

THEY'RE A HUNGRY BUNCH AT OFFICERS' RESERVE CAMP

San Francisco every day. The amber liquid flows in streams and Sunday is not nearly so much the Lord's day as it is one for the free exercise by the devil of all his powerful wiles. From bars to barber shops San Francisco is wide open on Sunday. But one never sees a man in the uniform of the training camp taking part in such things, for Lieut.-Col. F. W. Sladen, commanding the Presidio, has set the 10 o'clock rule and President Wilson and congress have made it impossible to sell liquor to uniformed men.

Taking all in all, there is a lot of joy hereabouts. We have our burden of work, and at times it does seem powerfully heavy, especially when that beastly bugle toots its awful music at 5:20, but the men are getting hardened to the grind, faces are getting brown and those new to the military business have learned how to drop their guns so as to miss their right feet. No one could possibly take this camp for a huge picnic party, and those who came here with that idea in mind have vanished from our midst. Their names are not published, but occasionally we miss a familiar face—the face of one who threw up the sponge, or whose physical inability to stand the strain has caused him to be sent to home and mother.

Oregon City won't see her sons for three months, that is practically assured. Every one of the men has proved his mettle by doing his full duty and standing up under the pressure of hard work, and that means, no doubt, that all will remain.

On Friday the 15 companies in camp were ordered out for their first "hike." That took up two hours of perfectly good time and covered approximately six miles of hilly roads in and about the Presidio. The student soldiers were shown all parts of this great fort and marched to a height over San Francisco bay, where they had a wonderful view of the great ocean with its scenes of intense activity. Ben Harding, of the 1st company, came back to camp after that march with a great hole in his sock. Aside from that he was as cheerful as the birds he saw in Golden Gate park last Sunday when he traveled that way on a sight seeing tour. Ben is charged with having knocked down two perfectly good and healthy men in his mad rush for the shower baths after the march.

Wednesday, Decoration day, is a holiday for the training camp students. And just to make the holiday a complete success our instructors have assigned a mass of reading that they advise us to complete before Thursday. Aside from that they ask us to observe several formal functions among the regular soldiers and intimate that it would be nice for us to take part in some of the services.

The cooks in the 30 mess houses in the training camp cooked 600 chickens for Sunday dinner. Goodness only knows how many pounds of precious potatoes and peas were used. That gives a minor idea of the capacity the students have for food. Many were absent on Sunday, of course, and for that Cecil Koffman was overjoyed. Koffman spent most of Sunday in his bunk after having received his second dose of typhoid prophylactic on Saturday. He had a headache and a pair of sleepy eyes at the dinner table, but the dose seemed not to bother his appetite in the least. His mates in the 10th company tell me he took enough time off from sleeping on Sunday to write to seven girls in Oregon City.

For a full week I dreamed haunting things about buglers and wars and such like before I knew that William E. Graham of Oregon City dreamed the same dreams about the same buglers and the same wars and things in the same room with me. Bill pushed me off the mess hall steps one morning just because I was the first one there and by way of letting us know that he had arrived here with all his good looks and health. Graham was transferred to the 4th company last week and that may account for the fact that we hadn't discovered him. Graham goes out for an hour or so every few evenings to visit Harry Williams, merely to see, he says, that Harry keeps his face clean and his heart open to welcome company in his quarters.

Officers have been asking the students to get the humps out of their shoulders and develop a chest expansion. But few of them know how to accomplish these things for the men as well as the instructor of the 13th company, in which Arthur Caylor is stationed. "Will the red haired young man with the glasses please draw his chest back slightly so that the line may be straight," Caylor's commander politely requested yesterday. Caylor dropped back instantly and as promptly his chest development started. And he believes he has won fame in the eyes of his commander because of his red hair and heavy rimmed glasses.

CAPTURE BOOZE TRUNK

Federal Authorities Furnish Information Which Leads Officers to Booze Trunk. On information furnished by federal authorities, Deputy District Attorney Burke and Justice of the Peace Sievers captured a trunk containing four bottles of gin, one 10-gallon keg and two demijohns of whisky at Clackamas station Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The trunk was checked from San Francisco and billed as excess baggage; party unknown. The district attorney has men on the lookout for the party calling for the trunk.

RED MEN BUY BONDS

Authorize Trustees to Purchase $250 Worth of Liberty Loan

Wacheco Tribe No. 13, Improved Order of Red Men, of Oregon City, will buy $250 worth of Liberty Loan bonds, the trustees of the order being authorized to make the purchase at a meeting of the lodge Tuesday night. This is the first organization in Oregon city to signify its intention to buy the war bonds.

DEFAULT ORDERS ENTERED

Two Divorce Defendants Fail to Answer Summons

Orders of default were entered in the divorce cases of Anna Rogers versus Jack Rogers and Martha Webb versus Claude Webb. Samuel E. Lowe was granted a divorce from Jennie E. Lowe by Judge J. U. Campbell Tuesday. Mrs. Lowe did not contest the suit.

Send Disbursement Blanks

Disbursement blanks to cover expenses of war census marshals were received here Tuesday and forwarded to the marshals in 81 precincts by girls of the National Honor Guard working under District Attorney G. L. Hedges. It is not thought that any of the marshals will ask any pay for their services, although a few may have other items of expense.

Caribou of Alaska.

The chief food of the caribou of Alaska is reindeer moss, of a greenish white color, which is scattered over the hills and mountains of Alaska. Their favorite feeding grounds are on the treeless and semitreeless parts of the territory, including the tundras along the coast of the Arctic ocean, and down to the Pacific side of the Alaska peninsula. They scatter widely in summer and collect in herds in the fall. Each herd has its leader, and it is said that if the leader is killed the rest of the herd becomes panic stricken and stampedes back and forth until another animal takes the lead.

Plenty of Cause.

"You say that Miss Oldstyle is suffering from severe mental shock? What caused it?"

"Why, she's been claiming that she's only twenty-eight years old, and then somebody found her name in one of those 'thirty years ago' columns in the newspapers."—Buffalo Express.

A Fresh Start.

"Send me some money to get me out of this trouble," wrote the wayward youth, "and I promise to begin all over again."

"Yes," muttered the father, crumpling up the letter in his horny fist, "that's precisely what you would do if I sent it."—Boston Transcript.

A Lost Range of Mountains.

A great range of mountains once extended from the eastern end of Lake Superior southwest to beyond the Missouri river. In places they were a mile high. Weather and volcanic action wore them down, the sea covered them and today they are prairie.

Put a Stick in the Knot.

When tying a knot in rope which must stand much strain put a stick of soft wood in the knot for it to close on. When you want to untie the knot break the stick and pull out both ends. Your knot can be easily untied, according to Farm and Fireside.

Schubel Debates at Eugene

Christian Schubel, an attorney of this city, and a member of the "Twelve Disciples of Road Efficiency" of the Oregon City Commercial club, debated the proposed $6,000,000 road bond issue with Allen Eaton, former member of the legislature, at Eugene Wednesday night. Mr. Schubel took the affirmative side.

Guardsmen Changed

A company of National Guardsmen from the Clackamas range were transferred here this week to take the place of the company stationed here to guard the government canal locks and the mills of this city. The destination of the company transferred from here was not given out.

Charges Inhuman Treatment

Charging cruel and inhuman treatment, Mrs. Augusta S. Vehr asks for a divorce from Gerhard A. Vehr, whom she married in Cincinnati, Ohio, June 21, 1904. The couple have lived here for five years. She claims he has not supported himself or the family for the past nine years.

Four Will Graduate

Eight grade graduation exercises will be held in the Willamette school this evening and tomorrow evening the high school commencement exercises will be held. Four high school pupils will receive diplomas.

Wants Maiden Name

The only New suit for divorce filed in the Clackamas county court Saturday was that of Gladys New, who charges that Jefferson New deserted her. The couple was married in Oregon City, December 10, 1913. She asks to have her maiden name, Gladys Hall, restored to her.

WILL FINE SPEEDERS $1 MILE FOR SECOND OFFENSE

Speeders who do not heed the lenient assessments of Justice of the Peace Kelso of Milwaukie and come back charged with a second offense will be fined a dollar a mile and more for each succeeding offense, that officer declared this week. He said he is desirous of cooperating with Motorcycle Officer H. E. Meades, whose crusade against reckless drivers has netted the arrests of nine motorists who have appeared before Judge Kelso and more than 40 who have appeared before Justice of the Peace Sievers in Oregon City. Those arrested this week and who were taken before the Milwaukie court were Herman Vicknell, L. M. Traven, Portland Knitting company, E. Goldberg, F. B. Malone, R. J. Kirkley, W. L. Stanford and O. L. Parker. Kirkley and the Portland Knitting mill were fined five dollars, the others drawing ten dollar assessments.

Livy Stipp, Mrs. W. A. Dimick, Mrs. Charles H. Caulfield, Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. E. E. Brodie, Mrs. C. O. T. Williams, Mrs. Ross Charman, Miss Muriel Stevens and Mrs. Thompson Meldrum.

Knitting classes meet Wednesday and Friday under the direction of Mrs. C. Harris. This work has been taken up by Mrs. J. W. Loder, Mrs. W. T. Milliken, Mrs. G. D. Anderson, Mrs. Ida Lyons, Miss L. Fredericksen, Mrs. Dawson, Mrs. William Andersen, Mrs. W. A. White, Miss Mary McIntyre, Mrs. J. P. Lovett, Mrs. Louise Hesselid, Mrs. Robert Goodfellow, Mrs. A. L. Park, Mrs. J. J. Tobin and Mrs. Peter Forbes.

At a meeting attended by many of the members in the Commercial club Wednesday night, Dr. H. S. Mount, who is at the head of the organization, appointed the following committees to work with others already appointed: Civilian relief, Dr. A. L. Beattie, Mrs. H. S. Moody, Mrs. Dickson, E. L. Johnson, Mrs. Pickens; military relief, Mrs. Linn Jones, Mrs. T. O. Omond, Mrs. James Cary, Mrs. H. Dixon, Mrs. J. N. Wisner; membership, Grant Dimick; publicity, H. Kelly, Nan Cochran; finance, Adolph Jacobs, William Andersen, Dr. C. H. Meisner, Mrs. J. W. Norris and G. E. Sullivan.

Many of the Oregon City members went to Beaver Creek Saturday night, when a local branch was organized at that place. A benefit for the Beaver Creek Red Cross was given under the auspices of the K. U. club, Farmers' union and the grange.

The program consisted of the following numbers: Male quartet; reading, John F. Mason, of Oregon City; address, C. E. Spence; reading, Mrs. R. L. Badger; address, Dr. H. S. Mount; address, James Cary; solo, Mrs. William Davis; reading, John F. Mason; vocal selections by Oregon City talent interspersed the speaking numbers and a ladies' quartet took part.

Mrs. George Havill, president of the K. U. club, Mrs. W. J. Herman, secretary and treasurer, Mrs. A. Thomas, chairman of the program committee, arranged the program. Mrs. William Thomas, Mrs. S. P. Londergan, Mrs. William Daniels, Mrs. Ferris Mayfield, Miss H. Lewellyn and Mrs. J. R. Hoff composed the supper committee.

A road meeting and basket social was held at Yoder Saturday night, at which Judge Grant B. Dimick was the principal speaker. Following the meeting a special car over the Willamette Valley Southern carried many of the audience to the Red Cross meeting at Beaver Creek.

MILWAUKIE COUPLE MARRY

Miss Olivia Johnson Wedded to Clarence Connor Tuesday Evening

Miss Olivia Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Johnson, of Milwaukie, was married to Clarence Connor, an employee of the Menefee shingle mill, at the Catholic parsonage Tuesday evening. Bert Montgomery was best man and Mrs. R. L. Large, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. Mrs. Connor is a native of Milwaukie and a graduate of the high school and St. Mary's Normal school. She taught school in the Harmony district during the term just closed. The newlyweds will make their home in Dr. Calvert's bungalow for the present.

Rev. Geil Returned

Rev. H. H. Geil, pastor of the Milwaukie Evangelical church, has been returned to that pastorate by the state conference at Monmouth last week. He was reelected to succeed himself as secretary of the conference.

Winsome Waists for Winsome Girls

The New Wirthmor's at $1

YES, it cannot be questioned; a winsome waist adds a lot to any girl's attractiveness. It gives a finishing touch to her entire appearance; in a sense, sets off whatever else she is apparelled in. Though costing but a dollar, it can be truthfully said Wirthmor Waists possess this attribute: a quality that has endeared them to thousands of discriminating women everywhere.

Close co-operation with the maker, with the large resulting savings in making and selling costs, makes possible the sale of the Wirthmor at $1.00

BIG DEBATE

ON THE

$6,000,000 Bond Issue

BETWEEN

HON. C. E. SPENCE

AND

HON. E. J. ADAMS

MR. SPENCE has campaigned the state in opposition to the bonds and has some very interesting facts to present.

MR. ADAMS is State Highway Commissioner and has spent considerable time in support of the bond issue and has good argument on behalf of the measure.

COME! COME!
