KESSELRING FAMILY HOLD BIG REUNION

A family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kesselring Sunday, when the children, grandchildren and great grandchildren assembled. There were 20 in all enjoying the big birthday dinner, and it was a most enjoyable family gathering. The affair was in honor of Mrs. Kesselring's 55th birthday.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Kesselring was beautifully decorated with roses and other cut flowers gathered from their garden.

Mrs. Kesselring whose maiden name was Annie Riggs, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Riggs, early Oregon pioneers. She crossed the plains with her parents in 1847, and has the distinction of riding the entire distance across the plains by horseback. After residing at Gribble Prairie for many years she moved to this city with her husband.

Mrs. Kesselring is a lover of flowers, and her garden is the pride of this pioneer woman. She also enjoys working in her vegetable garden.

Mrs. Kesselring is one of the patriots of the state. She is proud of her four grandsons that fought in the battles in France, one of whom is Albert Gribble, who was shot seven times, and is now in the hospital in Virginia on his way home from France. Albert recently wrote his grandmother, saying he was improving, and would soon be home. Several fingers were shot off, and he was also hit in the nose, which has been reconstructed.

SCHOOL MEETING.

A school meeting of District 86, Canby, will be held at the school house, June 16, at 8 o'clock P. M. The meeting is called for the purpose of voting on the proposition of levying a special district tax.

The total amount of money needed for the district during the fiscal year beginning June 16, 1919, and ending June 21, 1920, amounts to $6751.06.

GRIBBLE SELLS CATTLE

A. D. Gribble, whose dairy farm is located near this city, who has been in the dairying industry for the past 20 years, breeding Jerseys, has disposed of most of his dairy cattle. He has three head left out of a herd of 20.

In the recent sale held at Beaver Creek he received the highest price for his cow, "Belinda of Lone Oak," the animal receiving her name from Lone Oak Farm, the farm of the Gribble family. Her price was $450. He also received $220 for a two-year-old heifer, and $360 for a heifer not fresh, this being "Rosie." This latter went to a dairyman at Yankton, Oregon.

HAROLD GRIBBLE FOUND.

The disappearance of Harold Gribble, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Gribble, last week, caused the family much uneasiness. It was thought the boy had enlisted either in the army or navy, as a number of his brothers are still in service, and all the boys have been very patriotic. Every effort was made by the anxious parents to find the boy, and on Wednesday morning he returned from Salem, where he had been several days. Harold wanted to see a little of the city life.

NEW CHURCH BEING ERRECTED.

The Nazarene church being erected in this city is nearing completion, and will be one of the most attractive edifices in the city. The building is 30x44, and is in charge of B. Erickson.

At the completion of the church, Rev. L. R. Butcher, pastor, will have an appropriate program for the dedication, to be held in about three weeks.

MONEY FROM BOTTLE STOLEN.

A dastardly trick was performed at the postoffice Tuesday evening when the contents of the Belgian bottle were stolen. Mrs. A. H. Knight, who has charge of the bottles here, the funds from which go to the babies of Belgium, feels the loss, for she had planned to remove this money and add to the fund and forward it on its way to Belgium. About $3 was thought to be the amount.

So far Mrs. Knight has collected from the Belgian bottles between $40 and $50.

The senior class of the Canby high school enjoyed the trip over the Columbia river highway Saturday, and took well filled baskets, partaking of lunch at one of the scenic points. They also enjoyed supper, and upon the return trip were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. H. B. Cartledge, of this city, principal of the school, who chaperoned the young people on the trip. The evening was spent in games and music, and refreshments were served. The home of Mrs. Cartledge were prettily decorated with roses.

The class composed of the following made the trip, and enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Cartledge: Miss Mildred Dedman, Miss Maura Pennell, Miss Anna Gilmore, Miss Eva Whipple, Miss Mable Gribble, Miss Agnes Hendrickson and Miss Edith May; Messrs. John Gastrock, Craig Dedman, Herman Anthony, Roy Zimmerman, Wayne Hampton, Kenneth Hornig, and John Robbins.

Canby High Gives Enjoyable Program

The commencement exercises of the Canby high school were held at the band hall at Canby Friday evening, at which time there was a large attendance. The interior of the hall was prettily decorated with flowers and evergreens, while Old Glory was displayed in conspicuous places and added to the interior of the building.

The evening's program was enjoyed by the patrons of the school and others who attended. There were 14 graduates. These took part in the play "The Rivals" last Tuesday evening under the direction of the principal, Mrs. H. B. Cartledge, of this city, and which proved a most creditable affair, and largely attended.

Lodge. Mr. Knight has been grand patriarch for some time. He has the distinction of being the youngest man who has ever presided over the grand encampment of Oregon.

The two paper mill unions have become involved in a suit instituted in the justice court of W. E. Carver to recover $125 for the value of a billiard table, and attachment proceedings were stopped Friday by filing a bond for the release of the property of the unions. The case will probably be tried early this week.

Carver names as defendants Local No. 68, of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, George Dunmire, business manager; Tom McGrath, president and treasurer; A. H. McDonald, secretary, Albert Hintz, Eddie Smith, Jack Miller, Tom Long and J. C. Williamson, as members; Local No. 166 of the International Brotherhood of Papermakers, George Dunmire, as secretary and business manager and W. R. Smith and Paul Miller. It is alleged by Carver that in December 1918, the defendants agreed to buy a billiard table that was in the labor temple, and agreed to pay for it when the locals had sufficient money, and Carver avers that they now have the funds. He contends that the table was delivered in accordance with the agreement, as he outlines it.

C. Schuebel, attorney for the unions, tells a different story. He says that the table is one of two tables that were placed in the labor temple by Williamson, who became obligated to Carver and gave him the table as security. Later, explains Mr. Schuebel, the unions has an opportunity to purchase two tables for $75 each and offered Williamson a fair price for his table, but that Williamson was unable to arrange the sale, because of his previous negotiations with Carver.

Commander of the NC-4 That Flew Without Stop to Port in the Azores

Since he was appointed to Anna polis from Massachusetts only six years ago, Lieutenant-Commander A. C. Read has done much to help naval aviation. He has served as commander of nearly every naval air station on the Atlantic coast before he was called to Washington during the war and put in charge of supplying all the air stations with material. His friends in the navy say he is a born flier and were not surprised when they read that the NC-4 had made a non-stop flight from Newfoundland to the Azores.

NATIONAL OFFICE'S SCOUTS.

At the national headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America in the Fifth Avenue building, New York city, quite a few boy scouts are employed in responsible capacities. These have been organized as Troop 400 of Manhattan, and as an example to all the other employed boys in the city they are carrying out the scout program faithfully.

Before office hours they line up and go through the regular setting-up exercises. This starts them off for the day's work and gives them a pep and enthusiasm quite different from the usual distinctive "office boy crawl."

These are the boys who meet customers in the scout store and who greet visitors in the general office, and they are also employed in the supply department and as orderlies in the other departments.

Mrs. Clarence Roll, nee Kate Cooper, who underwent a surgical operation at the Good Samaritan hospital a few days ago, is improving.

Bonds and Fairy Tales

Some enterprising gentleman, with whom, perhaps, the wish is the father to the thought, has been stringing the Portland Oregonian, which, in its issue of Tuesday, carries the following paragraph:

"Clackamas county, which heretofore has refrained from voting road bonds, plans a special election and road bond issue this summer, according to a delegation which visited the commissioners yesterday. The bond issue will be large enough to provide for a new suspension bridge across the Willamette river, connect various communities in the county and also provide for building a road to connect Oregon City with the Mount Hood loop which the government will start constructing this summer."

Somebody made a bad guess. No plans have been made for a bond issue, and it is questionable if there will be. If there is to be a new suspension bridge constructed across the Willamette river at Oregon City, the state will have to help the project, and help materially. So far as the Mount Hood loop connection is concerned, that project is up in the air like a balloon. No decision has been reached concerning it, and the matter has not even been before the county court for official sanction.

The Oregonian informant is not helping the Clackamas road situation by issuing such a false and unwarranted statement, and the publication of erroneous information does not make it true.

Clackamas county levies a 9 mill road tax, amounting to about $270,000 annually, but 70 per cent of the special levy of 7 mills goes to each district, in proportion to the amount paid, which means that the cities and towns receive much of the money. The county court has a 2 mill levy for paving and 30 per cent of about $210,000 for general road and bridge work, aided by district funds, both regular and special. When the county court is confronted with an annual expenditure, such as a long and costly bridge, or the grading of a state road, then the "bond" cry becomes most frequent.

Perhaps we shall bond, but let us not lose our heads and peddle a lot of misleading information to the people of Oregon, and let us not prejudice the people of our own county in advance. When the time comes to raise more money, it may be determined to vote a higher special tax, rather than bonds, to satisfy the "pay as we go" people, such as Brother Spence and others. As an illustration, a road tax of 15 mills, or an increase of 6 mills over the present levy, will give the county $180,000 more per annum, and would swell the paving fund to $240,000 annually, which is probably as much money as the county court could wisely expend.

We want good roads, and we want them as early as practicable, but we don't want to jump stiff-legged at every proposition that may be suggested.

for the gasoline evaporates quickly and does not soak through around the heel to make a brown stain—which is caused by the brown leather forming the inner stiff part of the heel.

Gerrude B.—Henna shampoo will not bleach the hair, but it will do this—it will keep it from getting darker if it is blond brown. It will make a prettier gold if it is light, and it will bring in all sorts of pretty coppery lights if it is dark. It is quite harmless, I never recommend anything in this column that is harmful.

Constant Reader—Hollows in the neck probably show that you are underweight, and to fill them out you had better build yourself up. Also take deep breathing exercises, and massage the hollow parts of the throat with cocoa butter.

C. B.—Yes, announcements are usually sent out with even the quietest wedding. They are mailed the day of the wedding, not before. It is not necessary, but it would be nice to invite the fiancée of the bride and the best man. Serve anything dainty for the wedding breakfast, creamed chicken in homemade patty cups, and green peas, salad, a dainty dessert and a home made wedding cake would be quite sufficient.

W. W. W.—Take extra good care of your skin, by which I mean, hot and cold washes, massage, ice rubs and such things to stimulate the circulation of the blood in the face, and that mark will disappear. But of course it will take a long time.

Betty B.—Pull out the hairs between the brows with tweezers and touch the spots with proclite. The correct formula for blackhead cleansing powder is—wheat or corn starch, two parts, powdered borax one part, almond meal, one part. The formula you clipped was misprinted. However, it is as effective if you have two parts almond meal, for this is healing, softening and bleaching. But it costs more than the other ingredients so I recommended two parts of the starch to one of borax and of meal. If this brings bad blotches on your face, it shows your blood is thick with impurities in it. You had better try a blood tonic.

Where is this fellow Androcles?

PARTNERS BACK FROM SERVICE IN GREAT WAR

W. W. Keeling, son of William Keeling, well known young man residing near Aurora, accompanied by A. H. Lorenz, also of that section of the county, were in Oregon City Thursday, having come here to file their discharge papers in the office of County Recorder J. G. Noe. This latter was their teacher a number of years ago.

These young men entered the service on the same day and have been continually together since leaving here for France. They have fought in some of the greatest battles overseas. Their discharge papers show they were members of the 117th Engineer Corps, a California regiment, but containing about 60 Oregon men, and were in the battles of Linnville Sector, Champagne-Marne Sector, and Baccarat Sector. They were also in the Alsace-Marne offensive, Chateau-Thierry, St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives and the advance of Sedan. These young war heroes were under shell fire continually for nine months. Fifteen of the men of their company were killed and 28 wounded.

Lorenz was cited for bridge construction during the advance on Sedan.

Keeling and Lorenz left the United States with Company E, 117th Engineers, Rainbow Division, October 8, 1917, and left Germany April 10, 1919, making the trip from France on the U. S. Puelche, there being 1700 soldiers on the transport. Many of these young men, while passing the statute of Liberty in New York harbor, wept for joy, Keeling and Lorenz among those being that happy. They received their discharges at Camp Lewis, and are glad to be back on the farms at Gribble Prairie.

PRAISE GIVEN RED CROSS BY SOLDIER BOY

Fred Armstrong, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Armstrong, of West Linn, who answered his country's call April 1, 1917, has returned home. Fred is the picture of health, has gained 33 pounds and is mighty glad to be back in West Linn.

Armstrong left Oregon City for Camp Lewis August 9th, and on December 11, 1917, left for overseas duty. He arrived in Liverpool, England, on Christmas day of the same year, and will long remember his first Christmas spent in Europe. The trip over to England was made on the ill-fated Lusitania, the following trip being her last when she was sunk by a submarine. It was while stationed at Liverpool Armstrong assisted in caring for the survivors of the big boat when she was struck, and he says the scene of the poor fellows coming to that place will long be remembered.

From Liverpool Armstrong was transferred to Southampton, England, and later back to Liverpool. He says the English people were kind and thoughtful to the boys where he was stationed, and many times had been invited to the home of the English people, where he was always given a most welcoming reception. Mr. Armstrong also speaks highly of the Red Cross and of the Salvation Army, and of the wonderful work these two organizations accomplished in England. It was while suffering from influenza, of which he had three attacks, and also a slight operation and mumps, he was given the best of care and attention by the Red Cross nurse. Nothing was too good for the American boys while overseas, and others as well who were in the hospital. The operation undergone by Mr. Armstrong was removal of tonsils, as he had suffered from continual tonsillitis after arriving in England.

Armstrong says he will always remember the day when he passed the statue of Liberty in the New York harbor. He had planned to give one of the biggest cheers he had ever given since leaving home while passing this statue. When his boat, the Louisville, passed the statue, Armstrong says he could not yell, but his throat seemed paralyzed, as he was so delighted. He tried several times but failed, and he says "I tell you instead of being able to yell for joy, I just shed tears of joy. There were others doing the same, when I glanced about the boat. That woman was the grandest I had ever seen since leaving the good old U. S. A. and we just wanted to embrace her."

A big celebration is being planned by Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, this to be held at the Armstrong home Saturday, May 31. There are 137 people invited, 15 of whom are young men in uniform, or who have been discharged from the service, and close friends to Fred and Ralph Armstrong, the latter, who recently received his discharge from the navy. The affair is to be held in honor of the returning Armstrong boys. Dancing is to be among the features of the evening, and a patriotic program is also to be the main feature of the evening. Old Glory is to be hoisted by the soldier boy, Fred Armstrong, and it is probable that John W. Kelly, one of the well known Indian war veterans, and who was drummer boy, will play his drum that was carried through the war. As the Stars and Stripes are raised the "Star Spangled Banner" is to be sung by the audience.

Upon his arrival in Portland Fred Armstrong was met at the Union depot by 24 relatives and friends. He received his discharge at Camp Lewis, but was stationed for a brief time after arriving in the United States, at Camp Merritt, N. J.
