street, discussing general disturbances of the peace. "Anything doing tonight, George," asked the humble Courier reporter.

Patrolman Woodward shook his head, and then he turned to the sheriff.

"Any murders tonight, Sheriff?" he asked.

"Not yet," answered Sheriff Wilson "but there will be one before the night is over."

He was looking at the humble Courier reporter when he said it, and the reporter thought the conversation was getting too personal, so he beat it. He didn't have any idea that Sheriff Wilson was forecasting what was going to happen in the next county.

The question now is: how did the sheriff know it? Or was it just a coincidence? The sheriff has been looking for crime for some time, so it hardly seems a coincidence!

Went to the Hospital

C. E. Blanchard, postmaster at Blanchard, Cal., writes: "I had kidney trouble so bad I had to go to the hospital. Foley Kidney Pills were recommended to me and they completely cured me. I cannot speak too highly of them."

Sufferers in every state have had similar benefit from this standard remedy for kidney and bladder ailments. It banishes back-ache, stiff joints, swollen muscles and all the various symptoms of weakened or diseased kidneys.—Jones Drug Co.

MORE LIGHT ON LAW

Multnomah County District Attorney Says Prohibit Act Strict

If newspaper reports are to be believed, District Attorney Evans of Multnomah county thinks there is a lot more in the statewide prohibition law than does the Honorable Christian Schuebel, city attorney of Oregon City and prospective candidate for the job of district attorney of this county. The Honorable Christian Schuebel has already ruled that the statewide law permits drinkers to get 24 quarts of beer AND two quarts of booze every four weeks, and that Peruna doesn't come under its provisions.

District Attorney Evans, however, says that one must choose between beer and booze and cannot have both in any one four-week period. Probably Mr. Evans knows, for he was smart enough once upon a time to hold down a job as deputy federal attorney. Likewise, regarding patent medicines, when taken as a beverage, Mr. Evans says they come under the provisions of the law. And not only that, but Mr. Evans goes a bit further, and says that any ingredient, whether in liquid form or not, that is designed to be used to make intoxicating liquor, comes under the law. As far as Multnomah county is concerned, this would bar "beer tablets" and such things—and might even be construed to pertain to malt, barley or hops.

Mr. Evans also differs from Mr. Schuebel in another important particular. Mr. Evans says the new law "is not prohibition at all, because it permits any person to get as much liquor as he needs." Mr. Schuebel, from the manner in which he speaks, says the law is a prohibition law.

It is curious how great minds differ, isn't it?—supposing that the Honorable Christian Schuebel and District Attorney Evans are to be classed together as "great minds." And at that, such a classification has to be liberal.

WAR HELPS AMERICA

Home Product Clay for Glass Found to be Better than Imported

American glass manufacturers who have felt the necessity of depending upon foreign clays will be able hereafter to assert their independence of foreign material, as a result of experiments that have been conducted by the United States Bureau of Standards. The Pittsburgh laboratory of that bureau, which is located near one of the chief centers for the industry in the United States, working in cooperation with the clay-pot industries, has learned that glass refractories (pots in which the glass is melted) can be prepared from American clays, with resulting better quality than that of the article manufactured with the addition of German plastic clays.

The mixture prepared from American clays proved superior in the glass-corrosion tests, both to the mixtures prepared with German clays combined.

The director of the Bureau of Standards states that the value of the results of this single investigation to American industry far surpasses the entire amount the Government has expended in the clay-products work since the time of its organization. The opinion of those in charge of the experiments is that from now on no foreign clays will be needed in this branch of manufacture. The work inaugurated by these experiments is now ready to be tried out on a large scale.

TEACHERS REORGANIZE

County Association of Pedagogues Plans Useful Year for 1916

With a pledge to do something during the coming year that would prove of general benefit to all teachers in the county and to the general school system as well, the Clackamas County Teachers' association met and reorganized Saturday in the Gladstone school. The following officers were elected to carry out the new program: President, Howard Eccles, of Canby; vice-president, Lena Ulen, of Ardenwald, and secretary-treasurer, John R. Bowland, of Oregon City.

Seventy teachers from all parts of the county attended the meeting, which lasted throughout the day. A pleasing vocal program was given by the Gladstone Choral society, and addresses were delivered by Dr. DeBusk, of the extension department of the University of Oregon, on the "Psychological Phases of Childhood;" F. J. Toozie, city superintendent of Oregon City, on "Arrested Development;" County Superintendent Calavan on contest work, and F. L. Giffin, of the extension department of the Oregon Agricultural college, on industrial work.
