PERSONNEL OF CITY SCHOOLS COMPLETE; AWAIT OPENING DAY

The personnel of teachers for the Oregon City schools for the coming year has been completed and it is not probable that there will be any change, as noted when the city schools open their doors on Monday, September 22, for the beginning of the school year.

In the high school the teachers of last year will with few exceptions again be in charge. Mr. Arant will continue as principal, this being his fourth year. He has proved himself to be a thoroughly capable and dependable high school principal. Others of last year's corps of high school teachers who have been enrolled are: Miss Todd, Miss Tatro, Miss Wagner, Mr. King, Mrs. Mack, Miss McQuaid, Mrs. Woodard and Miss Zimmerman.

Miss Gross, who will teach French and Latin, was a student for a time at Reed College and later graduated from the University of Oregon, where she made an excellent record as a student. Last year she was very successful as a teacher in the Castle Rock Washington high school. Miss Haley graduated last year from the University of Maine with an excellent record and has lately come to Oregon City, her family making their home at the present time in West Linn. Miss Olson lives in Portland and graduated from Reed College in 1918. She has had some experience as a rural teacher and was a successful teacher in the St. Helens high school. Miss Leathers, who will give half time as assistant in Manual Training, will give the other half of her day to similar work in the West Linn high school. Miss Leathers is an enthusiastic believer in the value of Manual Training in the schools. She comes from Burton, Washington. Last year she was instructor in Hoquiam, Washington, in her chosen field. Miss Moran is a graduate of O. A. C. and has been a teacher for some time in the high school at Union, Oregon. Miss Parr, of Woodburn, is also a graduate of O. A. C., and has been teaching for three years in the Dallas high school, where she had charge of the Home Economics department, including the cafeteria. Miss Tiffany, of Eugene, is a graduate of the University of Oregon in the class of 1914. She will have charge of Physical Education for girls, a position made necessary through the new law requiring physical education as a part of the high school course. Miss Tiffany has had much experience as a Y. W. C. A. physical director both in Yakima, Washington, and in Portland. She is a sister of A. R. Tiffany, who was for several years registrar of the University of Oregon.

In the grade school assignments, seven of the eleven teachers in the Eastham school and six of the ten teachers in the Barclay school, will return to positions which they have filled satisfactorily in former years. Several of these teachers have seemingly become fixtures in the school and they ought soon to be entitled to a pension.

In the Eastham school the new teachers are: Miss Kerr, Miss Woods, Miss Fletcher and Miss Carpenter. Miss Kerr and Miss Woods are graduates of the Oregon State Normal School at Monmouth, and both taught last year at Marshfield, Oregon. Miss Fletcher taught last year at White Salmon, Washington, and previous to that in the State of Nebraska. Miss Carpenter has been a teacher in St. Joseph, Missouri, schools in primary work for four years. She has lately moved to Oregon and will make her home in Gladstone.

In the Barclay school the four new teachers are Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Wilson, and Miss Warner. Mrs. Wilson, well known in Oregon City, is a graduate of the Oregon City high school and has a record of successful teaching in some difficult schools in Clackamas county. Mrs. Jackson, who is the daughter of Charles Thompson, of Sherwood, has taught in Clackamas county and was for three years a teacher in the Roseburg schools. She has moved to Oregon City with her two daughters. Miss Warner, whose home is at Linton, is a graduate of Oregon State Normal school, and taught last year in Clackamas county, also graduated from the Oregon State Normal school. Last year she was elected to a position in Salem, but was compelled to give up her place on account of illness resulting from the flu.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING IN DISTRICT NO. 10 READY FOR OPENING

A new school house erected at a cost of $4000 has just been completed for School District No. 10, known as the Ingram school and located about six miles east of Molalla. The former schoolhouse was in a poor location, and Judge Grant B. Dimick, of this city, who has always taken an active interest in the welfare of the school children of Clackamas county, and who owns a farm in the road district, made an offer to the school board that if a desirable school building was erected he would donate two acres of land upon which to erect the building. This offer was immediately acted upon by the board, and the work of construction was commenced early in the summer, and the building is now ready for the furnishings. The school building stands upon a concrete base, is well ventilated and with the lighting system according to that required for standardized schools is now ready for the pupils and the teacher, Miss Norma Muender.

The school board, composed of H. O. Newell, George Boyer, G. W. Pendleton and Christ Johnson, passed through Oregon City Saturday on their way to Portland where they are to select the desks and other furnishings for the building.

COUNTY SUPERVISOR FINDS SCHOOLS OF COUNTY IN GOOD SHAPE

Brenton Vedder, County Supervisor of Schools, has just returned from a two-weeks' trip throughout the county on an inspection trip of the county schools of the county, and reports that he has found all of the schools in the county in excellent shape with the exception of the fact that considerable difficulty has been experienced in securing text books for the coming year. Confidence has been expressed, however, that all books will be secured by late in arriving.

Mr. Vedder's trip was also in the nature of lining up the work of the school clubs of the county for the coming year's work, and arranging for school displays at the coming county and state fairs.

QUEEN BEE TRAVELS IN STATE; SWARMS ON MOVING AUTOMOBILE

Thomas Myers and his brother, William Myers, former residents of Oregon City and sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. Myers, who are now engaged in the drug business on Grand avenue, East Portland, had a unique experience a few days ago in front of their drug store. A patron had just left his automobile in front of the drug store and entered the front of business to make some purchases, when he was somewhat surprised to find that a swarm of bees had alighted on the top of his automobile.

One of the nearby residents having an eye for business and understanding the game of living the bees, rushed for a hive, and soon had them quarantined, and the little winged creatures were corralled within a short time after arriving in the city. No one seemed to know from which direction they came, but the man who lived there knew in which direction they were headed—for his home, and is now enjoying visions of honey on his flapjacks the coming winter.

INVESTIGATION OF EDITOR'S TRIAL FAILS TO SHOW PERSECUTION

SALEM, Sept. 11.—An investigation of the circumstances surrounding the indictment and imprisonment of Ham Kautzman, Houlton, Ore., newspaper man, on charges of criminal libel, fails to reveal any evidence of railroad or persecution, according to Millar E. McGilchrist, assistant to the attorney general, who has submitted his report of the investigation to Governor O'cott for his consideration.

Kautzman is in the Multnomah county jail serving a sentence imposed by Judge Eakin on his conviction on a charge of printing an obscene article in his newspaper, the Columbia Herald. At the recent meeting of the Oregon Editorial association a resolution was passed in which it was intimated that Kautzman was being made the victim of persecution and calling upon the government for an investigation into the facts.

McGilchrist, in his report to the governor, goes into details relative to the history of Kautzman's publication and of his attacks on District Attorney Metzger, as well as other citizens of St. Helens and Columbia county, which eventually brought about his sentence and imprisonment.

TEN-DAY HUNTING TRIP TO SOUTHERN OREGON RESULTS IN TROPHIES

A hunting party composed of John F. Clark and Richard Bittner, of this city; Stewart Stayner, of Portland; Fred Toner and Louis Muscott, of Dallas, Oregon, returned to Oregon City Friday morning from a ten days' hunting trip spent in Southern Oregon. The party succeeded in getting five deer, the first being shot by John Clark. This was a large buck, but did not last the party long for the men had taken their appetites with them and this was increased after climbing through brush, over mountains and rocks and fallen trees. Some of the deer meat was smoked and a sample brought back is being enjoyed by those lucky enough to get a portion.

The rain came down in torrents for six days while the party was in the mountains, and the men were drenched to the skin, but little was thought of the wet clothing, and the men remained in the mountains until each had secured a deer.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN AND FORMER RESIDENT OREGON CITY VISITOR

Captain Edward P. Warner, of the State Soldiers' Home at Roseburg, and an uncle of Mrs. Thomas A. Berg of Bolton, has arrived here and is visiting at the Berg home for a few days. Captain Warner, who is a veteran of the Civil war, has the distinction of being boatswain of the old Tuscarora, the steamboat that took Jeff Davis to Fort Royal. He remembers well the early history of the United States during the Civil war, and tells many interesting as well as harrowing experiences he had in those days. Captain Warner was a member of the 118th Pennsylvania Volunteers when entering the service.

Captain Warner speaks highly of Captain J. P. Shaw, who is superintendent of the State Soldiers' home, and a former resident of Oregon City. He says all the old veterans speak in the highest terms of Mr. Shaw and his wife.

Captain Warren is enjoying his visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Berg, this being his first visit for several years, and a number of motoring trips are in store for the old veteran before he returns to Southern Oregon.

WAR NURSE RETURNS FROM LONG PERIOD OF SERVICE OVER-SEAS

Miss Maude Anderson, a professional nurse of much experience who was among the first to respond to her country's call for nurses during the war and who was stationed at Camp Lewis for ten months before being sent to France arrived in Oregon City Friday evening. She is visiting her sister Mrs. Kate Shannon. Miss Anderson has had many unusual experiences as a nurse in France. Miss Anderson left here in September 1918 and arrived from over-seas at San Francisco September 6, after an enjoyable voyage.

LIEUT. CECIL KOFFMAN ADVISES FRIENDS HE IS LEAVING FRANCE

Lieutenant Cecil Koffman, formerly connected with the Enterprise, who resigned his position to enter the service when the United States became involved in the world war, is now on his way home to the United States according to word received by friends of the young man in this city Saturday. He is on his way to his home at Humboldt, Tennessee. The letter was written at Paris and he expected to sail within a few days from August 21.

Oregon City's Banks

Confidence in the banking institutions of Oregon City is clearly indicated by a recent report from the office of the state treasurer, which includes a compilation of the deposits of state funds in the banks of Oregon. With the exception of Portland, Pendleton and Salem, this city leads all others in the total of deposits of state funds, Oregon City having a total of $104,000 in its three banks, as against $48,000 for Albany, $32,000 for Ashland, $27,000 for Astoria, $21,000 for Bend, $37,000 for Corvallis, $62,000 for Eugene, $45,000 for McMinnville, $32,000 for Marshfield, $23,000 for Roseburg and $30,000 for Forest Grove.

Banks in every county in the state have deposits except Lake county, and the Oregon Voter points out that Lake county led the state repeatedly in Liberty Loan subscriptions.

The largest deposit in any single bank is $337,500 in one of the Portland banks, and the total amount on deposit in the state is $2,835,477, including $5,157 in the fiscal agency at New York.

HUNTING PARTY IN SOUTHERN OREGON IS SUCCESSFUL IN QUEST

A hunting party composed of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Elliott and son, Raymond, and Mr. and Mrs. William Estes have returned to Oregon City, after spending several weeks in the hills hunting for big game, and in which they were successful.

Leaving Oregon City several weeks ago the party went to Newport, making the trip by automobile. After getting all the rock oysters and other sea fish they desired, Ernest longed for some deer meat. This has been the failing of Ernest's, and of course the remainder of the party humored the chap, and the party, packed up their belongings and headed for the hills of Oregon. Ernest needed a guide to the deer and bear patch, and he knew where plenty of these grew. The party reached their destination in the mountainous region about 17 miles beyond Drain, much of the trip being made on foot to the ranch of Mr. Traylor, a friend of the Taylor family. Here they were told there was plenty of game. Elliott smiled and said "I told you so." The evening meal never tasted so good, for there was venison on the menu and honey too, and during the evening Mr. Traylor told of the many deer that abound in the region and that he would make up a party to accompany Estes and Elliott and his son. There was no sleeping for Ernest that night, for he was thinking of the venison that was in store for him and close at hand. Ernest was the first out of bed, and ready with his gun hours before the other fellows had opened their eyes. He was the first to get a deer, and secured the largest in the party. This weighed over 140 pounds, and this was canned by Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Estes, and the 34 quarts of canned deer meat are now safely placed away in the Estes and Elliott cupboards, to appear on the menu for the big Christmas dinners to be held at these homes.

Ernest Elliott has taken his yearly jaunt into the mountainous regions every year he has had the opportunity, and is considered one of the crack shots of the county. Had war not ended when it did he had intended going over-seas this fall and getting into the "hunting" game there instead of going to the rocky hills of Southern Oregon after deer.

The destination of the party was Tillamook, Oregon, and the roads were found in good condition, except in places where improvements were under way. Mr. Koellmeier brought home two deer he killed. One was a four-point buck and the other a forked-horn.

6-YEAR-OLD BOY HIT BY AUTO AND SUFFERS INTERNAL INJURIES

The 6-year-old son of Louis White of Oswego was struck and seriously injured by a Ford automobile driven by J. F. Denther, of 402 Washington street, Portland, at about four o'clock Friday afternoon while attempting to cross the street near his home. According to witnesses the accident was absolutely unavoidable, the little fellow becoming confused and running directly in front of the machine in a manner that made it impossible to avoid striking him.

The automobile was travelling at a speed of less than ten miles an hour and was stopped by Mr. Denther in less than its own length.

The injured lad was rushed to the Oregon City hospital where it was reported that he was found to be suffering from serious internal injuries. At last reports he is given an equal chance of recovery.

TWO ACTIONS FILED FOR JUDGMENTS TO RECOVER MONEY DUE

Two actions for judgment were filed with County Clerk Fred A. Miller Friday. One action was filed by Frederick Viereck against Angelo Tigli for the recovery of $177.67 due for rent on a farm rented by the defendant in Section 21, located on the John D. Garrett donation land claim. The second action was filed by Mary Scheer against George Scheer for $103.27 for 66 pounds of clover seed which the plaintiff claims as illegally removed from the property of the defendant and remained unpaid for.

Democratic Mother and Republican Daughter Who Forget Politics at Home

Mrs. Mary A. Wehrum
Mrs. Louis W. Quick

Woman suffrage has done a lot of things. Among them is to align the Wehrum family of Brooklyn on opposite sides of the political fence. Mrs. Mary A. Wehrum was elected a member of the Democratic County Committee at the recent primary elections. Her daughter, Mrs. Louis W. Quick, was elected to a similar office on the Republican ticket. Both state that while they differ politically they get along perfectly well when Mrs. Quick visits Mamma.

SUGAR SUPPLY NEARS EXHAUSTION; FURTHER STOCKS IMPROBABLE

According to an interview given Monday afternoon this city imminently faces a sugar famine as the result of the inability of dealers to secure shipments from wholesalers in Portland. Reports from several of the mercantile establishments in the city indicate the complete exhaustion of sugar stocks within a very short time, with no prospects of securing additional supplies until the first of next year. It is reported that there is only one wholesale firm in Portland, that of Lang & Co., who have any sugar on hand, and that company has less than ten sacks left.

Coming as it does at the height of the canning season, there is a great possibility of loss of fall fruits which would otherwise be canned, unless the housewives make use of commercial syrups, of which there appears to be a considerable supply available.

Thirty Years Ago Today

Taken From Oregon City Enterprise August 5, 1889.

John Meldrum and family have returned from their outing at Mount Hood.

Mr. Kuerton and family have moved into the home opposite the Catholic church.

Twelve carpenters are busy on the new armory.

J. L. Swafford and wife went to Portland Saturday to attend the Sunday meeting of conference.

After fifty years service in the woolen mills A. D. Putrow has concluded to take a rest. In fact, his poor health made the step a necessity. He has been boss carder since 1872, and says he will now take life easy.

Messrs. May and Cook have taken possession of the new store completed by John Schram adjoining the Masonic building.

The lumber for the sulphite mill began arriving by the steamer Modoc, on Monday. It is furnished by a large milling company at Astoria, and is re-shipped at Portland.

Our streets are lively for a good many hours each day, when the roads are not slippery, with farmers teams all loaded with wheat, a good part of which is being stored for better prices, as the opinion is that wheat will be higher. The crop was generally good in Clackamas county and with a fair price the farmers would be pretty well fixed.

Last week several of our prominent business men met and discussed the need of having a commodious and strictly first class hotel in this city. After considering at length various plans including a three story brick near the center of the town the conclusion was reached that the present demands would be best subserved by the erection of a monster hotel of the Del Monte style to be built of wood on the bluff overlooking the city. The plan which is most likely to be adopted is to organize a stock company with a capital of 50 or 75 thousand dollars to be held in small shares so that all may help in the good work. We greatly need a hotel with a man to run it.

Sunday evening the barn of Mrs. Theodore Himler at Parkville was discovered burning. The flames soon communicated to the fine shed and fruit cellar built by Mrs. Himler's father, Mr. Nachand. Both buildings were soon a mass of ashes. The fruit cellar was the finest in the county and the work shop was well constructed. In the barn were 24 tons of hay, a good horse and cow, besides much fruit that was stored away for the winter's use. Everything including the animals were burned. The loss was about $800. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin.

OREGON CITY YOUNG MAN HAS SUCCESS AS SHORT STORY WRITER

Elmer Terrill, a well known young newspaper man of this city, formerly connected with the Morning Enterprise, has received word from an Eastern publishing firm of the acceptance of a short story of his authorship. The story deals with sea life, and will probably appear in the December number of the publication.
