

Christmas Presents That Please Men

LAST Christmas many a man decided his feminine friends were not worthy of the vote simply because they sent him such foolish, inappropriate gifts. On the other hand, a successful present makes an impression that never wears off. It is a little monument to the taste, intelligence and affection of the giver.

Among the following suggestions is almost certain to be something which will please any man.

If he shaves himself, one of the light, magnifying shaving mirrors which can be quickly and easily attached to a window or wherever the light is good.

A trousers rack will please him greatly, especially if he is a bachelor and his closet room is limited.

The furniture and department stores carry flat, wide, shallow cedar chests on wooden wheels which roll easily out from under the bed. This is particularly adapted to the college boy in his little dormitory room. For him also a sweater is a joy.

A small kit of tools is a good present for almost any man unless he is a carpenter or a paralytic. One to half a dozen pairs of shoe trees are an inexpensive but grateful present.

In case he has electricity in his house there is no end of good things for him—coffee percolators, bread toasters, cigar lighters, etc.

If he has a car you may charm him with one of the new fangled pneumatic or other cushions which are now sold to re-enforce the upholstery of the car. A lap robe or a vulcanizer or vacuum bottle or even a new horn may be just the thing for him.

Very likely he has a telephone. If so get a little mahogany card index file and have some one (preferably you) look up the telephone numbers of the people in his address book and write them on the cards.

A fountain pen for his desk would prove a convenience and a delight.

Should you care to pay $10 you can surprise and please a man who has a little bit of accounting to do at home by giving him a pocket adding machine. For about the same price you can buy him a real, fool proof, portable shower bath.

Metal wastebaskets are appreciated by men because a lighted cigar or cigarette dropped into them is not likely to bring the fire department.

A frame for a cabinet sized photograph will not be amiss if you are sure he wants your picture in it.

But don't send him a necktie, nor a scarf, nor a matchbox or he'll never forgive you; also restrain yourself from inflicting a pearl handled pen-knife, a pocketbook (unless you are older and richer and can put something into it) or a box of cigars just as good as the kind he smokes.—New York American.

Christmas the Same as Ever.

Christmas time! That man must be a misanthrope indeed in whose breast something like a jovial feeling is not roused—in whose mind some pleasant associations are not awakened—by the recurrence of Christmas. There are people who will tell you that Christmas is not to them what it used to be. . . . Never heed such dismal reminiscences. . . . Reflect upon your present blessings, of which every man has many; not on your past misfortunes, of which all men have some. . . . Our life on it, but your Christmas shall be merry and your new year a happy one.—Charles Dickens.

Christmas of Long Ago

IN the midnight sky a wonder:
A star in the east glowed,
And mellowed voice thereunder,
Christmas of long ago.

With gaze upraised the sages,
Poor shepherds bending low;
A rapture to light the ages,
Christmas of long ago.

O Child-God laid in the manger,
Who bore no diadem;
To the lords of earth a stranger—
Outcast of Bethlehem!

Thy message came to the lowly;
Thy star was sent to the wise,
And "Peace" and "Love" were the holy
Words from the midnight skies.

They filled the heart of one other,
To its own sweet overflow;
Peace and love to the mother,
Christmas of long ago.

Has Time's dust dulled its glory?
Have tear mists blurred its rays?
Is it now too old a story
For hurrying, changing days?

Oh, ever our hearts shall hearken
To the angel's chant above,
And never shall distance darken
The star that shines in love.

And ever shall smile the mother,
Whose child was God;
God, who took man for brother;
Brother who ways who trod.

Forever in joy completer
Shall the clear, glad message show,
And its angel voice sound sweeter—
Christmas of long ago.

CAPTAIN KELLER GIVEN FULL SUPPORT OF UNIONS

Captain Joe Keller, sent to Oregon City to organize and direct the work of a force of special state police doing strike duty in connection with the mill strike here, was Thursday assured the general support of all paper mill unions as a result of a vote taken at a mass meeting at the Labor Temple. Mr. Keller addressed the meeting and made a statement as to the duties asked of him and requested the support of the strikers in performing his tasks.

To Captain Keller, one of his deputies, L. R. Morlack, Thursday first told the story of having suffered a burglary. While Morlack was sleeping Wednesday night some unknown person entered his room and made away with cash and checks of $40 value, in addition to taking his police star. Morlack stays at the Electric hotel and the report that two other rooms were entered on Wednesday night leads him to believe that he was not robbed by any one harboring a grudge against him especially.

HORT SOCIETY ELECTS

State Board in Need of Funds. Fruit Value Put at 50 Million

Dr. C. H. Bailey, of Roseburg, was elected president of the State Horticultural society, at its session at Salem Saturday night. Ben S. Worsley, of Astoria, was elected vice president, and C. D. Minton, was re-elected secretary. Colonel H. E. Doach, of McMinnville, was named trustee. The society decided to hold its next convention at Roseburg.

Robert C. Paulus was named chairman of a committee that will endeavor to see that the state horticultural board is provided with funds by the next legislature. Four other members are to work with him, and he will select them. According to declarations made at the meeting the fruit output of Oregon this year ranges in value between $45,000,000 and $50,000,000.

One Historic Christmastide.

The crusades had a wonderful influence upon the literary taste as well as the national manners and festivities of Christmastide.

It was at the Christmas festival of 1214 that the barons demanded from King John the document which as the foundation of English liberties is known by the name of Magna Charta. John's tyranny had become intolerable, and the hopes of the people hung on the fortunes of the French campaign, in which he was then engaged. After his defeat and return to England the barons met secretly and swore to demand the restoration of their liberties by charter under the king's seal. Having agreed to assemble for this purpose at Christmas, they separated. On the feast of the Epiphany the barons assembled in London and demanded of the king his confirmation of the laws of Edward the Confessor and Henry I. John met the barons with an absolute refusal, but, finding them firm, pleaded for time to consider. This was granted, and in 1215, knowing it to be inevitable, he called the barons to Runnymede and there signed the great charter.

ONLY 9 DAYS LEFT FOR COURIER'S XMAS BARGAIN

There are just nine more days in which Clackamas county people may benefit from The Courier's liberal holiday subscription offer. For that length of time and that only The Courier offers a full year's subscription for $1.00 and will give to every new subscriber and to every subscriber paying a full year in advance on this paper, a Christmas present of a merchandise order, redeemable at any store in the city for a full 25 cents in trade, and a year's subscription to the Oregon Farmer.

No other paper in the United States selling at $1.00 a year has made such a startling offer. The Courier does it only because it wants to go into more of the homes of Clackamas county. The Courier is taken by more people than any other paper circulated in the county, but that does not satisfy us. We are producing the most newsy, interesting paper in the county and the only way county people can know it is by reading The Courier.

Our friends will help the campaign during the next few days by telling their friends of the bargain offer. And they will help themselves and the paper, too, by renewing their own subscriptions and taking advantage of the Christmas present.

There are nine more days in which to get The Courier, a 25-cent merchandise order and a year's subscription to the Oregon Farmer.

MANY PENNIES MADE

Stamps are Issued in Place of Elusive Copper Coins

Information received by Oregon City banks from Washington is that the government mints gradually are speeding up to an output of 2,000,000 one-cent pieces daily and that soon the shortage of these coins will be overcome. Since 1907 the yearly average coinage of copper cents has been nearly 100,000,000 pieces, but many times the quantity now in circulation is required for purposes of paying war taxes. In six weeks up to November 15 a total of 62,000,000 new cent pieces was put into circulation. Great quantities minted at San Francisco and Denver are shipped East, where the shortage is more acute than on the Pacific coast.

In several large cities merchants have been accused of hoarding pennies for change making purposes during the Christmas shopping period. Postage stamps are circulated in some places as substitutes for copper money.

Introduction of the government's system of war saving stamps for investment purposes and to help win the war is expected by bankers to cause toy banks and slotted coin savers to disappear from American homes and incidentally to ease up the shortage of copper coins.

PINKERY ARRESTED

Dancer Fined $12.50 for Having Liquor in Bottles and in Self in Bottles and in Self

Charles Pinkery of Portland, partied with $12.50 on Monday as a result of his arrest by Sheriff Wilson at Milwaukee on Sunday night for having liquor in his possession.

Pinkery was an attendant at a dance at Riverside Park, formerly the Friars' club, and had in his automobile two fancy bottles of what is said to be home-made wine. Some of the same stuff was in Mr. Pinkery, too, if Sheriff Wilson was not mistaken. The man was released under bond Sunday night with instructions to report to the sheriff Monday morning.

Mollala sent five more boys to the army last week, bringing the list from that section up to 45. Those enlisting were Lawrence Masterton, Ben Chindgren, Felix Baty, George Baty and William Reynolds.
