

Campaign Is Of Vital Interest To The Farmer

(By E. F. Riley.)

The theory of low tariffs is to make prices of imported articles lower by allowing competition of foreign makers and producers so that the people may buy more cheaply and thus reduce the cost of living.

But the farmer is much more interested in his SELLING prices than he is in his BUYING prices. He rarely receives any money except in return for what he sells, while there are many necessary uses for his money besides the purchase of articles he uses. With the money acquired by the sale of his produce he pays his taxes, his minister, lawyer, physician, expenses of trips and visits, and many other expenses which will suggest themselves to any farmer. Besides there are many articles he buys that are already on the free list and which will not be cheapened by low tariffs, such as tea, coffee, etc. And then he aims to save a part of his money for declining years, and perhaps he has debts to pay contracted in the purchase or improvement of his land. It is plain that his loss by reduction of his selling prices is not nearly compensated by a corresponding reduction of his buying prices.

The farmers' selling prices may be seriously reduced:

1. By home competition and an increase in the supply of farm products.

On the contrary his selling prices may be materially increased by a policy which will withdraw men from the business of farming and induce them to become consumers instead of producers of farm products.

2. By removing his market farther from him.

The farmer is directly benefited by any policy which has a tendency to bring his market close to him, thus enabling him to control it and save excessive transportation charges. The farther his market is from him the more competition he is likely to encounter.

3. By reducing the ability of his patrons to buy his products.

The policy of the Democratic party is to so cheapen the cost of making goods here in the U. S. as to enable our manufacturers to compete with European makers in the markets of the world.

THIS IS A POSITIVE AND OUT-SPOKEN DECLARATION OF WAR AGAINST THE FARMER'S PRICES. The policy of the president and his party is, evidently, to so cheapen the cost of the laborer's living that he can work at so cheap a rate as to enable his employer to compete with the European manufacturer (who has all the advantages of free raw materials and pauper labor) and still make "abundant profits."

When it is considered that all that the farmer sells comes under the heads of raw materials and necessities of life, it is easy to see that he is expected to bear the brunt of this policy—that by far the greater part of the load will fall on him, and that it will be a heavy one.

As one of the means to put this policy in force there are on the free list all meats, potatoes and all vegetables, flax, broom corn, and nearly all the "raw materials" and "necessaries of life" furnished by the farmer, thus giving the whole world every opportunity to compete with him on the sea board.

The inevitable effect of this policy is to place our factories on the seaboard (if, indeed, it would not drive them across the ocean) and thus remove the farmer's market further from him.

The manufacturer who desires to avail himself of free raw material will not build his factory at the interior end of a long line of railway over which he would have to transport his "free raw materials" and over which, also, he would have to ship his manufactured products to the sea shore to reach the "extended markets" the president proposes to give him. He must also be at the tidewater to secure to himself and his employees the advantages of cheap Indian and Russian wheat, cheap Australian wool, cheap Scotch potatoes, cheap South American beef, cheap China eggs, cheap cured berries, etc.—a sure means of compelling our farmers not only to sell their products at a cheap rate, but pay the cost of getting them to the manufacturer.

The president and his party propose to "increase the purchasing power of the workingman's wages." When he increases the purchasing power of the workingman's wages he, of course, increases the purchasing power of everybody else's money, and in a corresponding degree decreases the purchasing power of the farmer's products. When, under this policy, the farmer turns off his fat steers to pay the mortgage on his farm—if he is unfortunate enough to have one to pay—he will find that the relations between the steers and the mortgage have greatly changed and that he will have to produce more steers to satisfy his creditor, the purchasing power of whose mortgage has been materially increased by the Democratic policy.

When, in addition, to the foregoing, we consider the certainty of a vast increase of competition at the farmer's home by the emigration to the west of hundreds of thousands of laborers dissatisfied with the low wages necessary to a competition with European manufacturers, and who will become producers of farm products instead of consumers, it becomes very apparent that the farmer of the west may well tremble for his selling prices, and that he should see to it that by his vote the destructive policy of the Democratic party shall not be endorsed.

In closing it may be well to mention the farm products which the "underwood tariff law" puts on the free list: Bacon, beans, beef, broom corn, berries, broom corn, buckwheat, cattle, corn, cornmeal, cream, flax, and grease, flax, flower and grass seeds, fowls, grains, hides, hams, lamb, lard, meats, milk (condensed), mutton, pork, potatoes, rye and rye flour, sheep, swine, tallow, veal, wheat, wool. Nearly all are produced in the state of Oregon.

Does the farmer want to SELL in a free trade market, in competition with the whole world, and BUY his manufactured goods in a protected market? Not if he knows himself.

GUST ENGELBRIGHT SUE.

Gust Engelbright, Greenpoint dairy man, is defendant in a suit filed in the circuit court Wednesday by C. DeVincent and E. A. Olcese, commission merchants, doing business as the Atlantic Produce company. The plaintiffs allege that they had a contract with Engelbright to deliver to Oregon City 200 sacks of potatoes at $1.12½ a hundredweight. The potatoes were not delivered, and they have been damaged to the extent of $200, the plaintiffs declare.

HELP FOR WORKING WOMEN

Some Have to Keep on Until They Almost Drop. How Mrs. Conley Got Help.

Here is a letter from a woman who had to work, but was too weak and suffered too much to continue. How she regained health:

Frankfort, Ky.—"I suffered so much with female weakness that I could not do my own work, had to hire it done. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound that I tried it. I took three bottles and I found it to be all you claim. Now I feel as well as ever I did and am able to do all my own work again. I recommend it to any woman suffering from female weakness. You may publish my letter if you wish."—Mrs. JAMES CONLEY, 516 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice,—it will be confidential.

IDENTITY OF SUICIDE ON THE COUNTRY ROAD IS A DEEP MYSTERY

CORONER HEMPSTEAD EXERTING EVERY EFFORT TO LEARN DEAD MAN'S NAME.

A mystery as deep as any ever faced by Sheriff Holmes surrounds the death and identity of the man who committed suicide on the county road near Canby, Thursday morning. Coroner Hempstead is exerting every effort to uncover a clue which would enable him to determine the man's identity.

The man was traveling south Thursday morning. He told men he met at New Canby that he was running away from a man with a white hat who was chasing him in a big high-power automobile. An hour later the man had put the gun into his mouth and pulled the trigger. Death came instantly.

The man wore two suits of clothes and a large coat, but there was not a scrap of paper in his pockets which would give the authorities a trace of his identity. He was addicted to the use of drugs, as a hypodermic needle was found in his pocket and his body is scarred with frequent use. Marks on his clothes were torn off so that it would be impossible even to learn where the garments were purchased. Most of his clothing was new and never had been laundered.

"I was in a hospital in Seattle suffering from stomach trouble," he told one man he met on the road. This remark leads Coroner Hempstead to believe that the man probably was in business in Seattle. A bunch of keys, desk, office and vault keys. He wore a Masonic emblem on his coat.

The man does not have the appearance of being a tramp. His clothes and general appearance has led Coroner Hempstead to believe that he probably was a prosperous office worker, who either had become the slave of a drug or the victim of circumstances. The man was about 30 years old, stood five feet and 10 inches tall and weighed about 160 pounds. He had dark hair and a Roman nose.

Forget Your Aches.

Stiff knees, aching limbs, lame back make life a burden. If you suffer from rheumatism, gout, lumbago, neuralgia, get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment, the universal remedy for pain. Easy to apply; it penetrates without rubbing and soothes the tender flesh. Cleaner and more effective than many ointments or poultices. For sprains, sore muscles or wrenched ligaments resulting from strenuous exercise, Sloan's Liniment gives quick relief. Keep it on hand for emergencies. At Your Drugist, 25c. (Adv.)

STRANGER, PROBABLY INSANE, SHOOTS SELF ON THE COUNTY ROAD

EFFORTS TO LEARN NAME AND ADDRESS OF SUICIDE ARE UNSUCCESSFUL.

A man, whose identity has not been determined shot himself through the head on the county road near Canby Thursday morning and died instantly. It is thought that he was insane.

The man was in Canby and New Canby Thursday morning. He talked to several persons, declaring that he was being pursued by a man in a new automobile and wearing a white hat. "I was in a hospital in Seattle, being treated for stomach trouble, but I got away from them," he told A. J. Deere.

Otto Peters, a tramp, found the body on the road and told Deere about it. Sheriff Wilson was in the southern part of the county at the time and was soon at the scene of the suicide. Coroner Hempstead spent the afternoon in an unsuccessful effort to learn his name. The body was taken to Canby.

The only article found in the man's pockets besides the revolver was a hypodermic needle. A Masonic pin was on his coat. There were no marks on his clothing which would give the officers a clue in their search for his identity, and no papers were found in his pockets. He appeared to be about 25 years old, and wore two suits of clothes.

DEFENDANTS APPEAR IN VIETOR'S $10,000 SUIT

The Oregon City Enterprise, E. E. Brodie, editor, and Thomas A. Burke, defendants in a $10,000 libel suit filed by Maxwell Vietor, Democratic nominee for sheriff, Monday filed a motion to compel the plaintiff to elect one cause of action of the several outlined in the complaint as a basis for the claim. H. E. Cross, George C. Brown, Charles T. Sievers, William Hammond and Philip Hammond appear as attorneys for the defendants. Vietor filed his suit 10 days ago, the action being based on a story appearing in the Enterprise in September in which the paper charged that Vietor was at the bottom of a plot to discredit Sheriff Wilson, his opponent at the polls November 7.

Milwaukie Banker Supports Candidacy Of Democrat, Risley

PHILIP STREIB SAYS CLACKAMAS COUNTY SHOULD CONSIDER ITSELF FORTUNATE IN HAVING SUCH SPLENDID MATERIAL.

From all reports there is one county office in which the voters are far from drawing party lines and are looking to the man and what they feel he will be able to accomplish for them in the way of giving them good roads and an economical and businesslike administration if elected. It is quite evident that many republicans throughout the county are of the opinion that Charles W. Risley of Risley station, at present road supervisor of District No. 47, Democratic nominee for county commissioner, possesses every requisite and ability to make him one of the best commissioners Clackamas county ever had.

Among those who are urging the election of Mr. Risley and doing everything they can to make possible his election is Philip Streib, president of the First State Bank of Milwaukie, a prominent German-American, the owner of much property in and around Milwaukie, as well as some in Oregon City. Mr. Streib is a Republican and president of the Milwaukie Hughes' Alliance branch, but he feels that party lines can be severed when it comes to county office.

Mr. Streib has known Mr. Risley for a number of years; has had considerable business dealings with him, and thus is able to judge of the man's business qualifications as well as integrity and probity. He says frankly that the taxpayers of Clackamas county should consider it a great concession for Mr. Risley to offer himself to them as a county commissioner, for seldom is it their privilege to secure a man of his standing and ability. Mr. Streib says he realizes that Mr. Risley consented to make the race only at the solicitation of his friends, Republican and Democratic alike, who believe they see in him a man capable of giving valuable suggestion and advice in the conduct of county affairs, which includes road building, one of the really big problems of Clackamas county; that Mr. Risley is a man who, having made a success of his own affairs, will bring to the county valuable experience and knowledge that is seldom secured in a county commissioner, for the occasions are rare where a person of means and affairs that demand much of his time cares to give of his time to public affairs, and will only do so at the request and solicitation of friends.

C. W. Risley.

Mr. Streib has given considerable attention to the road work in Mr. Risley's district, done under the supervision of the latter, and he says that the roads and the plans under which they were constructed stand as an example for other parts of the county, where the same results are possible, and where the county receives value for every dollar expended. This fact alone should have much to do with the election of Mr. Risley, thinks Mr. Streib, for there is no other question quite so important in Clackamas county as good roads and the surety that the taxpayers are receiving value for the great sum that is spent annually upon the highways. But Mr. Risley possesses good sound business judgment as well as is foreboded under the most trying circumstances. (Paid Adv.)

HUMANITY—AND YOUR VOTE

BY HENRY FORD

IN this great crisis of our country I am more interested in measures than in men, I am not interested in parties at all. But measures can only be put into force through the men in office. We must therefore make a choice of the man and men who will put the measures in force.

In the first place we should guard against Wall Street influences again securing the control of our Government. They have been rooted out during the last four years, and they are working hard to get back.

The eight-hour day should be extended to all our industries where possible. Women should be given the rights which in justice belong to them. For years argument has had some force with me that women should be discouraged from working in factories and stores, and hence, they have been discriminated against in wages, but I have slowly come to settled conviction that this practice has been unfair, because equal work deserves equal pay. Hence, all women in our employment who do equal work shall receive equal pay.

I regard war as the greatest curse of mankind—that it has done more to retard the progress of the race and its material well-being than any other single cause. We want to see war abolished and we believe it can be done, and we must try to choose the man for the head of our Nation who will do the most for these ends.

ALTHOUGH NOMINALLY A REPUBLICAN ALL MY LIFE, I AM FOR WILSON, AND URGE MY FELLOW CITIZENS TO STAND FOR HIM, BECAUSE OF HIS POSITION ON THESE AND OTHER GREAT QUESTIONS, BECAUSE HE HAS KEPT US OUT OF WAR AND HAS DONE MUCH TO BRING ABOUT THE REMARKABLE PROSPERITY WHICH WE ENJOY, AND BECAUSE WALL STREET IS AGAINST HIM.

He is entitled to be rewarded for his great service to mankind, and the only way we can reward him is by giving him the opportunity to be of still greater service.

The greatest reward for doing a good thing is the privilege to do more, that is why Mr. Wilson wants to be re-elected; in other words, to be paid for what he has done by the privilege of doing more.

I have much admiration for Mr. Hughes personally, but he is surrounded, influenced and advised by nearly all the evil influences of selfishness and greed which I feel have retarded our progress for so long. I fear his election would restore the old crowd to power and put back the cause of humanity fifty years.

In my mind, the most undesirable citizen in the world is the man who will buy another man's vote, and the next most undesirable is the man who will sell his vote—because he not only injures himself and his family, but the community at large.

I AM FOR MR. WILSON BECAUSE WITH A WORLD AT WAR HE HAS KEPT US OUT OF WAR. ALL OTHER GREAT NATIONS ARE BEING CONSUMED AND DESTROYED BUT WE HAVE PEACE WITH HONOR, AND OUR BOYS ARE AT HOME. SPECIAL INTERESTS ARE DEMANDING WAR AND THE PRESIDENT IS BEING CRITICIZED WITH MANY WORDS, BUT STRIPPED OF ALL UNNECESSARY WORDS THEIR REAL COMPLAINT IS THAT HE HAS NOT PLUNGED THE COUNTRY INTO WAR FOR THEIR PROFIT.

There has been much talk of the attitude of the so-called "hyphenates." To my mind these are merely sentimental Americans, men and women, who, like myself, have a feeling of love for the place of their birth. My observation has shown that among the best of Americans are these citizens.

To all these let me say: I know from many conversations with Mr. Wilson his absolute neutrality among all the nations at war, his intense devotion to peace, his deep desire to serve all the peoples of all those countries impartially. Any single act apparently against any one of these countries, is made only in pursuance of his duty as President of the United States and his duty to mankind.

I know positively he bears no ill will to Germany or to England, or France, or Austria, or any of those countries at war, but he does understand and is opposing that invisible government, that unseen hand which caused this war. I believe those same selfish forces that caused the war are opposing the President's re-election.

I AM FOR WILSON because he caused to be passed a large number of wise and humane laws, most of which had been promised by the politicians of both parties for many years without fulfillment.

No one class has been favored, no one disregarded. He has served the United States as a whole.

Among these laws are:

THE FEDERAL RESERVE LAW, which wrested from Wall Street its monopoly of finance, released credit, forbade usury and dispelled the fear of money panics which hung over every business. It has done away with the concentration of money in the hands of a few men in Wall Street, and distributed it among twelve Government controlled reserve banks throughout the country. The passage of this law alone, from the viewpoint of the honest business man, should entitle Woodrow Wilson to re-election.

THE EIGHT-HOUR LAWS—The eight-hour day issue has suddenly sprung into great prominence.

I say to you from experience and not from guess work, that the eight-hour day will help both employers and employees. We have had the eight-hour day in force in the Ford factory for nearly three years and it has been a complete success from every point of view.

I AM FOR WILSON because he favors the eight-hour day. The President has declared that he is in favor of the eight-hour day in all kinds of business, except a very few in which it is impracticable, as for instance, farming.

The President has been criticised for the passage of the Adamson eight-hour law, which applies to railroads, but that law averted the wholesale ruin which a universal railway strike would have brought. A strike had been ordered. It meant the closing of factories, violence and the enforced idleness of millions of persons and the loss of millions of dollars. Neither side to the struggle took into consideration the one hundred million people who would have to bear the burden. Every business man in the country was trembling with fear. The President acted as the representative of all the people and the strike was prevented and the principle of an eight-hour day endorsed. Seventy-four Republican Congressmen voted for the bill and no word of protest came from the Republican candidate, although the law was under consideration for several days.

Mr. Wilson showed great wisdom and courage in preventing this strike, which would have paralyzed the nation.

The Commission which has been appointed to study the effect of this law will, I hope, report that with increased efficiency the railroads will not need higher rates. But in any case this action is, I believe and hope, the first step towards the government ownership and operation of railroads.
