THE I. W. W. SWAN SONG

The last glad strains of the I. W. W. funeral march have been sounded upon ears that have too long been tolerant of the terrors which the alleged industrial workers have threatened since their gory birth in the filth and wantonness of depravity.

Springing up from misconception and wickedness—utter barbarism in the minds of a few uncontrolled louts—the curse of the organization has spread like wildfire among a certain class of workmen whose only thought in life is for the satisfaction of their own fiendish desires. Such a life must be denied its breath in America, and especially in the America of this day. The terrors of war are sufficient for a long suffering population and it is well that the I. W. W. disease brought about its own death, lest stern measures in these trying days be necessary to step upon the snake.

When the leaders of the misguided gang that has been running rampant in the northwest lately failed to hold their cohorts to strike plans the organization breathed its last, so far as any interest the public may have in it goes. Its leaders are behind the bars where they rightly belong and its membership is dissipated.

When workmen are prospering and when the fruits of the harvest of toil are being more equitably divided than ever before, such crazed minds as those of the I. W. W. cannot influence action. Farm labor stuck to the farm and workmen stood by their work. The cries of I. W. W. fell upon deaf ears and ears that will be forever deaf to strife that threatens the foundation of civil life. We will gladly build jails to house such things as the I. W. W. organization calls its leaders.

RESISTING CONSCRIPTION

W. J. Bryan says the number of those resisting the draft is, fortunately, very few; there should be none. Some are conscientiously opposed to war—any war—and may prefer to submit to any punishment the government sees fit to inflict rather than to take up arms, but even such can not justify resistance or the giving of encouragement to those who do resist. Still less can tolerance be shown to those who, while opposing conscription, attempt to DRAFT others to join them in opposing conscription. War is a last resort—it is a reflection upon civilization that it still reddens the earth—but so long as nations go to war the citizen can not escape a citizen's duty. If his conscience forbids him to do what his government demands he must submit without complaint, to any punishment inflicted, whether the punishment be imprisonment or death.

This is the best government on earth—the one most responsive to the will of the people—not of one or a few men. If a few are permitted to resist a law—any law—because they do not like it, government becomes a farce. The law must be enforced—resistance is anarchy.

MAYOR UNITES SOLDIER

Executive's First Ceremony Ties Knot for Fair War Bride

In the absence of County Judge H. S. Anderson and Justice of the Peace John N. Sievers, Mayor E. C. Hackett of Oregon City yesterday performed the first marriage ceremony since he has been in office. The mayor tied the nuptial knot for Kathryn McGuire of Portland and Peter Sabista, a soldier stationed at Camp Withycombe. The license was issued in Multnomah county.

Miss Beryl Cornell attended the war bride at the ceremony and James Inkster was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Sabista left for Portland immediately and after visiting relatives the groom will return to his duties at Camp Withycombe.

Skene Starts a Fire

When D. F. Skene, local business man, struck his lighted pipe against a trouser pocket yesterday afternoon, he forgot that he was carrying a pen-knife and matches in the same pocket. The pipe bowl struck a match against the knife and the result was the excited flight of Mr. Skene. By the time the blaze had blistered Mr. Skene's leg and destroyed the pocket he succeeded in putting out the fire with a glass of water.

NOT ENOUGH CHILDREN

ever receive the proper balance of food to sufficiently nourish both body and brain during the growing period when nature's demands are greater than in mature life. This is shown in so many pale faces, lean bodies, frequent colds, and lack of ambition.

For all such children we say with unmistakable earnestness: They need Scott's Emulsion, and need it now. It possesses in concentrated form the very food elements to enrich their blood. It changes weakness to strength; it makes them sturdy and strong. No alcohol. Scott & Borne, Bloomfield, N. J.

Pain

Here is a message to suffering women from Mrs. Kathryn Edwards, of R. F. D. 4, Washington, Court House, Ohio. "I am glad to tell, and have told many women, what I suffered before I knew of Cardui and the great benefit to be derived from this remedy. A few years ago I became practically helpless..."

"I was very weak," Mrs. Edwards goes on to say, "and could not stoop without suffering great pain... Nothing seemed to help me until I heard of Cardui. I began the use of it... I gradually gained my strength... I am now able to do all my work. If you need a tonic take Cardui. It is for women. It acts gently and reliably and will probably help you as it helped this lady."
