Church Notes

Methodist Episcopal Church

The revival meetings at the Methodist Episcopal church, in progress for more than thirteen weeks, closed Monday night. The results were most gratifying to both pastor and people. Thirty-three new members were added to the roll, and more than thirty signed a tithers' covenant. It is estimated that seventy-five people were converted and great quickening of life to every organization of the church was effected.

Thirty laymen had Sunday dinner together last Sunday. After the meal they went forth in Bible fashion, two by two, to visit every member within the hands of the charge. This was part of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and, locally, had its influency at a men's banquet held some weeks ago.

The laymen brought in their reports Monday night and were listened to with great delight and interest. During the forenoon, a Christian Workers' Conference was held. Three groups of workers were formed into permanent organizations for the purpose of conserving the fruits of the revival, extending the spiritual activities of the whole church.

The report of the treasurer to the regular business meeting of the Official Board, showed the financial status in most excellent condition. It is clearly evident to all that great gains have been made in every phase of the work.

The thing that pleases the pastor the most is the decision of some of the converts to give themselves definitely to special church work, such as the ministry, deaconess and foreign missionary work. S. McDonald and Sterns Cushing were licensed as exhorters by the last quarterly conference.

AUTO PATROL ASKED

Retiring Fire Chief Thinks Suggestion Made in Courier is Good

D. E. Frost, who this week retired as fire chief after making an enviable record, suggests to the council in his annual report that the city purchase and maintain a small automobile fire patrol wagon; such was suggested some weeks ago in the columns of the Courier. Mr. Frost points out that the use of such a piece of apparatus would greatly aid the department in stopping small fires in the residence district, and that the expense of maintenance would be only a trifle, as when the machine was not being used it would be costing no thing.

Fire Chief Frost declares that the volunteer department is in as good condition as any volunteer department could be. The city bought 1000 feet of hose during the period covered by the report and five fires were successfully fought by the department.

ment. Each of the five volunteer companies in the city has equipment which Fire Chief Frost estimates has an average value of $350. The report was filed Tuesday with City Recorder Loder.

You can get the Courier for one year for $1.00—if you pay in advance.
