

RUSSIA WILL STICK IT OUT, SAYS THE LLOYD GEORGE OF REPUBLIC

LONDON, April 24.—The Daily Express Petrograd correspondent reports an interview with A. F. Kerensky, minister of justice in the new Russian government, whom he calls the Lloyd George of Russia. While insisting Russia would wage only a defensive war and countenance no annexations, M. Kerensky emphasized that greater enthusiasm existed in Russia today than ever before for a defensive war. Even the Lithuanians, Poles, Little Russians and Finns, who had no war zeal under the autocratic regime, were now prepared to defend their country to the utmost, the minister said.

"If President Wilson was expressing the will of his people and not merely making a diplomatic move," said M. Kerensky, "I am in complete sympathy with the war aims he suggested as being most compatible with an enduring peace."

While not objecting to the principle of compensation, especially in its application to Poland and Belgium, M. Kerensky declared he was directly opposed to exactions for any purpose whatever.

The correspondent remarks that on this question of reparation M. Kerensky is not in agreement with some of his colleagues. Asked about the Russian attitude toward the British people, M. Kerensky said the entry of the United States into the war after the overthrow of the autocracy had given the United States a popularity such as the British had rarely enjoyed.

The minister of justice painted a picture of the state of affairs under the autocracy. He said a German spring offensive under the old regime would have meant defeat. The soldiers were starving and deserting. In January there were only two days' food supplies for the army and the supplies of fuel had been greatly reduced. But the new organization, he added, was remedying this. Asked about the insistent call of the Socialists for peace, M. Kerensky said:

"Foreign observers fail to understand that the call for peace was greater under the old regime, but owing to the policy of darkness it never appeared on the surface. Now, with freedom of speech, it appears in the full light of the day to attract attention, but to receive little strength."

M. Kerensky said he had no hope that the Germans would overthrow their autocratic rulers.

POTLAND, Ore., April 20.—But few Oregon citizens will have to be drafted at the first call, if the Chamberlain military bill providing for universal service is passed by congress.

Washington dispatches indicate that Oregon's quota of men under the bill will be about 4500 and that credit will be given the state for its citizens in the national guard and in the regular army.

The national guard alone has a strength of approximately 3600 men at the present time and recruiting of several organizations to full war strength and organization of additional units already authorized will bring this number up to 4500. These figures do not take into consideration the scores of Oregon citizens who have enlisted in the regular army.

At the present time the Third regiment, Oregon Infantry, now in the field, has the full war strength of 2002 men, less 11 rejected for physical disability and dependent relatives.

The coast artillery corps numbers 1300, and will be increased to war strength of 1911 when authorized.

Battery A now has 133 men, and will be recruited to war strength of 190, if the war department issues the necessary instructions.

The state has two troops of cavalry, and it is possible steps will be taken to form two more, making a squadron of 400 men.

The combined strength of the state's units will make for the quota if credit is given, as at present seems to be the intention, although it is evident the Chamberlain bill will be fought in congress.

Under the bill, the selective draft applies to men between the ages of 19 and 25.

CAMAS MEN RAISED Papermakers Granted a 50-Cent Raise in Wage Scale

CAMAS, Wash., April 23.—The full force of employees of the Crown-Willamette Paper company is working again today part of their resuming work Saturday, after the company had complied in some respects with the demands of the men.

The lowest paid men get a raise of 50 cents per day and the rest a gradually reducing scale up to those who before received 15 per day now get $5.25. All above $5 received 5 per cent. The question of hours and overtime was left open for adjustment.

About 400 have already signed the charter list for the organization of a union that will be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

GASOLINE SLUMPS

PORTLAND, Ore., April 24.—At least one of the recognized necessities of modern-day life—gasoline—is more likely to go down than up in price, according to opinions expressed informally yesterday by local officials of two big gasoline-dispensing companies.

Reports to the effect that gasoline was to be increased in price today were denied flatly. Dispatches from the east last week reported increased quotations on crude oil, and accompanying increases in gasoline prices were forecast at that time, but the Portland representatives of the big oil companies point to the fact that the gasoline distributed in the Pacific coast territory comes from the oil fields of California and that prices here are not affected by the crude oil situation in the east.

BILLINGSLEY AT LARGE AND SEATTLE OFFICERS SEARCH CITY FOR HIM

SEATTLE, April 23.—Logan Billingsley, "king of bootleggers," was supposedly at large "somewhere in Seattle" today, following his latest escape, in which he sawed his way to liberty through the iron bars of the federal detention station here Saturday night.

Under sentence of 13 months in the United States prison at McNeil's island, Billingsley was being held in the immigration house here until his lawyer made a last plea in court Monday.

"I have a little private business to finish up," said the bootlegger in a letter which he sent by messenger to a Seattle editor after his escape. "Then I will report at McNeil island prison."

Police detectives, federal agents and deputy sheriffs were unable to locate the escaped man. All cities along the coast and inland have been notified to keep a sharp lookout for him.

A hacksaw was found in his cell after his escape. His wife was the last person to visit him Saturday evening. She appeared surprised when notified of his escape.

A few hours previously Mrs. Billingsley had reported to the police the loss of a pocketbook containing a check for $2100 and some cash, also five shares of stock in the Union Savings & Trust company, owned by her husband. She said she thought she had dropped the handbag in a jitney.

CONSCRIPTION ONLY WAY TO WIN WAR, SAYS BRITISH COMMISSIONER

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Conscription is vital to America before the nation can have any success in the war.

Lieutenant General B. T. M. Bridges stepped out of the great international war council of the allies here to deliver this message to the American people today.

While congress wrangled over the selective conscription bill out on Capitol Hill, this tall, arrow-straight fighter in khaki, fresh from the front, counted the cost of the volunteer system to England.

"We were saddled with the volunteer system at the beginning of the war," said Bridges. "We would have given anything to get rid of it."

"It hampered and retarded us in every phase of our war development. The volunteer system threw the best industrial forces of the country into the trenches when they were badly needed at home, and it left at home those whose places were at the front."

"If we had conscription at the beginning it would have obviated our coordination of our national forces and many other vital things."

"If you're going to war you must go the whole hog."

Lieutenant General Bridges then made it clear that England believes conscription alone, with the coordination of national force it involves, will enable America to speed the end of the war.

The general then spoke of England's attitude toward conscription:

"The people of England are won to universal service. They are strong for conscription. I may say they are fanatics on the subject."

PEACE FOR WORLD

Ideal of Russian Socialists is for Universal Peace Pact

PETROGRAD, via London, April 21.—The Official News Agency today gave out the following statement:

Replying to Congressman Meyer (New York), who asked for a denial that the Russian Socialists favored a separate peace with Germany, the executive committee telegraphed:

"As has been stated in a declaration of the Council of Workmen and Soldiers' delegates, the entire Russian revolutionary democracy does not seek a separate peace, but favors international peace without annexations or indemnities, real or disguised, on the basis of the free development of nations, and considers that the proletariat of every country should do its utmost to bring about peace on the above basis."

ALLIES GET PROFITS

Speculative Winnings To be Thrust on Government Buyers

CHICAGO, April 20.—The allied governments, dealing through Chicago brokers, are credited today with having made a profit of more than $3,000,000 in the last two months in "turns" on the grain market by changing from one option to the other.

This profit, it is said, was made by selling a line of July wheat and buying the September option at a price approximately 30 cents below the July option.

The allies, it is said, for a year have simply had speculative profits forced on them. They had no desire to speculate, but bought for future delivery with the desire to obtain actual wheat. Car shortages, embargo and the inadequacy of ocean shipping prevented deliveries at specified times and the contracts were sold at profits running well into the millions.

At the opening of the market today July wheat shot up 7 cents to $2.11 and September 13½ to $1.59.

TRAVELING SALESMAN ENGAGES IN BIG FIGHT WITH FAMILY OF GIRL

TAKES GUN AWAY FROM HER FATHER AND IS ARRESTED BY SHERIFF

CHEHALIS, Wash., April 22.—Admiration for a young woman in Centralia led to the incarceration of a traveling man from Los Angeles, in the county jail here, where he is charged with a serious assault, particularly upon the young woman's father. The man registered at the St. Helens hotel in Chehalis as F. Black, but his real name is said to be Heath. On Saturday evening, according to report, Heath went to see the young woman, whose name is Tuttle, and a general family row resulted, the story being that Heath first struck the girl, and when the mother appeared, he gave her a beating. The father of the girl came in next and Heath is said to have beaten him severely, after taking a gun away from him. Heath then returned to his room in the St. Helens hotel and early this morning Sheriff Foster went to his room to arrest him. Heath threatened to shoot through the door, and while Deputy Foster was telephoning to the office, Heath came down and gave his revolver to West at the desk, and went to jail without further resistance. It is said that Heath found some letters written to the young woman by another admirer, which greatly incensed him, and led to the attacks.

Sheriff Berry will ask a commission to pass on Heath's sanity.

WILHELM TURNS PALE WHEN ABDICATION IS SUGGESTED TO HIM

ROME, via Paris, April 24.—The Corriere d'Italia, the clerical organ, declares that it is able to confirm reports, published in the Spanish newspapers, that the immediate following of the German emperor is exerting pressure on him to abdicate. The paper says that at a recent meeting of the Hohenzollern family one member, bolder than the rest, intimated that the emperor might save the situation by following the example of Czar Nicholas.

The German monarch is reported to have turned pale and, after observing that the general opinion was against him, left the room, muttering: "We shall see." The same evening he summoned another family council. The chancellor and some of the ministers were present, but whatever passed remains unknown.

Little importance is attached to this story in Italian political circles. In these quarters it is thought that the story has a German origin and is put out with the intention of influencing opinion.

Among those on board the Zara were Peter Karpovich, leader of the Progressive movement among the students in Petrograd university, who lost his life, and M. He escaped from prison in 1913 and made his way to London.

The official organ of the council of labor deputies in Petrograd, commenting on the sinking of the Zara, says:

"This heavy blow right at the heart of the Russian revolution cannot pass without its effect. The revolutionary democracy must reply with a blow at the center from which the torpedo was sent. The democracy must regard the murder of its leaders as proof that the rulers of Germany are base hypocrites and that their promises not to harm the cause of Russian liberty are empty words."
