LIEUTENANT SMITH AMONG FIRST TO GO IS AMONG LAST HOME

Lieutenant Harry Smith, formerly of Gladstone, who left with the Eighteenth Engineers for France, the first contingent of Americans to arrive in France after the United States became involved in the world war, was in Oregon City Tuesday. He has just returned from France, leaving that country on August 7 and arriving in the United States on August 16.

After visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, at The Dalles, for a few days, he came to this city and was given a most cordial welcome by his many friends and former comrades who have preceded him home. Harry is in the best of health and is looking fine.

Lieutenant Smith has been in all the large cities of France and England, but says there are none of the European cities that compare with the American cities in his estimation. Even the women of Europe do not compare with those of America, he says, although they all did what they could for the American soldiers to make them comfortable.

Lieutenant Smith became very familiar with the French language, as he had charge of the civilians employed in engineering work before leaving for the United States. He came to the United States on the New Amsterdam, a Holland-American liner, the trip being made by 350 casual officers and 2300 civilian passengers, and he says that after arriving in New York he felt somewhat lost for the lack of hearing the French language all about him as he was accustomed to. He declares that he soon became accustomed to the sound of good old "United States" and it sounded mighty good to him.

WAGER MADE BY LOCAL ENLISTED MAN LIABLE TO SEE FULFILLMENT

John (Jack) Eger, an employee of Uncle Sam at the local postoffice, who was among the Oregon City young men going to France, said when leaving here that he would be the last fellow to leave France and that it would be his lot to pull up the old flag pole and fill the hole in with French soil. He is commencing to believe that this will be his future, for he is still in France, with no sign of his returning at his latest writing. John is one of the young men represented on the service flag of the postoffice.

Another young man employed at the postoffice and still in the service is Luther McAnulty. Luther is still at Kelly Field, Texas.

WALTER DUNGEY IN LETTER TO MOTHER TELLS OF ARRIVAL

Mrs. Dungey received a telegram Monday from her son, Walter, saying he had arrived at Camp Upton, N. Y., from overseas, but was ill and would remain there for a while.

Walter Dungey was one of the first Oregon City boys to leave for the service. He enlisted on June 15, 1917, and left Camp Lewis with the Eighteenth Engineers August, 1917. He was transferred to other companies, and has been in France since leaving the United States. He says he is mighty glad to be back on American soil. Walter Dungey is one of the well known boys of this city.

Another popular Oregon City young man who will soon sail for the United States from France is Walter (Scoop) Young. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Young, of this city, received a letter today telling of his arrival at Brest from Germany. He is with the Army of Occupation, and is anxious to reach his home in the United States.

MODERN RANCH USES AUTO HORN TO CALL HOGS AT MEALTIMES

Miss Edna Terrill, who has been visiting at the home of her uncle, Dr. H. G. Terrill, at Kalspel, Mont., returned to her home in this city on Sunday evening. Miss Terrill saw a great many interesting and amusing sights while visiting on the large ranch operated by her uncle, and among the most startling to her was the adaptability of a popular type of automobile. She declares that the hogs on the ranch were trained to answer the call of the auto horn at mealtimes and that they would remain undisturbed when any other but the right horn was sounded. She also saw automobiles used for the purpose of herding cattle and says that her uncle declared many times that he could not run his ranch without the help of the faithful "tin cans."

Miss Terrill experienced a great deal of hot weather on her trip and declares that although she had a most delightful trip and visit she is glad to be back home again.

Postal Truck Meeting Farmer's Ox Team More Than Half Way

Another wallop for old High Cost of Living! Uncle Sam's new postal truck service is proving a boon to the farmer. Under this arrangement the producer gets more and we pay less. This photograph shows a farmer who drives his ox cart one mile daily to make connections with the postal truck. Formerly he lumbered along nine miles once a week to the nearest railway station.

I Brought It With Me

Mr. Wilson is going a long way in his intimation that every man who is opposed to his League of Nations propaganda is a pro-German. The Enterprise has said repeatedly that the League of Nations is an experiment, and, as such, it is worthy of a trial, but we have never held that the League of Nations covenant nor the peace treaty could not be strengthened.

There is an honest effort being made at Washington to Americanize the peace treaty, of which the League of Nations is part and parcel. Eleven Democrats and nearly all of the Republican senators are willing to accept the treaty with some reservations. Among these is Senator Chamberlain of Oregon. Why should these members of the United States senate, elected by the people, be forbidden to express their opinions that certain alterations and amendments should be written into the treaty to make it more of an American document?

But Mr. Wilson, at Sioux Falls, South Dakota, on Monday of this week, sought to convey to his audience that "pro-Germanism" is responsible for the agitation against the peace treaty, as drafted. "I want to tell you," said the president, "that within the last two weeks the pro-German element in the United States again has lifted its head. Now I have brought back from Europe with me a treaty in which Germany is disarmed and in which all of the other nations of the world agree never to go to war."

All right. While we are disarming Germany, let us disarm Russia and Italy and above all, let us disarm Japan, the nation that has become a constantly growing menace to this country.

As a peddler of glittering generalities, Mr. Wilson is a wonder, but he skillfully evades those particular sections of the dispute which are incapable of defense from the true American viewpoint.

ALBANY YOUTH BAGS BIG 5-POINT BUCK ON FIRST DAY OF SEASON

ALBANY, Sept. 5.—The largest buck ever killed in the Alsea is the way hunters describe the five-pointer young Bryan Tom of this city carried out Monday afternoon. The buck weighed 165 pounds, dressed, and Tom had to carry him five miles out of the mountains to open country near the mouth of Mill creek.

Tom, who is considered the best hunter in Linn county and who has probably killed more deer than any other man in Albany, shot the big buck the first day of the season on the other side of the Alsea mountain, near the foot of Grass mountain.

Clark Price and Glen Jenkin were hunting with Tom, and each killed a buck the first day. All three hunters say the deer are thick in the country where they hunted and that only hunters are thick in the country this side of the mountains.

PROHIBITION HEADS AT CAPITOL WILL TRY RUSH ACT WITH BILL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—House and senate prohibition leaders planned today to have the enforcement bill ready for the president's signature by the time he returns from his "swing round the circle." They will endeavor to have the measure rushed through conference with the least possible delay as a means of thwarting any attempt of the "wets" to gather their forces for a campaign looking to a veto of the bill.

The measure, which covers both war time and constitutional prohibition, has passed both the house and the senate, the upper body having modified several of the more drastic provisions of the bill as passed by the house.

ONLY ONE SOLDIER PAID DEATH PENALTY ON DESERTION CHARGE

PARIS, Sept. 9.—Nine soldiers of the American expeditionary force were hanged and one was shot for criminal offenses during the war, it was revealed today at the investigation of A. E. P. courts-martial by the congressional committee inquiring into war expenditures.

Two of the hangings were for murder, the investigation brought out. Seven men were hanged for rape, of whom six were negroes. There was a single execution for desertion.

Murder trials totaled 110, resulting in 62 convictions. One fifth of all the general courts martial were officers and the rest enlisted men and welfare workers. Most of the officers were charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Convictions resulted in 67 per cent of officers cases which went to trial. Seventy-seven per cent of the men tried by general courts martial were found guilty.

Only one conscientious objector was tried.

The investigation failed to establish that officers had received more lenient treatment than enlisted men in the A. E. P. courts martial.

ATTEMPT TO STEAL AUTO FROM RENNER GARAGE MADE BY UNKNOWN MAN

At 10 o'clock on Tuesday evening a man entered the garage of J. D. Renner at Eighth and John Adams streets, and made an attempt to steal the Renner automobile, but was unsuccessful.

Mr. Renner called to the man, and he walked from the garage, and at the second call the man took to his heels and ran towards Jefferson street.

The door of the garage was left open by the intruder, and it is believed had it not been for the automobile being locked the fellow would have stolen the same. He was described as being well built and above medium height.

SALEM FATHER ASKS $11,100 DAMAGES IN SUIT FOR SON'S DEATH

SALEM, Sept. 9.—Demanding damages because of the death of his son, Theodore R. Howard, in an accident at State and Waverly streets last June, Silas E. Howard of Salem has instituted suit against the Marion hotel company and the Southern Pacific railroad. The boy, who was 15 years old, was employed as a messenger for the postoffice. His motorcycle collided with the hotel bus and he was hurled beneath a passing street car. One complaint asks $3600 and the other $7500. The plaintiff alleges that the hotel bus was being operated negligently by an inexperienced and unlicensed driver, that the street car was not equipped with automatic fenders and brakes according to law and that the motorman was conversing with a passenger when the accident happened. He further alleges that his son was entitled to right of way.

Representations have been made to the Mexican government and instructions issued for an immediate and careful inquiry into the facts of McGill's death.
