You Will Never Get a Chance to see This Picture in Oregon City Again

Saturday Shopping Hints for Home Shoppers

Bright sunshine and glorious weather are forecasted by the advertisements this week of Oregon City's leading stores, and those who "buy it at home" will find a tempting array of bargains offered by county seat merchants.

New Brownie cameras, at a dollar and a quarter, are being offered by Burmeister & Andersen. These are just the thing for spring trips, and will take at minimum cost pictures of your friends and the scenes that you will visit. Larger cameras in the Brownie line are also to be had, some equipped with autographic backs, so that you can easily identify the films.

At Bannan's a tempting array of spring and early summer fashions are offered. Special offerings of Phoenix hosiery, popular white shoes for women and girls, some real bargains in suits, and a bewildering line of lingerie blouses make up the list.

Suits and coats of latest styles at prices within the reach of all are also being offered at Adams' department store, and the showing is well worth a visit from discerning buyers.

Oregon City stores not only handle an attractive line of goods at prices that will compare favorably with stores anywhere else, but customers of the home stores may order through their local merchants any goods or material that they desire, and be sure of prompt and efficient service. Trading at home makes Oregon City more prosperous, makes it a better town to live in, and keeps the dollars rolling round where the home folks get the benefit.

Obituaries

Thomas Williams

Thomas W. Williams died last week at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. B. Edwards, at Mt. Pleasant. He was 80 years of age, and had been in poor health for some time. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon, and interment followed in Mountain View cemetery.

Mrs. Phoebe Hughes

At the age of 55 years, Mrs. Phoebe Hughes died Monday at her home in Greenpoint, following a prolonged illness. Funeral services will be held Thursday at the Baptist church, and interment will follow in Mountain View cemetery. Mrs. Hughes was well known in the county seat, and is survived by four children: Edward, Clark, Olive and Irene.

Mrs. Cecelia Riggs

Mrs. Cecelia Riggs, of Clackamas Heights, passed away suddenly the latter part of last week at her home. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon from St. John's church. Mrs. Riggs was a native of Germany, having been born in 1877, and came to the United States with her parents when she was but a young girl. She has been a resident of Clackamas Heights for many years, and is survived by her husband, Albert Riggs, and by six children.

Mrs. S. A. Hiney

Mrs. Sarah Ann Hiney, of Stafford, died Saturday morning at the home of her son, Charles Tiedeman. Mrs. Hiney has been ill for several months. She was born in Springfield, Ohio, 84 years ago, and spent the greater part of her life in the middle west, coming to Oregon 11 years ago. Her body will be sent to Middleton, Wis., for interment. Her five surviving sons are James Tiedeman, of Oswego; Charles Tiedeman, of Stafford; George Tiedeman, of Mountain Road; John Tiedeman, of Sherwood; and Frank Tiedeman, of Colorado. Fifteen grandchildren also survive her.

Mrs. E. Summers

Mrs. Elizabeth Summers, 80 years of age, and a resident of Oregon City for 53 years, during which time she has lived continuously in her late home, died Sunday morning at Seventh and Washington streets. Funeral services were held over her remains at St. John's Catholic church Tuesday, and interment was in Mountain View cemetery. Mrs. Summers was born in Baltimore, and crossed the plains with her husband in the early 50's. Thomas Mooney, her father, attained the age of 107, dying in 1893. Mrs. Summers is survived by the following children: Mrs. A. Leary, of Portland; James Summers, of Eastern Oregon; Mrs. Charles Crossman, of Tacoma; Mrs. K. McNamara and Peter Summers, of Oregon.

SOME TAX FIGURES

Liquor, Tobacco and Oleomargarine Pay Vast Sums Yearly to Nation

The total annual Federal and State liquor revenues amount to about $325,000,000, according to the 1916 number of the Anti-Prohibition Manual, issued by the Publicity Department of the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers Association of America. The publication's statistics are compiled from official State and Government figures for the year ending June 30, 1914, in the case of Federal income, and for the year 1913 where State revenue is concerned.

For the periods above mentioned, the grand total liquor revenue was $325,398,372.51. The Federal income, internal revenue, amounted to $225,179,689.76; Federal incomes from duties, $19,671,315.05; and incomes from States from licenses, $79,547,868.90. The $19,671,315.05 received in duties was made up of $1,915,609.11 for malt liquors, $10,780,058.27 for distilled spirits, $6,509,450.13 for wines, and $466,197.54 for other beverages. The States' income includes that of counties and incorporated places. The total internal revenue for the year ending June 30, 1914, was $389,008,893.96. The liquor industry tops the list with $226,179,689.76. The tobacco industry paid $79,986,639.68; oleomargarine, $1,325,219.13; mixed laneous, $1,136,070.66; corporation excise tax, $10,671,077.22; corporation income tax, $32,456,662.67, and individual income tax, $28,253,534.85.

THE FASHIONS

For those of us who have, as it were, stacks and stacks of passe frocks to be remodeled, this should prove a banner season. Fashion has been very lenient with our little economies for several seasons past, but this Spring, whether it is the war, with its consequent deprivations to many, which has turned her in this direction, or just because she fancies evolving the odd little conceptions and combinations one sees on every side, certain it is that economy just now is being made very easy and very fascinating.

Girdles, Bretelles and Jumpers

Let us suppose, for instance, that one has a dark blue serge dress of last season. It may not be worn to any great extent, but nevertheless it needs something to make it look more up-to-date. We may add a deep skirt yoke and a high girdle, with perhaps a bretelle over each shoulder, of black satin or moire. Cuffs and collar, too, add greatly to the effect. When cleverly done, the frock has none of the made-over appearance it would have had some seasons back, but is a delightfully chic little costume in the new deep waist effect, for shopping and the general daytime wear. Coatee-peplums, quillings, bands, and insets of contrasting material may work wonders, too, with slightly worn frocks, suits and blouses. Should a hem be slightly frayed or worn, whether it be the lower edge of blouse or skirt, middle with a narrow black velvet ribbon may be added, the ribbon being drawn as tightly as desired and tied in a perky little bow. Deep cuffs of satin or taffeta with a matching collar may be attached to a blouse which has an unbecoming or old-fashioned sleeve, or an ugly neck finish. When the deep cuffs are used the sleeve, if sufficiently full, may be gathered into the cuff, thereby lending another modish touch, for much fullness is noticed in the new sleeves. Sleeves Offer Interesting Possibilities. Long, short, and three-quarter-length sleeves will be worn this Spring and Summer. There is still a strong tendency to the transparent effects of the Fall and Winter. That this should be so for Summer is quite logical. Net is nearly as popular for sleeves and bodices as chiffon and Georgette, and it wears equally well. Many a pretty taffeta or satin frock is being made with net sleeves and upper bodice, and many a last season's taffeta or satin dress is being remodeled in this way.

Color Combinations

Blue serge naturally takes to black, blue faulle combines effectively with black, many shades of gray, the greenish, coppery tones, orange, terra-cotta and similar shades. These dark combinations of course are correct for the street; for the indoor dress or afternoon gown, one may allow the color fancy a little free rein. There are some wonderfully vivid touches of color brought in now and then in a sombre frock, quite transforming it. As a general rule, however, pale tones will predominate this season. This is owing to the present condition of the dye market; naturally pastel colored fabrics require much less dye than deep shades. It is most timely that this should happen in the Summer season when we are all of us inclined toward white, pale pinks, blues, mauves, and lavenders which are so particularly fascinating this season. By Fall, if the war is not at an end, perhaps we shall all take to white, but we will not anticipate anything so extravagant unless we may take the present vogue of white shoes and spats as forerunners.

A Word About Shoes

While speaking of shoes, it might be well to say a word or two about the new pumps for the dainty, airy frocks of the girl of Spring and Summer, 1916. She will wear the old-time Colonial pump again with its accompanying buckles. And these buckles will be real buckles, not mere pretenses, some of them measure as much as two and one-half inches across. They range from the conservative leather covered buckle to the glittering novelty in rhinestones or colored semi-precious jewels.

The high white shoes with white stitching, heel and sole will be a general favorite for the simple afternoon dress or the white flannel or serge suit. A pair of sport shoes should be found in every wardrobe, and for those who enjoy skating, a pair of skating shoes may also be included in the Spring outfit, for it is promised that the indoor rinks will remain open well into the warm weather.

ULTIMATUM IS SENT

Gladstone Council Insurgents Say They Want "Business" Methods

As an aftermath of Gladstone's unsuccessful attempts to hold a council meeting so that the tangle over the water supply could be cleared up, the three members of the council who have formed the "insurgents" have sent to the other three councilmen and the mayor the following letter:

"Gentlemen: I want to inform you that as chairman of the finance committee that we will never meet with you again in council, till each of you agree to do business as men should, for the people as economical as you, do your own business, and let Johnston alone and all of the officers and give them a chance and if they don't make good then there is time to fire them."

"Mr. Johnston has made good so far and the report will show same. And we will stand by to the end, as long as we are in the council, and he shall collect all water rent and turn it over to the treasurer."

"Respect yours, C. W. PARRISH, H. S. CLYDE, F. E. GOODMAN."

Mr. Johnston referred to in this somewhat remarkable communication is the recently appointed superintendent of the water system. His inability at times to make the pumping plan give service, and his action in shutting off water from patrons who did not pay their water rent, brought on the war in Gladstone's council. The council finally appointed a water rent collector and ordered Johnston to confine his efforts to the mechanical end of the plant; but since taking that action the body has been unable to transact any further business, owing to the lack of a quorum. The charter provides that four of the six councilmen must be present to make a quorum, and with three "holding out" this is impossible.

DIVORCE MILL SLOWS

Number of Separations Grows Less, According to Records

Whatever ambitions Oregon City may have entertained in the past towards being "the Oregon Reno" seem to be blasted by the circuit court record for the first three months of the present year. Out of 141 suits instituted, but 51 were for divorce—a number considerably less than former records. During the time that the 51 applications for divorce were made, the county clerk's office issued 38 marriage licenses to offset the pending suits.

Those who have made a study of conditions draw from these figures the cheering news that people are "staying married" more than they did, and that they are thinking more carefully before they do marry. It is even said by some that prohibition has helped the record; as many of the divorces sought in former years gave drunkenness on the part of the husband as one of the grounds. The fact that the saloons have gone, and that men now have a better opportunity to get acquainted with their families; that wives are left less alone, and that entertainment is sought by the entire family together, are also believed to have lessened the divorces.

County Clerk Iva Harrington doesn't take quite such a pleasant view of the situation, however. She is quoted as saying that the falling off in divorces is due solely to "hard times," and that people can't afford the court costs of separation suits.

SLIDES BLOCK CANYON

Road from Cazadero to Pipe Line Intake Blocked in Many Places

City Engineer Miller and Water Superintendent McCausland went up to the intake of the South Fork pipe line Sunday, caught ten fish, and viewed the havoc of the March storms. Traveling in the water commission Ford as far as Estacada, they hiked the remaining twelve miles of the trip each way. The trail leading up to the headworks of the pipe line they found blocked in many places by big slides, which will require considerable work to clear.

On the extension line of the Portland railway, which runs some two and a half miles beyond Cazadero, there is a half-mile slide that tore out the tracks and which, according to Mr. Miller, "will take 150 Irishmen ten days to clear away." The little car that operates over this line, and which is familiarly known as the "goat," is above this slide; and if the railway company wants it, they will have to clear away the earth and relay the tracks.

LIGHT READY AGAIN

Electric Beam Will Be Used to Discourage Illegal Net Fishing

The state fish and game commission has once again got its 1000-candle power searchlight in position below the falls, and will use it from this week on in discouraging net fishing in the upper river until the gill-net season opens on the first of May. The light is situated in a redoubt of pine, constructed on a ridge of rock that juts into the current; and would have been in use before this had not the high water been swirling about the bottom of the spy-spot in such a way as to wet the tootsies of any deputies who might have tried to use it.

With the lower river, and with fair weather expected, the deputies and fish wardens will resume guard over the fishing grounds, and expect to give ample protection to the salmon. Incidentally none of the net fishermen have their gear ready to use; but that is no reason why the deputies shouldn't keep watch.

STOCK MARKET STEADY

Portland Offerings Not Heavy Enough to Cause Any Slump in Prices

Conditions at the Portland union stock yards last week and early this week were not particularly notable. The cattle market remained steady. Three loads of grain fed and four loads of pulp fed steers went at the high price of $9.00. One load of pulp fed cows sold at $7.65 while a split load went at $7.80, the highest price paid for cows this season. The run was good almost 1000 being counted in, and buying was active.

A very light run of 2900 hogs came to market Monday. Buyers were inclined to rest and the market was inactive in the forenoon. Hog prices were lowered to the 9.20 mark. A five cent drop under last week's close. Bulk went to $9.00 to $9.15. No receipts in the sheep section, market very strong. Anything of quality would command a premium. Spring lambs are quoted at $13.00. Prime lambs at $10.50; ewes at $8.25; wethers at $9.25 and yearlings $10.00.

training, psychology and romance languages at the state university have been authorized by the state board of higher curricula, which met at Salem this week. Members of the board include J. E. Hedges, of Oregon City, Dr. C. J. Smith, of Portland and A. G. Beals of Tillamook.

These new courses or departments at the university have been established to prevent duplication of work done at the agricultural college, and to more completely harmonize the university work. Similar courses at the agricultural college have been abolished.

She Grows Nervous at Nightfall

More dreaded than an alarm of fire by night is the hoarse, brassy cough of croup to the nervous mother who fears this terror of childhood. Why worry, when a few timely doses of Foley's Honey and Tar will ward off croup and clear the throat of choking phlegm. It will give you confidence to face nightfall without fear of croup. Mrs. Ben Meyerink, Clymer, N. Y., says: "Our little girl would surely have had croup but for Foley's Honey and Tar stopped it at once."—Jones' Drug Co.

HERE'S A PUZZLE

Try It Yourself, and See What You Can Make Out of the Tangle

Failing to pass the Binet mental test for ten year olds, a rejected recruit from Pittston, Pa., gave Sergeant Frank Stubbe, of the United States Marine Corps, a puzzle that he, himself, could do, but which has since caused the Marine sergeant several sleepless nights spent in a vain endeavor to unravel the problem.

Here's the puzzle. There are three houses in a row, with a gas plant, an electric light plant, and a water plant in the rear of them, and the grand central idea is to run a line underground from each plant to each house without crossing lines or going through a house.

The mentally deficient recruit says it can be done and does it on paper, but after three days of unavailing effort the sergeant of Marines isn't quite sure that the youth from Pittston is not trying to "tell it to the Marines."
