COOLNESS

There's nothing so cool as an oil stove for summer cooking. All the heat is concentrated on the cooking and not radiated about the kitchen.

Cooks everything any wood or coal range will cook, and cooks it better, because of the steady, evenly-distributed heat.

Use it all the year 'round—more convenient than a wood or coal stove, and more economical.

The long blue chimneys prevent all smoke and smell. In 1, 2, 3 and 4 burner sizes, with or without ovens. Also cabinet models. Ask your dealer today.

BIG PRUNE LOSSES DUE TO PREMATURE PICKING

Prune growers stand to lose a good deal of money when they allow themselves to be hurried into a too early picking. This wasteful business has been fostered by certain packers who offer a premium for early delivery. It is also caused by the fear of early rains. The premiums offered for early delivery are not enough many times to offset the loss from early picking, and the weather records show that it is just as likely to rain early in September as late.

"Often if harvesting is delayed the early rains will have ceased and good weather set in," says the new bulletin, The Evaporation of Prunes, issued by the O. A. C. Experiment Station. "In 1914 the majority of growers were well under way with their harvesting by September 6, but we did not start picking until the 11th. Picking was not completed until the 20th, when it was found that had we waited longer we would have gained more."

"By harvesting the fruit from a few trees after they had shed their fruit naturally, a grower found by comparing the returns with those from fruit vigorously shaken from the trees, that he had lost 6 per cent of his dried fruit by shaking it down. The immature prunes dried away more than the mature, making another 6 per cent loss in the total crop. The total loss was 12 per cent, about $15 per ton."

An additional cost is the shaking of the trees, which amounts to $1 to $2 per ton. By watching the fruit carefully the right time for harvesting it can be determined.

WILL ERECT MONUMENT TO OLD OREGON TRAIL

Mrs. Mary Barlow Wilkins, of Portland, was in the city Tuesday, looking over the records of the land in Clackamas county in the vicinity of Rhododendron, near Mount Hood, where a monument will be erected commemorating the old Oregon trail made by the late Samuel Kembrrough Barlow in 1845.

Mr. Barlow was the grandfather of Mrs. Wilkins. The monument will be of bronze, in the form of a tablet 12x14 inches, with the following wording: "Oregon Trail, 1845. Erected by Multnomah Chapter, D. A. R." The daughters of the American Revolution, of which Mrs. Wilkins is regent, and Multnomah Chapter, will erect the monument and will dedicate it in September.

Mrs. Clara Johnson Knight, formerly of Oregon City, but now residing in Portland, and a committee from the Willamette chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of Portland, visited Oregon City in July to locate a site for a monument on the north side of Abernathy creek in the northwestern part of this city. This will also mark the Oregon trail, and will be dedicated in the city in September with appropriate exercises near the Abernathy bridge. The stone is now being carved by Frank Glennon, of this city.

SERIOUS BRUSH FIRE NEAR MILWAUKIE FOUGHT HARD

A brush fire which started near Courtney avenue and the Oakland road Thursday evening assumed such proportions that the 3rd Oregon Machine Gun company and a group of volunteers were called out to fight it, and after several hours of severe fighting, got it under control. The fire started on the property of R. S. Ramsey, near Milwaukie, and spread over 35 acres of ground before it was put out. Women with wet sacks, men with shovels and dirt, and soldiers digging ditches and making backfire, it looked for a while as though it would get beyond control and envelope the whole neighborhood, but with the good hard fight put up, especially by the soldiers under command of L. H. Compton, from Clackamas station, it was finally gotten under control.

RAISES BEST CORN

Specimen Stands 8 1/2 Feet High and Grows 11 Acres Nearby

J. W. Partlow, of this city, brought into the Courier office last week a specimen from his corn field in Mt. Pleasant, which stood 8 1/2 feet high, and corn experts here say he has one of the finest corn fields ever grown in Oregon. Mr. Partlow recommends corn growing for this state and says that he can disprove the statement that corn is not a success in Oregon, if it is planted along the right lines. He has 11 acres in Mt. Pleasant, which he claims is all up to the specimen once in four years, and is very careful to rotate his crop—putting in corn or fall wheat the first year, wheat, clover or timothy the second, etc., making the land produce each abundantly.

The specimen from his corn field can be seen in the Oregon City Commercial club publicity rooms.
