FIFTY-THIRD YEAR—No. 20.

OREGON CITY, OREGON, FRIDAY, MAY 23, 1919.

ESTABLISHED 1866

SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN INDORSED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, May 21.—National suffrage for women was indorsed by the house of representatives for the second time when the Susan B. Anthony amendment resolution today was adopted by a vote of 304 to 89. Supporters of the measure immediately arranged to carry their fight to the senate where, although twice defeated at the last session, they are confident of obtaining the necessary two-thirds vote.

The victory for the suffrage forces today was by 42 votes more than the required two-thirds. On the previous ballot on the resolution cast January 10, 1918, exactly the necessary number of affirmative votes were recorded.

ELEVATOR OPERATION UNCERTAIN IN SUMMER

From the attitude of the water board toward the municipal elevator, it is evident that the big host will be shut down much of the time during the summer months. Considerable criticism has been directed at both the city administration and the water board of late, when the lift has been idle for irregular periods, and M. D. Latourette, secretary of the board of water commissioners, submitted figures Monday to prove that the water supply is limited and that the 500,000 gallons per day required to operate the elevator cannot be spared, except when the reservoir supply is at a maximum. Mr. Latourette believes that the installation of electrical machinery is the only solution to the question.

The secretary of the water board points out that the elevator is operated by the city council, which controls the special water main from the reservoirs to the lift, and that the water department has nothing to do with the elevator except that it is willing to supply water for the hydraulic apparatus whenever there is an adequate supply.

"The reservoirs must be kept full," said Mr. Latourette, "and the water board would rather inconvenience the elevator patrons than be responsible for the loss of a portion of the city, in the event of a large fire with a depleted water supply. We have a heavy usage of water caused by an increased number of consumers; the elevator, additions to the mills, more garages, ice works, laundry, creameries and the cooling of the Willamette Valley Southern transformers. It should not be forgotten that the sprinkling season, with its attendant heavy drain, is upon us. The board has metered some of the large consumers, and within a few days will receive three big meters to be placed on the woolen mill and the local paper mills. We also intend to place a meter on the elevator and the exact amount of water used will be told in figures."

"In order to familiarize the people with the situation that we are facing we have invited the city council and representatives of the press to go with the members of the water board over the entire system, from the intake at the east fork of the Clackamas river. We are under the impression that a direct examination of the system and the records by a representative body of interested men may clear up a situation that appears to be getting rather tense. After such an examination, it would be up to these gentlemen to give a satisfactory explanation of the whole matter."

Under the most favorable conditions, according to Mr. Latourette, Oregon City receives 2,000,000 gallons and when the elevator is in operation a day, and when the elevator is in operation all of this water is consumed. He estimates that one-fourth of the entire water supply is required to run the elevator, and states that since the installation of the pure water supply the number of consumers has increased 40 per cent, with a consequent increase of water to about 1,400,000 gallons daily for ordinary use. He says the elevator water supply question has been turned over to Commissioner Lewellen, with power at any and all times, to shut down the lift whenever in his judgment, the safety of the city demands it.

Settlement Asked On Wheat Bill

J. L. Spencer filed suit Saturday against W. S. Watson, alleging he sold the defendant unthreshed wheat valued at $380 and had received only $230 of the amount.

He asks for a settlement of the balance, $150, and six per cent interest and costs of the case.

Break 50-50 With the Farmer

Clamor for the permanent improvement of our county highways becomes more insistent as the enlightenment of our people progresses. Witness the coming of farmers from the Monitor-Barlow district, seeking of the Commercial Club to secure the hard surface for their main thoroughfare from the Marion county to the Pacific Highway at Barlow.

The men are in earnest, and they advanced one thought in particular that became a chorus. Every man jack of them is compelled to do his buying in Marion county because the roads are better in that direction.

Here, again, is food for thought for the Oregon City business men. The fact that only a handful of them were at the conference Tuesday night is a matter of regret that they do not appear to be alive to the importance of gaining a volume of trade that does not now come to this city.

Residents of Southern Clackamas would like to be loyal in all things to their own county. All they want is a 50-50 break. If the roads leading to the trade centers of Clackamas are as good as those in Marion, they will come this way. They cannot be expected to plough drearily through the mud when a hard road entices them to the south.

Practical encouragement is necessary in this and similar instances. By this we mean an encouragement that will embrace something besides mere words. We of the town must meet these petitioners a little better than half way. They are not asking for charity, nor for money, but express their willingness to spend their own money to place their main roads in condition to receive a permanent surface. But they do want to be placed on the map for future improvement, so that when the time comes they will have a prior claim that cannot be ignored.

The business man who confines his operations and his vision to the inside of his store is going to be a little man in a little town until he is planted for all eternity. The Enterprise believes that Oregon City has greater possibilities, but only through the support and cooperation of our friends who till the soil and who enjoy the great outdoors.

ENGINEERS OF STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION CHECKING UP SURVEY

Engineers of the state highway commission are checking up the survey of the Pacific highway between West Linn and Oswego, with a view of determining the practicability of the location outlined several months ago by County Surveyor H. H. Johnson, who advises a route leading in a direct line out of Oswego in a southerly direction, running west of the Christie Orphan Home and tapping the present highway below Bolton.

Mr. Johnson will explain in detail the new location at the meeting of the Live Wires Tuesday night. The proposed route eliminates the railroad grade crossings and after the highway commission engineers have gone over it, the commission will definitely determine the location of the highway and award a contract for the grading, which will be completed this year, and the road paved next year, under an understanding between the commission and the county court.

COURT DECIDES ON PAVEMENT AT GLADSTONE

The question as to which road north of Gladstone would be paved was settled by the county court Saturday when it was decided to pave the River road, known as the Milwaukee-Roseburg Road.

The court has had this matter under advisement for some time and the decision was made after the residents of Road District 47 and several citizens of Gladstone contributed by subscription over $1,300 for the hard surfacing of the road.

The residents of District 47 have paid a special tax for roads for the past six years and have been very active in road matters.

The county will pave this road from the intersection of the River road and Steel avenue west, to the turn and then on to the limits of Gladstone with the funds of the district and the pavement from there will be paid for with the city's funds and subscriptions.

This pavement will form a link in the main highway between Oregon City and Portland and the question has been of more than local interest.

Papers Are Filed To Incorporate

H. H. Dalley, H. G. Colton, B. F. Sinheimer, W. B. Wiggins and P. M. Boyles, directors of the Molalla Fire Clay company, filed for incorporation of the company and to change the name of the Dalley Clay Products company. They will also move the main office of the company from Molalla to Portland.

The capital stock of the company is $100,000.

U. S. NAVAL SEAPLANE ARRIVES IN AZORES

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The United States naval seaplane NC-4 arrived safely at Horta, in the island of Fayal, Azores group, at 9:20 o'clock this morning. Washington time, after a flight of approximately 1250 miles from Trepansey, N. P. The distance was covered in remarkably fast time.

The No. 3, flagship of the naval transatlantic seaplane squadron, has not arrived tonight after having negotiated two-thirds of the distance to the Azores, the mid-ocean station of the overseas flight course.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Destroyers searching for the lost naval seaplane NC-1 have found the plane, and Lieutenant-Commander Bellingier and crew have been taken aboard the steamship Iona. This report was made to the navy department late tonight in a dispatch received by cable from Horta, Azores.

PREPARATIONS BEING MADE FOR ROSE FESTIVAL

Colonel Lewis P. Campbell, special representative of the Victory Rose Festival to be held in Portland June 11, 12 and 13, and who was colonel of the Multnomah Guards, and at the head of the Home Guards in this city, during war times, was in Oregon City Tuesday. He was accompanied here by Lieutenant L. R. Mullineaux, who has been a flying instructor at Long Island, N. Y., and also by Lieutenant S. T. French, a flying instructor in Texas. John F. Risley, of Risley Station, who is taking a special interest in the coming Victory festival, accompanied these men and has loaned his automobile to make the trip in the southern part of the state. Lieutenant Mullineaux has also loaned his car. The party, after visiting in this city for a few hours, proceeded south. They will visit Roseburg, Medford, Ashland and other points in the southern part of the state, and are making the trip with the object of selecting landing points for the aviators who are to fly northward to take part in the big festival. These men are to stop at Oregon City on their return and if a landing can be secured the aviators will stop here while on their way to the festival.

One of the big features of the Victory Festival will be the great military parade. This will be participated in by soldiers, marines and sailors from all parts of the state and elsewhere. It is to be held on the second day, and will be in the afternoon. Prizes are to be offered for the best county display of decorated automobiles and escorts of returned soldiers, sailors and marines, and brass bands. Another prize is offered for the best city or town display of decorated automobiles, with possibly escorts of returned soldiers, sailors and marines and brass bands.

There will be a prize for the best and most artistically decorated automobile in the Victory parade. Mr. Childs, manager of the Hotel Portland, is chairman of the parade.

LIBERTY TEMPLE IN OREGON CITY IS TORN DOWN

The Liberty Temple in Oregon City has served its purpose and was wrecked Wednesday and the material returned to those who donated it.

This temple was erected for the Third Liberty Loan drive and has served as headquarters for all other drives of the government and for the Red Cross drive. Material for the building and the work was donated by patriotic citizens, the work being completed in a short time as all who possibly could helped.

Between drives and after the Victory Loan drive the women of the W. C. T. U. maintained a rest room in the building and many out-of-town people availed themselves of the privileges of the Temple.

The building occupies most of Seventh street east of Main and the merchants asked for its removal after the drives were over, but the women put up a strong fight to maintain the rest room. They have tried to find a new location for the building and the Live Wires and the council have made efforts to aid them but a location suitable could not be found and the council finally ordered the building removed.

RESIDENTS OF GLADSTONE WILL ORGANIZE CLUB

The Gladstone residents held a community meeting at the Gladstone school house Friday evening of last week, at which time many people in that section, who are interested in organizing a community club, were in attendance. A similar meeting was held at the school house three weeks ago, and many became interested.

A well-arranged program was given at the Friday evening meeting, when selections were rendered by the Gladstone orchestra, vocal selections by Homer Hollowell; Rev. E. E. Gilbert, pastor of the Methodist church of this city, gave a talk on "Co-operation." Rev. Dean, pastor of the Christian church of Gladstone, and Rev. Stilton, pastor of the Live Wires Baptist church, R. G. Scott, county agent; Miss R. P. Snedeker, who has charge of the club work of Clackamas county, also addressed the assembly, outlining their work. Miss Marie Anthony who has been sent here by the Oregon Agricultural College, and whose duty is work in the Home Economics line, attended the previous meeting, and will organize a department in Home Economics at Gladstone. Mr. Hardy, a resident of Gladstone, signified his willingness to be at the head of the department, since it was impossible to secure a Gladstone woman Friday evening. The women were not as eager to volunteer in this work, as Mr. Hardy. His daughter is one of the enthusiastic girls who have become interested in Home Economics, and rather to be without an assistant, Mr. Hardy was "game."

It was decided to organize a Community Club, and the next meeting will be held on the third Friday evening in June. The election of officers will take place at that time.

INDIANS COMING TO CITY FOR MOTION PICTURE

Thirty Indians, direct from the Umatilla reservation, will arrive here today and will be taken to Carver, near Baker's bridge on the Clackamas river, where they will be set into action against a motion picture camera. Raymond Wells, director for the American Lifeograph Co., of Portland, and J. A. McGill, manager of the Multnomah Film Co., came up Tuesday to set the stage for the filming of what will probably be the principal scene in the motion picture drama, "The Martyrs of Yesterday," which they are picturizing for international production. At Carver there has been constructed a building representing the Marcus Whitman mission at Walla Walla. Beside the banks of the turbulent Clackamas the motion picture people have found a scene that closely resembles the original site of the Whitman mission.

Large Amount of Taxes Are Received

Checks for $108,163.01 were turned over to the county treasurer Friday as part of the first half of the 1918 taxes. In addition to this amount $433,427.46 had been turned over before, the total now being $539,590.47. The total taxes to collect were $344,869.15, leaving a balance of $405,278.68 to be collected. This is an average of nearly 60 per cent of the full amount, about the same as that collected last year.

Sixteen to One Again

It is proposed by the legislature and submitted to the people for ratification or rejection at the special election on June 3rd that $5,000,000 of bonds shall be authorized and the money expended for the promotion of reconstruction, reclamation and land settlement projects.

The proposition is lumped into one measure and one constitutional amendment on the ballot, the amendment legalizing the issue of the bonds and the measure authorizing the expenditure of the money for hospitals at Portland and Salem, for educational buildings at Corvallis, Eugene and Monmouth, for buildings at the Pendleton insane hospital, for a new penitentiary, and for armories at Marshfield, Astoria, Baker, Bend, La-Grande and Medford. The amount proposed to be expended for these buildings totals $2,352,500, and it is also proposed to issue bonds for $647,500 for promoting land settlement, and $2,000,000 for reclamation projects.

It will be observed that the amendment, numbered on the ballot 306 yes and 307 no, and the measure, numbered 312 yes and 313 no, are companion measures. If the measure appropriating the money should pass, and the amendment should fail, the measure would be of no effect, and if the amendment should pass and the measure fail to pass, then the amendment would be useless, unless at some future time the legislature or the people should authorize the issue of bonds under the provision of the amendment.

No provision is made, under the legislation proposed, for the payment of the principal and interest on these bonds, other than through direct taxation of the property of the people of Oregon, and in this respect these bonds differ from highway bonds heretofore authorized.

The people are given no opportunity to pass upon each item on its merits, but must swallow the whole dose or vote down the entire program. In the measure there are no less than 16 distinct propositions, and some, at least, are needed, but we contend that the people should be allowed to vote upon each one of these 16 propositions singly and should not be forced to exercise their franchise in a wholesale manner.

SOUTHERN CLACKAMAS ASKS FOR HELP FOR ROADS

Binding together city and country with ribbons of hard surfaced pavement was advanced another step Tuesday night, when a big delegation from the district between Monitor and Barlow came to Oregon City and were the guests of the Live Wires of the Commercial Club at a road conference. The visitors are enthusiastic for the improvement of the road from Barlow to Monitor, and are seeking the assistance and cooperation of the local club, which indicated its willingness to aid the movement.

J. W. Exon was the chief speaker for the delegation. He said Clackamas county had been spending too much money doing and undoing, that the people were becoming intoxicated with scenery and that more roads should be constructed through farming communities. Mr. Exon took a rap at the postal administration, which serves much of Clackamas county on rural routes through postoffices in Marion and Washington counties. He said that the people of his section were not asking for a penny, but were willing to gravel the road for the entire distance to a width of 16 feet, and now sought to be recognized by the county court as a primary road.

Rudy Zimmerman, for 13 years a road supervisor of the Marks Prairie district, pointed out that plenty of gravel was obtainable from the Molalla river at one end of the road and from Butte Creek at the other end, and R. F. Watts, of District No. 54, who is responsible for raising a road subscription of $3,000, urged a legislative enactment to enable the people to vote bonds by road districts. The matter ended with an agreement on the part of the Live Wires to visit that section and on Tuesday a large party will meet the people interested at 4 o'clock at Canby and after going over the road, will be their guests at Monitor for dinner.

H. H. Johnson, county surveyor, asked for the appointment of a committee to secure rights of way along the new location for the Pacific highway between Bolton and Oswego. W. B. Cook, B. T. McBain and Fred Morey were named.

O. D. Eby suggested a road conference to be held this summer for the purpose of organization, and it was pointed out that such a conference might result in an agreement for the consolidation of certain road districts, for the purpose of bringing several of the main arteries of the counties into respective districts.

E. W. Bartlett, who came down from Estacada with a delegation, offered the support of his community for the proposed improvement of the Monitor-Barlow road.

PROBATE COURT.

E. D. Dickson filed Monday for the administration of the estate of the late James H. Dickson, who died in Multnomah county April 30, 1919.

The estate consists of real estate in Clackamas county and $500 in a bank in Tillamook county.

There are several heirs to the estate.

GLADSTONE GARDENER FINDS UNIQUE WAY TO BANISH MOLES

Mrs. H. S. Wilson of Gladstone, by experience, has found that gasoline is very efficient in destroying mole pests in her garden. The Wilson place has been beset by planting rose bushes, at one time being about 100 varieties, and last year and the year previous many of these were completely destroyed by the vermin. They have also partly destroyed cherry trees at the Wilson home, and have recently attacked the garden. Mrs. Wilson having tried the mole trap, found she could secure a few in this manner, but hit upon another plan that has worked out successfully so far. Securing gasoline she took about half a teaspoonful of this and poured into the runway of the moles, and placed the dirt back into the opening and packed it firmly. For the past three weeks the moles have not made their appearance on the lawn or in the garden, and Mrs. Wilson believes now she has found a remedy to exterminate the mole pest on her property.

She has found the tomato flea pest making its appearance, and is desirous of finding some remedy for its extermination. The remedies she has so far tried on these have failed to do the work.

MAN ARRESTED CHARGED WITH CHOKING WIFE

To send word to Sheriff Wilson to catch his wife as she was running away with the two children and then to be arrested by the sheriff on the complaint of the wife was the unique position of G. H. Robbins, of Scotts Mills, Friday.

Robbins was charged with assault and battery by the wife, Alice Robbins, who while telling her story, broke down and cried, saying she was ashamed to reveal her husband's cruelties. She had a small baby in her arms and the other child was left with friends.

She alleges that he said he would rule his own home and made unreasonable demands upon her which he enforced by beating and choking her. She said she has been ill for some time but this made no difference with his actions.

When Robbins denied the charge his wife also charged him with beating and choking her at other times, and that on that very morning he had choked her and that the children were afraid of him.

Robbins claims that his wife is not in her right mind and wanted a physician to examine her but despite all his pleading he was found guilty by Justice Stipp and fined $50.

Bail of $100 was furnished by Dr. Stewart of this city and Robbins will appeal the case.

SUSPENSION BRIDGE IS SUBJECT OF CONFERENCE

Plans for the proposed new suspension bridge across the Willamette river connecting Oregon City and West Linn were discussed from almost every angle Wednesday night at a conference in the Commercial Club parlors between local business men and Herbert Nunn, chief engineer of the state highway commission and C. B. McGullough, state highway bridge engineer, who brought down from Salem pictures of two designs, similar in appearance, except that one is slightly more ornamental than the other and provides for comfort stations at both ends of the structure.

Mr. Nunn said that County Judge Anderson had requested the commission to prepare plans for a new bridge at Oregon City on the Pacific Highway, recognizing that the present structure has outlived its usefulness and that it would have to be replaced within the next few years.

The bridge proposed, and for which tentative plans have been drawn, would have an estimated cost of $265,000, including the comfort stations, without interior fittings. The type is structural steel encased in concrete, with a span of 385 feet, which is said to be the longest span for this type of bridge ever projected. The main bridge would have a width of 24 feet, with a 5-foot pedestrian way on each side, or a total of 34 feet. Mr. Nunn explained that the plans were not final, and were subject to such changes as might be recommended or desired. The structure would have a grade of 5 per cent, as has the present bridge, and the same clearance above water. Both engineers replied to many questions involving details of architecture and general construction, and suggested that ground be acquired on the West Linn end of the bridge for a public park.

The engineering department of the highway commission, explained Mr. Nunn, had gone as far as possible, until further arrangements may be made. The question of finance must next be taken up, in addition to details of local interest. The county court has made a levy of one-half mill this year for a sinking fund to finance a new bridge, having levied a quarter mill last year, making a nucleus of $225,000. Near the conclusion of the conference the appointment of a bridge committee was authorized, to be named by the president of the Commercial Club, it being understood that this committee will be expected to confer with the county court as to matters of finance, and to negotiate for the proposed park site in West Linn. The thanks of the club were extended to the two engineers, who were elected to honorary membership in the club.

The question of an outlet from Oregon City over the Pacific Highway south was brought up by Mr. Nunn, who said that the Pacific Highway would be completed from the California line to Washington by August of next year, and he urged that something be done to eliminate the dangerous condition now existing on the South boundary of Oregon City on the highway. He pointed out the possibility of abandoning the present grade along the basin, and seeking a higher level from Canemah east of the Southern Pacific tracks, coming into the city by an underground crossing. This matter was referred to the road committee of the club. Mr. Nunn expressed the belief that the high line entrance would cost no more, if as much, as an entrance into the city over the present route and would also eliminate an overhead crossing at the Canemah end.

Pioneer Residence Of Sandy Is Sold

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dunn of the Bluff road near Sandy recently sold their farm, where Mr. Dunn had lived for 17 years, having taken the place as a homestead when he was barely 21 years old. Mr. Dunn is a native of Montreal, Canada. Mrs. Dunn came as a bride to the farm in 1877.

The home has been sold to their son-in-law, A. W. Bell, of Sandy, who is moving on to the place. The Duns own a house and six lots in Sandy but will live for the present in their son's, P. T. Dunn's house, on a part of the old place. They expect to take several trips during the summer, visiting with relatives and old friends.

Sues on Note.

Suit was filed Tuesday by P. J. Shephard against L. Forsythe and Mrs. A. F. Keil to collect a note for $33.70 given by the defendants October 3, 1918, to run for 30 days. It is alleged the defendants have failed to pay the note and plaintiff asks for a settlement and $25 attorney's fees.
