REPUBLICANS SUPPORTING THE PRESIDENT

The first real division in congress arising from the measures which the president desires for the conduct of the war came in the house committee on military affairs. The bill under consideration was the "selective draft" proposal, a measure to which the president has shown ample favor and which military authorities are agreed will produce most speedily the best kind of an army.

All of the democrats, save three, refused to support the president. All of the republicans, save two, supported the president. Among the Democratic dissenters were the southern chairman of the committee; and of the three who stood by Mr. Wilson only one came from south of the Mason and Dixon's line. The two Republican dissenters hail from the middle west, where the public mind is not yet receptive to the truth that the country was "stung," as Congressman McCormick puts it, when it voted for Mr. Wilson on the assurance that would keep us out of war.

This vote shows that a lot of time and effort are being wasted in the numerous appeals which are being made to Republicans to support the president. Republicans need no urging to support the nation—and if that means, at the same time, support of policies which the president advocates, Republicans will not withhold their co-operation. The real field for missionary effort, therefore, is in the democratic party.

GOOD ROADS MILITARY NECESSITY

"An important element in military preparation and advancement is the proposed highway system in Oregon. We right now are confronted with what it would mean to attempt to move troops and military equipment over country roads in this state in the present condition."

After making the foregoing statement, General George A. White reviewed the many advantages a country with good roads has over a country with poor roads in time of war. He called attention to the wonderful highways of France which enable that nation to move troops and supplies in double time and mentioned Napoleon as the original good roads builder of that nation.

"We all realize," said the General, "that it would be impossible to build in Oregon a complete highway system that would be of immediate use in event of early active warfare, but if the road measure is approved by the people in June it should provide funds for ready use in repairing and constructing stretches of the worst road; and this might prove of vital importance later on."

UNUSUAL TRAINING NEEDED

Representative Julius Kahn, ranking Republican of the committee on military affairs, is against attempting to send an army abroad until they have received a year's training in modern warfare. Mr. Kahn asserts that the European belligerents do not send their men to the trenches until they have received that amount of drill, and it would be simple butchery to expect our boys to stand up against the enemy without proper instruction in trench fighting. Again, Mr. Kahn thinks that although plenty of officers can be found who know the ordinary drill of infantry, cavalry and artillery, it will be difficult to find men who can train our recruits in the art of war as it is now practiced, which will cause further delay in the adequate preparation of an army of 500,000.

SHALL WE UNMAKE CARRANZA?

Carranza is said to look upon the present situation as affording him a fine opportunity to secure a loan from the United States as the price of his friendship during our trouble with Germany. Carranza may find out his mistake. It would be better, of course, if we could pursue our programme of hostilities against Germany without incidental rumpuses on our southern frontier. And yet, a preliminary skirmish with the Mexicans would be excellent warming-up exercise for our troops preparatory to getting upon the battlefields abroad. The administration at Washington made Carranza and it can unmake him.

WASTED MONEY

The German emperor spent enormous sums of money in espionage and propaganda work in the United States, with only two results: When war was declared, public opinion more rapidly crystallized in support of the war policy, and former German subjects found it necessary to declare the more promptly their loyalty to the country of their choice. The German people might well condemn the Kaiser for wasting a lot of good money.

THE GUARANTEE

The personnel of the highway commission, appointed by Governor Withycombe, is in itself a guarantee that the money derived from the proposed $6,000,000 good roads bond issue will be wisely and economically expended. It is a further guarantee that every cent of the money will be spent in practical road construction. There will be neither waste nor extravagance in the expenditure of the fund.

HEROES NOT ALL DEAD

The American navy has distinguished itself in every war by deeds of surpassing valor, strategy and skill. Here is risking a guess that it will not be many moons before some warship bearings the Stars and Stripes will stage the biggest "stunt" in this greatest war in all history.

In voting the good roads bonds June 4, the voters of the state are taking absolutely no chances. The bill authorizing the bonds specifically describes the roads to be improved and defines the general character of their construction. Bids will be invited and, if the proposals are excessive, the Highway commissioners have announced that they will do their own paving. What more could be asked?

None of the money to be expended for good roads under the bonding act will be expended in Multnomah county although that county pays 40 per cent of the automobile licenses of the state and a proportionate share of the regular quarter mill road tax.

A vote for the good roads bonds June 4 will be a vote to help pull Oregon out of the mud.

FORUM OF THE PEOPLE

OREGON CITY, R.I. April 23.—(Editor of the Enterprise)—Just a word in regard to your article in the last issue concerning Warner Grange and the Oregonian editorial.

No, the people of Warner Grange are not humorists; that is to say they can not see any funny side to this "Warrent Octopus" $6,000,000 bond scheme. They can see only the serious side of the proposition, and from past examples in road-bonding propositions in Oregon this one surely has some serious side. As to the Oregonian editorial:

The majority of the people of Warner Grange are reading, thinking people, and do not wait for the Oregonian to think for them, and due to this fact they know of this gigantic bonding scheme several months before the bill was presented to the legislature. The majority got on the inside of the game that was played at the Benson hotel about last August, and also by watching the doings at the legislature where they were pretty well squared away on the matter immediately after the legislature adjourned.

Diverting the Pacific highway between Oregon City and New Era from its present position to the one proposed along the river is sufficient evidence to the majority of the members of Warner Grange that scenery is a matter of first importance when laying out the roads to be built otherwise the present route would be followed as it could be built for at least one-fifth of the proposed route. Any eighth grade school kid would concede, that even the roads designated as Roads of First Importance, could not be built with six million dollars. The majority of the members know that the 6 per cent limitation does not limit the amount that can be raised by bond issues. Hence 38 or 50 millions may be demanded. It is very evident that Warner Grange knew what she was doing when she said our roads were being placed in the hands of the millionaires, as we notice the chairman of the highway commission is a millionaire and working without salary. We believe that the man who accumulates a million in wealth has not the interest of the majority of the common people at heart. It's the big fellows he is looking out for.

Common sense teaches us that it is very unnecessary to call a special election to vote upon this proposition. It was done only for the purpose of getting the paving companies in the clear before their patents expire and for rendering a service to the public. Such "snotty" stuff as the Oregonian has been doing out on this bond proposition doesn't sit well in a reflecting mind and here's warning that the bonding bill is going "in on a blind side," on June 4.

A member of Warner Grange.

MAPLE LAKE, April 18.—(Editor of the Enterprise)—I was very much amused when in looking over the Sunday edition of your paper, I came upon an article chiefly devoted to Brother Spence and your humble servant. It is truly wonderful that a shot fired in the dark as mine of recent date was, should have hit such a shining mark, for he must have been vitally hurt to have emitted such a prolonged wail. He has taken my advice with a vengeance. It is the same old cry, the little man must sit tight, and keep his mouth shut. I do not claim to be very rich, or successful, according to the lights of this gentleman who signs himself "Tavpayer," with a big T. But I feel I have paid my full proportion of the taxes in this county for the last 15 years, and have done so uncomplainingly, although I will admit it has sometimes been a little hard. I was not always as poor in dollars as I am at present, and I have sometimes felt a little pride in my property, for there was once a time in my life when I was compelled to choose between a few paltry dollars and honor, and I thank God I had the moral courage to decide the way I did. This taxpayer seems to think that Brother Spence and I are alone in this matter, not so, on the 11th inst we had a little gathering of small taxpayers, there were about a 100 voters present representing 14 granges of our county and one from Multnomah, and after listening patiently for sometime to a discussion on the merits of the $6,000,000 bond measure a vote was taken which resulted in an almost unanimous decision against said measure. Only three voted for it. One a sister interested in the real estate business, a brother sometimes spoken of as capitalist, and a prominent attorney of Oregon City. Misery loves company they say, if so Brother Spence and I have no cause to feel lonely.

As to his arguments in support of the measure, they are on a par with his mention of the State Rural Credits bill, there is simply no analogy between the bills and everybody knows it. I hold no grief for Brother Spence I guess he can take care of himself, but I want to say the personal attack on him is because they fear his influence, and the fear is justified, they may as well do so. I guess Brother Spence believes that "To Sin by silence when we should protest," makes cowards out of men. The human race has climbed by protest. Had no voice been raised against injustice, ignorance and lust, the inquisition yet had held the law and Gullotines decide our least dispute. The man who dares must speak and speak again, right the wrongs of many, (and Bro. Spence dares) I do not know who the writer of that little article was, (I speak advisedly it certainly was little).

and I don't want to know. I know the type and I never knew of any one to be materially benefitted by such a personal acquaintance with such a one. But just remember my friend that the small taxpayer can vote, although I presume this gentleman would prevent it if he could, and I believe will do so effectively on June 4, 1917.

VOTE FOR THE BONDS SAYS G. A. SCHUEBEL

HOFF FARMER SAYS PEOPLE SHOULD PAY FOR ROADS WHILE USING THEM

HOFF, Oregon, R.I. April 24.—(Editor of the Enterprise)—In writing this letter, I am not trying to convince anyone, that the six million bond issue is the best way to get good roads. Here are better ways, also, ways that are worse, but, here is the way I look at it: Years ago when the legislature passed a law, allowing Portland, to issue bonds so they could get Bull run water, (instead of drinking sewage) there was the same opposition as there is now. The same is true of Oregon City's water supply. I remember the same was said, when the court was going in debt for the Suspension bridge, and the court house in Oregon City, and no one will say that Portland, and Oregon City were damaged, by going in debt for those things, and the people paid, and are paying for them, while getting the benefit. Now the same is true of the road bonds.

Now comes the "it." If the automobile tax will take care of the interest and bonds. Why we should worry, and I see no reason why they will not. Why not let them use them while paying for them, same as your mountain water?

Not having an automobile, I am not worrying and if I had, I would be in favor of my license tax going for hard roads. I, for one, believe that those men who are advocating the bond issue, are just as honest in their convictions as those, who are opposing the issue. There are to many who do not use their own thinker enough but are swayed by the argument put up by the other fellow.

I don't believe in going in debt for some thing we don't need, and I don't think bonding is the best way. But, there you are, under the system that this government is run it is the only way to get what we need, and we all agree that we need good roads and we know that Macadam will not stand the traffic. Will we wait until we have the money, or go in debt, for what we all say we need? I have come to the parting of the ways, and say, I believe those men who figured on the license, paying for the bonds know what they are talking about.

G. A. SCHUEBEL.

PORTLAND BOXERS PUT MITTS IN TRUNK; COPS ORDER END OF BOUTS

PORTLAND, Or., April 25.—Last night sounded the death knell for boxing bouts in the city of Portland, not only professional and semi-professional matches, but amateurs as well. Chief of Police John Clark this morning issued the following orders to all captains in the police department:

"Kindly instruct your officers that from this date on there will be no prize fights, semi-prize fights or boxing bouts allowed in the city of Portland by professionals or semi-professionals, local or imported. Allow no amateur boxing bouts in any of the Multnomah club, Y. M. C. A., etc., except when covered by a written permit. Instruct them to watch this closely and give immediate attention to any violation."

TO ROOT FOR BONDS Effort Will be Made to Get Crowd for Portland Rally

The local good roads committee of the Commercial club is making an effort to secure 100 automobiles and 500 people to make the trip to Portland on Saturday, April 28, to the good roads rally. The automobile club has been asked to send notices to that club's members to all meet at the Commercial club at 11 a. m. on that day, where all those favorable to the road bond issue will congregate for the trip.

Different sections of the state will send marching clubs and bands and Clackamas county will do its best.

There will be a river excursion from Astoria for the Clatsop enthusiasts and a special train from Condon boosting the "John Day highway," while delegations will be present from Umatilla, Yamhill and Morrow counties by special.

The local bond bill workers will provide tags that all who will be sure to be sent home to the right section should they become lost in the big city.

CLAMOR FOR REMOVAL OF CHANCELLOR RISES THROUGHOUT GERMANY

COPENHAGEN, April 25, via London.—The movement for the overthrow of Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, halted for a time by the adoption of ruthless submarine warfare, is again becoming evident in Germany. The agitation is encouraged by dissensions over internal reforms, possible peace terms and food troubles.

The Pan-German, Conservative and National Liberal organs are today sharply campaigning against the Socialist peace program and take the chancellor severely to task for not disassociating himself and his administration from Scheidemann and his propaganda.

The Conservative Deutsche Tageszeitung demands a strong hand at the helm which alone, it says, can save the country from the breakers to which it is heading on the dangerous Scheidemann course.

The Pan-German annexationists have turned a trick against the Socialists by exploiting an apocryphal peace program which they claim the German Socialists will put forward at the Stockholm conference. This program which specifies in detail the disposition of all occupied territories, is indignantly repudiated by the Vorwaerts. The Socialist organ says that no program exists beyond a general declaration against annexation and indemnities.

The administration is evidently having no happy time in facing the utterly conflicting demands of its Socialist friends and junker enemies, both clamoring for a definite statement as to war aims and internal reforms. The evident shakiness of Austria-Hungary is another source of concern.

SWISS PAPER ROASTS TURKS FOR STOPPING RESCUE WORK OF U. S.

BERNE, via Paris, April 25.—Turkey's breaking off diplomatic relations with the United States is scathingly condemned by the Neue Zurichische Zeitung.

The paper expresses fear that Turkey, now isolated from all neutrals, will devastate the districts in Palestine and Armenia, where American money and assistance have helped to keep order.

"The saddest of all," concludes the editorial, "is the loss of all those thousands of starving Armenian children, who, even though irregularly, have been able to keep their agonized souls and bodies together, thanks to America."

GREEK HUSBY WOULD NOT LET WIFE TALK TO AMERICANS, IS CHARGE

Asserting that her husband, a Greek, refused to allow her to have anything to do with Americans, Mrs. Lessie E. Kanacos brought suit for divorce against Louis A. Kanacos in the circuit court here Wednesday.

Mrs. Kanacos alleges in her complaint that Kanacos made her life miserable with violent outbursts of temper and that on one occasion while the two were working as cooks in a logging camp he attacked her, charging that she had been talking to an American.

He also refused to allow his wife to see her mother, Mrs. Kanacos charges. The pair was married in Vancouver, Wash., in September, 1912.

REICHSTAG MEMBERS SENT HOME BEFORE PASSING ANY LAWS

LONDON, April 25.—Adjournment of the reichstag until May 2 after a brief session yesterday is reported in a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam. Philipp Scheidemann, Socialist leader, expressed regret that the reichstag should be convoked and then adjourned almost immediately. George Ledebour, leader of the Social Democrats, said that regret was not enough. He demanded that the reichstag should meet today for discussion of the food problem.

"Thousands of workmen," he said, "have been forced to abandon work owing to their distress."

Herr Ledebour's words caused an uproar. Permission to continue his speech was refused.

ITALY WANTS LOAN

ROME, April 20.—Italy has opened negotiations with the allies on the advisability of sending a mission to the United States. It was learned here today. It is reported that Italy is anxious to make an independent loan in America.

THE COLORS I LOVE BEST

By La Vena Durrell, age 11.

There are three colors I love best,
I often hug them to my breast;
And I know that every day
They save people in some way;
Can you guess where these colors lay?

They are red, they are white and blue;
And I know they are nothing but true,
As they wave in the air
O'er our free land so fair;
Now can you guess what these colors are?

Of course you have guessed
When you've done your very best,
Of course you are right,
But keep it in your heart tight;
Our country's flag are these colors three!

The red, the white and blue.

$300.00 FINE IS PAID

Miles Coakley and Ed Harris are Released From County Jail

Miles Coakley and Edward Harris, who have been in jail since April 11, serving out an installment of a $300 fine for selling liquor in the hotel at Milwaukie, paid the remaining $200 of their fines, Saturday night, and were released.

The men already had paid $100 each of their $300 fine, besides spending ten days in jail. They were arrested in a raid on the hotel in March, and arraigned before Judge Campbell on April 11.

Each entered a plea of guilty, evidently expecting clemency from the court. Judge Campbell fined each of the men $300, telling them that they could pay $100 down and $5 weekly. Their bondsmen declined to be responsible for the remainder of the money, however, and delivered the men up to the jailer.

Since that time, Coakley secured bail for one night, and was released to attend a prize fight in Vancouver, Wash. He returned to jail the next day.

OPINION CHANGED

Milwaukie Grange Has Decided That Bond Bonds are Good

That all the granges which have gone on record as opposing road bonds have not done so with the consent of the majority of their members is indicated by the action of Milwaukie Grange Saturday in reversing their resolution against the bonds.

Milwaukie Grange passed a resolution against the bonds on March 17, 1917. This, it was said by other grangers Saturday, was voted by a small number of the lodge. The matter was taken up again, and a resolution favoring the passage of the road bond measure was passed.

The resolution follows: "Whereas, at a meeting of Milwaukie Grange, No. 288, held on March 17, 1917, a resolution was passed opposing the proposed $6,000,000 road bond issue, and whereas said resolution was rather hastily considered; and whereas, after a more thorough consideration of the matter we are convinced that a favorable vote on the bond issue will be a step in the line of progress; therefore, be it resolved, that we favor the bond issue."

NEZ PERCE VOLUNTEERS

LEWISTON, Idaho, April 19.—Elmer Wilson, a Nez Perce Indian, is the first of his tribe to volunteer.

Fifty Years Ago

From Oregon City Enterprise April 3, 1867.

Snow—On Wednesday morning this latitude was visited with a smart sprinkle of snow. It only acted as a show, however, the result being more similar to an April shower.

Dry Dock—Another very desirable improvement by the P. T. company is now on the taps at this city. The drift is being removed from a portion of the company's property west of the great basin, where they contemplate putting in a drydock, and otherwise preparing for boat building. One steamer will be built upon the site the present season.

Mexican News—Mexican news is up today and down tomorrow. Max was annoyed by guerrillas on his march from the capital.

A Curiosity—A late San Francisco paper says that Professor W. P. Blake has been presented with two large teeth by Colonel Buckley, of the American and Russian Telegraph survey. One is from the mouth of the Yukon river. Professor Walker, of the Portland dredger, last year offered us a snag from the Willamette. We prefer sound teeth.

Immigration to Be Small—The Journal of Commerce says that the immigration from Germany to America this year is likely to be small. The changes in the local governments in the late war of Prussia are also detaining those who are liable to military service. Two steamers recently arrived at New York from which the baggage of many emigrants and the owners were taken off before sailing.

Rumors—There are rumors that an understanding has been effected between France and the United States that the latter shall purchase Chihauhan, the proceeds to be applied to the payment of the French-Mexican war bonds, which France meanwhile assumes.

To Continue War—Dispatches from Constantinople state that the Turkish government is determined to continue the war in Crimea, and is preparing to send thither ten battalions of troops under command of Hassan Pacha.

Baseball—On Saturday last a few of the members of the Clackamas Baseball club met at the field and played a few runs. They will be on the alert for a contest this summer. It is proposed that the players of the spirit from a state organization for this purpose of meeting some California club for a match for the state championship. Good idea!

Dispatch—A Canada dispatch says that although there is nothing in the frontier to cause alarm at present, active preparations are being made to have troops in readiness to move at any point.

PEOPLE RUSH FROM PETROGRAD IN FEAR OF A GERMAN INVASION

LONDON, April 25.—An exodus of civilians from Petrograd is reported in a dispatch to the Express from the Russian capital. One permit office was besieged on Tuesday morning by 800 people. Inquiries among them were answered by a shrug of the shoulders and the favorite Russian reply: "Who knows?"

The Express correspondent says the reluctance of the travellers to explain their motives is due to the necessity of giving an adequate reason to the officials before securing a permit and suspicion that their questioner was connected with the government. He says that the anxiety to leave the city is generally attributed to the fear of a German advance on the capital. In order to secure a seat on a train for Moscow it is now necessary to book some days ahead.

The council of army and navy delegates at Sveaborg has decided to send a wireless message to the allied fleets saying that the Baltic fleet and the army defending its base are in complete readiness to fight to the last in defense of free Russia, according to a Helsingfors dispatch.

The message will add that the soldiers and sailors are in perfect union with their officers. This action is intended as a reply to reports that the Baltic fleet was disorganized and incapable of fighting.

Dispatches from Petrograd during the last few days have reported great activity on the part of the German fleet in the Baltic. A Monday dispatch said that German transports had left Libau for an unknown destination. Other reports declared that the Germans were planning a land and sea attack on the rear of the Russian line at Riga, with the hope of isolating and capturing Petrograd.

Sveaborg is the great Russian fortress defending the Gulf of Finland. Prior to the war it ranked with Cronstadt as a supposedly impregnable stronghold.

MARSHAL FIELD TO ENLIST

Chicago, April 19.—Marshal Field III, one of America's richest young men, arrived from New York today to enlist as a private in the First Illinois cavalry. He will draw $15 a month.

"I believe every young man of my age, 23, should enlist," he said. "My wife thinks as I do."
