Brighter and Happier Hours in Your Kitchen

How can you make the hours spent in your kitchen BRIGHTER and HAPPIER?

Cooking is not REALLY drudgery.

There is real satisfaction in being able to make good bread, or cake, or biscuits.

DOING THINGS WELL is a very great happiness in itself.

The most agreeable tasks are those that bring certain results. And when you can SEE these results for yourself and SHOW them to others, you are justly PROUD.

Why, then, are you sometimes disheartened because you must spend at least PART of your time in a kitchen?

Why do you sometimes almost wish that STOVES had never been invented—or that YOU, at least, might be released from having anything to do with one?

WHY?

Ask Yourself These Questions—

Is not my frequent distaste for the kitchen due to the fact that my kitchen is often hot and stuffy?

Is it not the accumulation of DIRT and SOOT on pots, pans and stove that discourages me?

Might not ONE cause of unhappiness be the STOVE itself?

Isn't it heat and the dirt that comes from the STOVE itself?

Isn't it heat and the dirt that comes from the STOVE that gives me back-aching worryment?

Might not the elimination of these "stove worries" also eliminate my FAILURE?

Might it not make possible much greater success with my cooking, thus assuring me real and lasting happiness in my everyday home-work?

It would pay you to find out what ELECTRIC COOKING will do to put an end to these failures and relieve you of the uncertainties and discouragements of your kitchen hours.
