

HELEN KELLER, FAMOUS MUTE, IS AGAIN REPORTED ENGAGED

HELEN KELLER (X) AND FRIENDS

Despite the persistent denials of both parties, reports of the engagement of Miss Helen Keller to Peter Fagan, a Socialist worker and formerly Miss Keller's secretary, were circulated in Boston and were generally credited by friends of the couple.

In Boston it was asserted that immediately before the departure of Miss Keller for Alabama, where she intended to spend the winter to regain her health, application for marriage intentions were made by both Mr. Fagan and Miss Keller. Friends believe that the publicity given to the reports led to the raising of objections against the marriage by Mrs. John A. Macy, life-long companion and teacher of the famous blind and deaf mute. In the picture are seen Miss Keller, Mrs. Macy, George A. Kessler of the permanent blind relief fund and Sergeant Middlemas, a blinded British soldier.

UNITED STATES, SWITZERLAND
SPAIN AND VATICAN APPEALED TO

American Charge D'Affaires Present
When Note is Read to Reichstag
—Germans Favor Lasting
Peace, Says Chancellor.

BERLIN, Dec. 13, by wireless to Hayville.—Germany and her allies today proposed to enter forthwith into peace negotiations.

The Austrian, Turkish and Bulgarian governments are making similar proposals. These proposals also have been transmitted to the Vatican.

The following announcement was given out today by the semi-official Overseas News Agency:

"The chancellor this morning received, one after another, the representatives of the United States of America and Spain and Switzerland, that is, of the states protecting German interests in hostile foreign countries. The chancellor transmitted to them a note and asked them to bring it to the knowledge of the hostile governments. The note was read today in the Reichstag by the chancellor.

"In the note the four allied (central) powers propose to enter forthwith on peace negotiations. The propositions which they bring for such negotiations are, according to their firm belief, for the establishment of a lasting peace.

"The governments at Vienna, Constantinople and Sofia transmitted identical notes and also communicated with the Holy See and all neutral powers."

The American charge d'affaires, Joseph C. Grew, and Mrs. Grew were among those present when the note was read in the Reichstag, as were the ministers of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and the other states of Central and South America.

PAPER IN THE MAKING.

Wood Pulp is the Basis of Most of the Modern Product.

Two thousand years ago paper was made by hand in little cradles. The word paper is derived from papyrus, a plant from the leaves of which a pulp was made by pounding and macerating in water. Nowadays, of course, improved machinery is used to make paper, and in this one item of manufacture America leads the world.

Writing paper is made mostly from rags, but for practically all other grades wood pulp is the basis. The wood used is spruce or poplar or hemlock. Poplar is used for fine book papers and spruce pulp goes into newspaper, wall paper and bag paper.

The fine wood pulp must, of course, be treated with a preparation containing clay, dyes and other ingredients and called "stuff" before it finally becomes paper. But by a careful process of filling in the open spaces with clay and pressing through heavy steel rollers or mangles, the wood pulp takes on the appearance and texture of paper.

As the product comes from the paper machine it is wound off on a reel, making a large roll. A roll of newspaper will weigh almost a ton and is often handled by a derrick, says the Philadelphia Ledger.

Thanks.

FEDERAL CHURCH COUNCIL BRINGS TOGETHER MANY PREACHERS AND LAYMEN

The third quadrennial meeting of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America was held in St. Louis, Mo., December 6-11, in the Second Baptist church.

The Federal council is a representative body, its constituent bodies being thirty of the leading Protestant denominations with an aggregate membership of 15,000,000. The total population represented by this membership is perhaps 35,000,000.

The St. Louis meeting was the largest and most important yet held. The official members or delegates were approximately 450 in number. They are appointed from the constituent denominational members. Some of the speakers of the meeting were: William Jennings Bryan, Professor Shailer Mathews, president of the council; Rev. Charles S. MacFarland, secretary of the council; Dr. Frederick Lynch, Gifford Pinchot, Raymond Robbins, Fred B. Smith, Dr. Charles L. Thompson, Dr. Robert E. Speer, Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, Bishop Samuel Fallows of the Reformed Episcopal church, Bishop E. R. Hendrix of the Methodist Episcopal church South; Professor Edward A. Steiner, Bishop Edwin H. Hughes of the Methodist Episcopal church and Hamilton Holt. Cut shows, top to bottom, Messrs. Mathews, Pinchot and MacFarland.

CHICAGO POLICE CHIEF QUILTS AS RESULT OF CLASH

RESIGNATION IS DUE TO WAR
ON OPENING OF SALOONS
ON SUNDAY.

SALOONKEEPERS ARRESTED ARE PROMPTLY FREED BY JURIES

City Officials Claim That State Does Not Prosecute Boozing Cases With Sufficient Vigor—Arrest of Violators Ordered.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—Almost simultaneously with a new order from Chief of Police Charles C. Healey to enforce vigorously the Sunday closing law came the admission of Mayor Thompson today that the chief of police would resign.

The new order instructed all policemen to arrest violators on sight and book them at the police stations.

Heretofore saloonkeepers who did not obey the law were arrested later on warrants or punished by revocation of their licenses, which, in many cases, were subsequently restored.

The order for general Sunday closing, issued more than a year ago, has been the source of continuous dissension between Mayor Thompson, a Republican, and Maclay Hoyne, Democratic state's attorney.

Chief Healey's resignation is attributed indirectly to the clashes between the state and city forces.

Saloonkeepers who were arrested on warrants after the closing order had been issued by Mayor Thompson were promptly freed by juries.

Criticism was made by city officials that the cases were not prosecuted by assistant state's attorneys with sufficient vigor, and the revocation power in the hands of the mayor was used as a weapon to enforce the law.

MORE GROUNDS BOUGHT FOR JENNINGS SCHOOL

HALF ACRE ADDED BY VOTE AT DISTRICT MEETING—CHURCH
MAKES REPORT.

JENNINGS LODGE, Ore., Dec. 14.—(Special).—At a special school meeting of the district it was voted to buy land adjoining the school. A half acre has been purchased from W. R. Jennings and wife and a 39 foot strip from Mr. Ullabrand.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Roethe and children departed for California on Thursday of last week for a two weeks' visit with Mr. Roethe's parents.

Mrs. Susan Losley was a recent visitor at the Etter ranch near Park place.

C. P. Morse drove down from Dolph and will remain with his family during the winter. Little Flora Alice Morse, who underwent a slight operation on Tuesday is recovering. Dr. Welsh was the attending physician.

Henry Smith was called to the bedside of his father at Willamette on Wednesday. H. R. Smith was suffering from a severe attack of heart failure.

Joe Brown, who recently returned from Hornbrook, Cal., autoed out from Portland, on Sunday to visit with friends. Mr. Brown, who is a traveling salesman and is soon to leave for Idaho.

A. C. McFarlane, who is interested in the Equitable Savings & Loan association, was a business caller at this place on Tuesday.

Mrs. John Jennings is somewhat improved and has returned home from Portland, accompanied by Mrs. Ella Spooner.

The second annual bazaar given by the Grace Guild was well patronized. Over 120 partook of the cafeteria supper, which was presided over by Mesdames Jacobs, Eades and Deter. At the attractive candy booth, Fern Hart and Annie Russell sold the sweets, while Mrs. A. A. Hopson and Mrs. Irene Onalms and Mrs. H. W. Smith had charge of aprons, rugs, quilts and fancy work. It netted $62.43. Red Cross stamp sale was $15.50.

The Tri-M's have a class membership and attendance contest on until January 31. There are to be three teams of eight each. The winners are to be banqueted by the other two teams, one team paying the bills while the other team washes the dishes. The name of class stands for mind, moral and muscle.

Miss Annie Russell was leader of the Christian Endeavor on Sunday evening, December 10. The Sunday evening worship followed by a sermon by the pastor and the male chorists sang.

The second annual meeting of the First Federated churches of Oregon City was held at the First Congregational church at that place on Thursday evening, December 7. While a number attended from here and as this church is part of the Federation, it was of interest to us to make mention of this meeting in this week's news items. The meeting was presided over by C. H. Dye. The reports of the four churches were given as well as reports from the Sunday school secretary, missionary treasurer and pastoral committee.

Election of the following officers took place for the ensuing year: President, C. H. Dye; secretary and treasurer, Earnest Purcell; missionary treasurer, Mrs. C. E. Lucas; Sunday school secretary, Mrs. H. N. Smith.

A social time followed with delicious refreshments served by the ladies of the Congregational church of Oregon City were much enjoyed. It was the first occasion of many meetings the new pastor, Rev. McCallum of Oregon City, and he spoke at the close of the affair. The clerk of Grace church submitted the following report of the year's work at Jennings Lodge:

"Since our last annual meeting we look back upon a few things that we have accomplished at Jennings Lodge. We have had five new members added to our membership roll, four upon confession of faith and one by letter. One of our faithful members passed on to dwell with Him, who doeth all things well. Three of our efficient workers have removed from the community, making ten non-resident members, or a total of 44 enrolled.

"The Sunday school is under the supervision of Frank Tucker, an enthusiastic and tireless worker and with efficient teachers, we are looking forward to great things in our Sunday school work this year.

"Perhaps one of the most valuable assets, not only to the Sunday school and church but the community as well, is the Tri-M's class, which is composed of fathers and sons and was recently organized with 18 members with Rev. Smith as teacher, they are taking the Bible and social living study up. Recently they gave a rollicking playette which netted a good sum. Their business meetings are held Thursday evening of each week. There are two patrols of Boy Scouts, the Eagles and Owls.

"The Christian Endeavor was reorganized after the summer months and six or eight are taking the Endeavor expert work. Two sunrise prayer meetings have been held at Easter and Thanksgiving time. The Endeavorers have pledged $25 to the church budget.

"The Guild is growing and working and the 29 members are busy with their second bazaar. The work committee announced an experience party for September which proved an easy way of making $30. It was a delightful and novel affair as the members related how they earned their dollars; most of them giving their experience in verse. The missionary committee had two splendid missionary programs. Our church organization has given only $9.80 for missions; $12.50 to the Anti-Saloon league, and $4.83 to Armenian sufferers.

"While we have not met our apportionment for missions the chairman of missionary committee of the Guild has sent out 'Tank' offering boxes, and judging from the way these boxes 'bottle' our missionary part will be taken care of better another year.

Lunch-Hound and Printer are Pals

"Jack" is a dog.
Clarence O. Dryden is night foreman of The Enterprise.
Being a printer he has been leading more or less of a dog's life for years. Mr. Dryden, we mean—not the dog.

But getting down to the doggone facts in the case, "Jack" is somewhat of a rouser. When at home he belongs to his lord and master, Dr. W. S. Eddy. When away from home he belongs to every kid in the neighborhood.

Martin Lindell is one of the communal owners of "Jack." Lindell is a young husky who carries papers for The Enterprise, making his appearance at the plant about 4 a. m. each morning. One morning Lindell stepped from his home only to meet "Jack" who was returning from an all night's carousal. Being a sport, "Jack" figured he would make a night of it, and accompanied his friend Lindell to the office of The Morning Enterprise.

The two arrived just as Foreman Dryden was licking his chops. Dryden had been eating, you know, and a few scraggly pheasant breasts and some French pastry crumbs had missed out on the chop licking.

The night foreman was in unusually good humor—for a night foreman.

"Here, pup," he jocularly growled. One gulp and "Jack" had done away with the delicacies. His appreciation knew no bounds and had not bystanders interfered he, too, would have licked Mr. Dryden's chops.

This all happened way long last April, and a bosom friendship at once sprang up between the man and the lunch-hound. At the same hour next morning Jack was back at the ration's post and again gobbled up a few of Mr. Dryden's extra sweetbreads and the odds and ends of the night foreman's regular evening porterhouse steak.

To make a long story short Jack has been the most phenomenal repeater of the age. He seldom misses a day, and when his friend Young Lindell forgets to bring him along, the dog comes down to the print shop of his own volition, and scratches away on the doors until he is permitted to enter the shop. During all the months Mr. Dryden has faithfully performed his part of the transaction, and the evening dinner pal always holds a goodly share for "Jack." The dog is a great favorite among the carrier boys who consider him and his morning let-a-tete with Dryden—the night foreman—as a very necessary formality.

WILSON TO VETO LITERACY TEST A SECOND TIME

PRESIDENT'S POSITION ON IMMIGRATION HAS NOT CHANGED IN LAST YEAR.

UNEXPECTED OPPOSITION TO BILL IN SENATE SUDDENLY DEVELOPES

Secret Session is Held to Discuss
Diplomatic Angles—Separate Vote
Will Be Demanded on Proposal to Exclude Aliens.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—While the immigration bill, passed by the house at the last session, was meeting unexpected opposition in the senate today, it became definitely known that President Wilson will veto the measure if it goes to the White House with the literacy test provision, one of its chief features.

The president early in his administration vetoed a similar bill for the same reason—as Presidents Cleveland and Taft had done before him—but advocates of the legislation had hoped that he would not withhold his signature this time if substantial majorities were given in both houses of congress.

Debate on the bill developed into a general argument over the question of exclusion of aliens on account of race. The amendment, recommended by the state department after inquiries had been made by the Japanese government respecting provisions of the bill as it passed the house, eliminates all references to the Root-Takahira passport agreement regulating Japanese immigration.

Senator Works insisted that this would leave the United States at the mercy of Japanese dictation as to immigration from that country. As treaty rights are involved, the senate went into executive session for the debate which lasted more than an hour without a vote.

NEW YORK'S FAMOUS SEVENTH RETURNS FROM BORDER DUTY

7th REGIMENT ON 5th AVENUE—COL. FISK (in uniform) AND COL. APPLETON. O. S.

New Yorkers turned out by thousands to welcome home the Seventh regiment, which arrived from the Texas border after five months of the hardest kind of "peace" service in Texas. Escorting by more than 1000 Seventh veterans, in addition to about 400 members of the depot battalion, the regiment as it marched up Fifth avenue was acclaimed by crowds which totaled, the police estimated, between 150,000 and 200,000 persons.

Every one cheered, and the Seventh never looked better than it did as it swept up the avenue, every man in his field uniform of khaki. All showed the effects of the hard service along the Rio Grande, a service that had tanned and hardened officers and men alike until they looked like seasoned regulars.

The reviewing stand was erected on the Fifth avenue side of the Union League club at Thirty-ninth street. When the head of the regimental column reached the reviewing stand, Colonel Willard C. Fisk, commander, lifted his hand to his campaign hat in salute to Governor Whitman, who was the reviewing officer. The veterans' organization, with

WEAKNESS OF THE NATION'S DEFENSE IS POINTED OUT

ADMIRALS DECLARE COAST STATIONS ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY AS AID TO NAVY.

FOE HOLDING 500 MILES COULD MAKE U. S. WARSHIPS HOMELESS

People No More Aware of Danger Than Baby on Railroad Track, Says Rear-Admiral Fiske—More Equipment Needed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The lack of adequate naval stations as a weakness in the naval establishment of the United States was discussed here today by Rear-Admirals Bradley A. Fiske and John R. Edwards, both retired, before the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

"South of Hatteras you haven't a crane that will lift a gun out of a turret of a battleship," he said. "It is a fact that there is not a place along the coast south of that cape where a battleship could go for repairs."

Rear-Admiral Fiske said that the "American people do not realize their danger any more than does a baby on a railroad track." He said it was the duty of the mechanical engineers to point out to their fellow citizens "what our country must do or perish."

Professor Cathcart said several American naval stations could be seized with ease if the American fleet were first defeated. As to the stations on this coast, he said "they all lie within an airline distance of 500 miles, although our Atlantic and Gulf coast lines are more than 8000 miles long. If any enemy should gain possession of these 500 miles of coast our dreadnoughts would be homeless unless the fleet could flee to the Bay of Panama."

REGISTRATION OF ALL ARCHITECTS FAVORED

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 13.—It will be made unlawful for any person following the profession of architect in Oregon to use the term "architect" without first registering with the state board of architecture, or some similar body designated by the legislature, provided either of the bills now being prepared by leading architects of the state are enacted by the coming legislature.

The Oregon chapter of the American Institute of Architects, of which W. C. Knighton, formerly state architect, is secretary, has a bill in course of preparation. The Oregon Society of Architects, of which Harrison A. Whitnep is president, also has a bill practically drafted which it intends to present to the legislature, both proposed measures covering much the same ground in their essential details.

STRIKE IS THREATENED BY VAUDEVILLE ACTORS THROUGH MIDDLE WEST

WHITE RATS UNION DEMANDS
CLOSED SHOP—MANAGERS
HUNT STRIKEBREAKERS.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Theatrical strikes in several cities are black. An actors strike that may cripple or darken every vaudeville and burlesque theatre in the middle west is in the offing. Vaudeville and burlesque "artists," members of the White Rats Actors' Union of America—have issued an ultimatum to theatre managers and booking agencies.

"Give us recognition and a closed shop or we'll close your theatre," reads the demand in substance.

To this the managers have answered with silent defiance and feverish activity. Secretly, they are combing the middle west for non-union "talent" that may be held in reserve for strike-breaking duty.

TAX LIMITATION WORRY TO STATE LAWMAKERS

RESTRICTED LEVY WILL NOT PROVIDE FUNDS FOR NEEDS OF OREGON GOVERNMENT.

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 13.—By levying for next year the full state tax authorized by the 6 per cent tax limitation amendment, provision can be made for the ordinary maintenance of state institutions and departments, and $234,250 allowed for improvements, it was decided at a meeting of the state tax commission today. Under the amendment, a tax of $2,699,250 can be raised, and this will be the sum levied.

Compared with this year, this is an increase of $814,250, and compared with the average levy for the current biennium it is a decrease of approximately $131,750. Next year's levy will be based on a valuation of approximately $578,000,000 which is about $56,000,000 less than the valuation on which this year's levy was made. Millage rate next year will be approximately 3.1 compared with 2.7 this year and 3.3 in 1915. The decrease in valuation, says the commission, is responsible for the increase in the millage rate.

Although $234,250 is allowed for improvements, the commission figures that this sum will be largely, if not entirely, absorbed by legislative appropriations for other purposes, for in pruning to meet the requirements of the amendment the commission included only appropriations expressly established by law. No provision is made in the levy, for instance, for money to match the federal appropriations for read-building, nor is any provision made for aid for sectarian and charitable institutions, the appropriations for which during the current biennium were more than $100,000.

Raymond Canfield, a member of the party that left Oregon City December 2 for a visit to the plant of the Willys-Overland automobile factory at Toledo, Ohio, returned to Oregon City Tuesday.
