

Summer Colds Weaken

They are even more dangerous than winter colds, for they hang on so long that they become chronic catarrh. Heat and dust aggravate them, cause the infected surface to spread, and fill the body with systemic catarrh. Neglect costs health and energy.

PERUNA EXPELS CATARRH

It does more—it builds up the weakened system, regulates the digestion, removes the inflammation, overcomes the poisons of catarrh, and invigorates all over. Forty-four years of success proves its great value, of which thousands gladly testify.

Accept the verdict of two generations yourself. Don't be swayed by prejudice, when your health is at stake. Take Peruna and get well.

Liquid or tablet form, whichever is the more convenient.

LICENSE INCREASED

To Insure Work Automobilists Should Vote for Bonds

Many automobile owners are of the opinion that the law increasing the license on motor vehicles is included and made a part of the $6,000,000 road bond bill. In this they are wrong.

The automobile license was doubled in the motor vehicle law which was enacted by the last legislature. It is now a law. The increased automobile license will be in effect and will be collected regardless of whether or not the road bond bill is approved by the voters at the June election.

Furthermore, the motor vehicle law contains a provision that the money raised from automobile licenses shall be available for road construction under the plan outlined in the $6,000,000 road bond bill if the bond bill carries.

In other words, if the road bond bill is defeated, the automobile license money may be used for other purposes. If the road bonds are approved, the automobile owner has the positive assurance that the money derived from the increased automobile licenses will be expended in building good roads.

Remember this: The automobile owner will have to pay the increased license any way, regardless of the fate of the $6,000,000 road bond bill.

A vote for the road bond bill by the automobile owner is a vote for the expenditure of the automobile license money, which has to be paid anyway, in building a system of state-wide permanent highways as outlined in the road bond bill.

In voting for the road bond bill, the automobile owner will simply pave the way for the expenditure of license money that he will be required to pay, in building serviceable hard-surfaced roads in all sections of the state.

Every automobile owner is directly and personally interested in the road bond bill. In voting for that measure he will merely be asking that the money he will be required to pay anyway shall be spent in building roads. The automobile owner has everything to gain and nothing to lose by voting for the road bonds.

MR. PUSEY SUE

Divorced Wife of Oregon City Man Sues Him by Action

Mystery enfolds the suit filed Thursday at Portland by Julia Pusey Procter against Henry F. Pusey, both of Oregon City, to recover $9700 alleged to be due for services performed for the defendant prior to September 27, 1916.

"I am wholly in the dark as to what the suit is all about," said Mr. Pusey Thursday night. "She never performed any services for me. I do not know even of the suit having been filed, as I have not yet been served."

Mrs. Julia Pusey Procter was formerly the wife of the defendant. The two were divorced in 1890, and the woman married again.

James N. Davis, attorney for Mrs. Procter, would not disclose the nature of the services rendered, although he intimated they were of a quite extraordinary nature and concern an estate of large size.

Mr. Pusey is a brother-in-law of W. P. Hawley, of the Hawley Pulp & Paper company. Mr. Pusey, too, married, and his wife, a Californian woman, had extensive property interests near Santa Ana, Orange county, Cal.

Her death occurred about three years ago, and litigation followed in the disposition of her property. Mr. Pusey entered suit and after some time he got the property he sued for by a decree of the supreme court of California.

It is surmised the estate referred to by attorney for the plaintiff is that which Mr. Pusey obtained through legal action in California.

AUDUBON DISPLAY

Main Street Window Exhibits Fine Nature Collection

The local Audubon society has taken one of the large display windows in the Huntley Drug Company's store to show its fine collection of birds' nests, bird pictures and bird houses. The nests, just as they were manufactured by their feathered occupants, include those of a number of rare birds, in addition to the more common varieties. The display is well worth a visit.

WHAT DOES DEATH MEAN?

An Artist Called It "The Chance to Explore the Infinite."

A new definition of death is that by a French artist, who has now tested the truth of his own words. "Death," said he, "is the chance to explore the infinite." The definition is in the same mood as that of the late Charles Frohman as he went down on the Lusitania. It is a bit more definite, however, than "Death is life's most beautiful adventure." It expresses the nature of the adventure.

This French artist, it seems, was enamored of the space idea. He was ever viewing the world as a vessel voyaging. He endeavored with artist vision to visualize the world as rushing through infinitude by other worlds or in a stream of comets, planets, asteroids, suns. And his dream was of flights across the gulfs to Mars, to Venus, outside the solar system, to Sirius and the greater suns. With paint he strove to render what Goethe expresses in the song of the archangel in the opening of "Faust."

All the kinds of us pass over, willingly, reluctantly. We have no choice, and there are no exemptions. Probably we have no choice concerning what death is to be. Whether it means extinction or confers immortality, whether it is a glorious adventure or ushers us into another sordid existence bounded by another death, we have no power to determine. We await its coming and its solution, both. We are its victims or its beneficiaries, but we have no power to change its destiny. The bold dreamer welcomes it as opportunity. The timid spirit is reconciled to it as rest. Perhaps it will bring to every man his different hope. Let us so trust.—Minneapolis Journal.

FIT THE MAN TO THE JOB.

Square Pegs Are Not Made to Go Into Round Holes.

In the American Magazine is an article entitled "Are You a Square Peg in a Round Hole?" by Herman Schneider, dean of the school of engineering of the University of Cincinnati. Dean Schneider has devoted his life to making successes out of failures and to finding the right job for the right man. He believes that failure is seldom more than an indication of the right path to success. Among other things he says: "Every individual has certain general traits; every kind of work has certain general characteristics. The problem is to interpret the traits of the individual, classify the characteristics of the job and then guide the individual into the job for which he is supremely fitted. This is one real employment problem."

"There are very many human characteristics, but there are a few broad and general ones which frequently make for success or failure."

"There is a type of a man who wants to get on the same car every morning. Get off at the same corner, go to the same shop, ring up at the same clock, stop his lunch in the same locker, go to the same machine and do the same class of work day after day. Another type of man would go crazy under this routine. He wants to move about, meet new people, see and do things. The first is settled; the second is roving. The first might make a good man for a shop manufacturing a standard product; the second might make a good railroad man or a good outdoor carpenter. A failure in one line of work may prove a big success in another."

United States of America.

The assumption of the title "the United States of America" first appears in Jefferson's draft of the Declaration of Independence, and in this particular the first draft was not altered by the congress in ordaining the Declaration. The words are found in the final paragraph and thus appear in the official copy on file: "We therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in general congress assembled." On Sept. 9, 1776, the congress first officially designated the new nation by the title and style of the United States of America.

Sip Hot Water to Relieve Coughing. Persons chronically ill, especially those suffering from consumption, have sudden and wearing attacks of coughing. In an emergency, the Medical Fortnightly says, hot water will often prove very effective. Water is much better than some of the remedies which disorder digestion and spoil the appetite. Water very hot, almost boiling, should be sipped when the paroxysms come on.

CHURCHES DONATE

Y. M. C. A. Fund Will Soon Be Raised in Oregon City

The demands of the moral and mental life of soldiers at this time was explained to the local army Y. M. C. A. committee Friday afternoon. J. M. Angier of Portland explained the work which the association will attempt to do. Plans were made at the meeting of the committee with clergymen and others interested, for presenting the purposes of the association's army branches in all the churches of the city Sunday morning.

This week the active work of collecting $600 for the association fund started. The amount is the apportioned share of the Oregon City district. Probably the local committee will see to the organization of branches throughout the county so that an effective campaign for funds may be made. The Ministerial association Friday voted an appropriation of $19 for the work.

The campaign for funds was taken to all the churches in the city on Sunday and the clergy cooperated splendidly in the work. The donation of the Congregational church amounted to $125 and in other

A Hemming Tip. In sewing hems of towels or sheets or muslin, in starting them from the end place a piece of paper under the needle and sew through it for about two inches, then on to the hem. This will prevent the clogging of the thread and needle. Then after tearing off the paper the threads are there for tying the end.

Height of Hopefulness. He—After I am out of college, darling, I may have to wait a few months before I can make enough to support you. She—It is so hard to wait. He (bravely)—I know it. But of course you know the world doesn't know anything about me yet.—Exchange.

Ambiguous. "How are you, old man? Feeling pretty strong?" "No, only just managing to keep out of the grave."

"Oh, I'm sorry to hear that!"

Reason, prudence, caution, courage, justice, co-operation and conciliation are requisites to economic growth and strength.—Elbert H. Gary.
