the Miracle Girl of the Metropolitan, whose bewitchingly beautiful Soprano voice was chosen for the first test to determine whether Edison had actually succeeded in achieving his ambition to re-create the human voice so perfectly that his re-creation could not be distinguished from the original. Since then many other great artists have made similar tests—always with the same successful results.

Mrs. Wm. Stone was called to Vancouver Sunday on account of the serious illness of her mother.

Obituaries

G. M. B. Jones

G. M. B. Jones, a resident of Clackamas county since 1853, when he settled here after an arduous trip across the plains with his parents, passed away at the home of his niece, Arabella Imel, on April 10, at the age of 72 years. Mr. Jones was a native of Canada, and in early childhood moved with his parents to Iowa. From Iowa the family crossed the plains to Oregon where deceased was nine years of age. No immediate family survives Mr. Jones.

Mrs. Kate Gardner

After an illness of several years Mrs. Kate Gardner died at her home here last Thursday morning at the age of 83 years. Mrs. Gardner was for many years a well-known and respected resident of this community and her passing is noted with sorrow by a wide circle of friends. She was a native of Ireland. Surviving Mrs. Gardner are three daughters, Mrs. Kate Flannigan of this city, Mrs. Sarah Ellis of Portland and Mrs. Mollie Sivell of San Francisco. Funeral services were conducted on Saturday from the St. John's Catholic church and interment was made in the Catholic cemetery. The Rev. A. Hildebrand officiated. Many friends here attended the services at the church.

R. V. Howard

The death of R. V. Howard at his Molalla home on Monday night has saddened a wide circle of friends. Death came after a struggle against the ravages of pneumonia. Mr. Howard was born in Knox county, Ohio, nearly 83 years ago and with his parents crossed the plains to Oregon in 1852. The family settled in Junction City and Mr. Howard lived in that city when he moved to Molalla. Funeral services will be held at Eugene tomorrow.

Among those who live to mourn the death of their relative are the widow and the following children: Mrs. Carrie Moore, Knappa, Cal.; Mrs. J. W. Hedges, San Francisco, Cal.; Mrs. C. W. Starr, Mrs. George Sovren, Mrs. J. M. P. Dixon and Mrs. F. M. Baker, of Eugene; Mrs. G. O. Howard and Mrs. F. Myers, of Portland; J. D. Howard, A. Howard, William Howard, of the state of Washington; L. T. Howard of Molalla and B. F. Howard, of Junction City.

Methodist Church Notes

Easter Sunday was observed in six services, the first of the day beginning at 6 a. m. The church was beautifully decorated, and the choir sang extra numbers at the morning and evening hours of worship. In the morning the pastor took for his subject "Immortality," and in the evening, "The Moment after Death."

Monday night Mrs. R. B. Cox, fourth vice president of the Epworth League, entertained twelve of her committee at her home, when plans were made for a League social to be given Friday night. Light refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake, were served.

Tuesday night twenty people in a body went to Clackamas to attend the revival services being conducted by Rev. L. F. Smith, who recently conducted services in the local church.

The Wednesday Evening Bible Study class is growing in popularity. More than thirty attend and others have promised to join. The class is in charge of the pastor, who is pleased to have visitors come, if only for one meeting.

Next Sunday morning Miss Mary J. Hepburn, in charge of the Portland Deaconess Home, will deliver an interesting address. A special conference for young women who would like to know how to become a deaconess, and what are the opportunities for service in this line of work, will be held while she is in Oregon City.

The pastor will preach at the hour of evening worship.

LODGE HAS GAY TIME

Varied Program Proves Interesting to Many Artisans

Notwithstanding the fact that the popular and capable drill team of Oregon Assembly, Number 1, did not appear to celebrate, and the absence also of Judge Morrow of Portland, the Artisan lodge of Oregon City held a most enthusiastic general meeting at Busch hall on Saturday evening. It is estimated that nearly 500 guests were present, and the interesting program went forward without a hitch, to the genuine enjoyment of all present. Several members of the drill team that was listed to appear here were not able to attend the meeting so that the part that organization was to have taken was omitted from the program of the evening.

Much of the interest of the evening centered about the appearance of the juvenile Artisan band from Portland, whose delightful musical repertoire included not only popular music, but classical and patriotic numbers. The band was given a rousing reception at the conclusion of its program and special honor was accorded Percy Campbell, director of the young musicians.

One of the interesting features of the evening was the address by H. S. Hudson, supreme master Artisan, a talk that was an inspiration to the lodge members. Judge Dimick was a speaker whose humorous remarks delighted the large audience. Other entertainers who proved interesting and were recalled by the applause of the audience were the juvenile orchestra of the local lodge, and Kenneth Woodward. The evening was concluded by a social dance which proved to be a fitting climax to the pleasant evening.

Will Move Pulp Mill

The report comes from Marshfield that the machinery and equipment of the Coos Bay Pulp and Paper company plant, which was erected there not long ago at a cost of $1,000,000, has been purchased by the Crown-Willamette Paper company. The machinery, it is stated, will be moved to Oregon City as soon as it can be dismantled, and will be installed in the company's mills here.

STAFFORD POINTS TO LONG EXPERIENCE

C. I. Stafford

C. I. Stafford, who has filed as a candidate for nomination as county assessor, subject to the will of the republican voters at the primary election next month, points with pride to his long and successful business career in Oregon as one of many reasons why he should receive the nomination he is seeking.

Not only does Mr. Stafford maintain that his experience is an asset which should not be lost sight of by the voters, but he presents, as one of the chief and very interesting planks in the platform of his candidacy, his belief in a period of exemption from "cleared land rates" for the resident owner of farm land who clears and puts it into cultivation as such is a benefit to his community and to his state.

In addition to several years experience in office and corporation accounting, Mr. Stafford has enjoyed a profitable business experience of about eight years in this state.

STUDENTS VISIT MILLS

O. A. C. Forestry School Sends Boys On Investigation Tour

Accompanied by H. S. Newins, instructor in the school of forestry, a group of students from the Oregon Agricultural college spent a part of Friday at the pulp mills here where they were conducted by the management on a thoroughgoing tour of investigation. The students are members of a class at the college making a special study of the uses of wood and the visit here was part of the practical training which the study involves. The class visited other manufacturing handling wood and wood products before it returned to Corvallis.

Mr. Newins, who was here with the boys, will take a party of students on a tour of the principal sawmills of the state next week and early next month he will conduct a trip into the forest where the boys will take up the actual work of cruising for a ten-day period.

Police Get Gun and Money

The city police department is better off by $5 and a fairly good gun than it was on Monday before Officer Henry Cooke arrested an itinerant in a Southern Pacific freight car and hailed the gentleman of the road before Recorder Loder. The hobo gave his name as Robert Siebenthaler, and when arrested was in the act of drawing the weapon, that was later confiscated, from the blankets that covered him on the floor of a freight car. His quick work in relieving Mr. Siebenthaler of his gun probably saved the officer from injury.

Socialist County Convention

Is hereby called to meet at Oregon City, Oregon on Saturday, May 27th, 1916, at 10 A. M. The purpose to be the nomination of county ticket and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting. All Socialists will be entitled to participate, as said convention is to be a mass convention of all Socialists residing in the county. Lady Socialists especially invited.

Human Store Arrested

With his commissary on his person and a limited hardware stock in addition, Muscaur Stempokobo, the orthographic accuracy of whose name has not been guaranteed, was arrested on Monday night and charged with vagrancy. Among the basic culinary supplies found on the prisoner were sugar and flour. A number of small saws were included in the outfit carried by the prisoner, and these alone among the books and notions carried, were subjected to a rigid investigation. Stempokobo was released.

Birthday Surprise

The twentieth birthday anniversary of George Scouton was the occasion for a very pleasant surprise party at the Mountain View home of the young man's father, E. M. Scouton, on Saturday evening. The evening was spent in various games and with music, and refreshments were served. Among the guests were Misses Minnie Case, Maude Kennedy, Dora Scouton, Cecil Cooper, Elva Linton, Abbie Scouton, Emma Brock, Alta Clark and Retha Grant; Harold Miller, Edgar Brock, Asle Tabor, Frank Reuben and George Scouton.

Safety-First Meeting Held

George C. Brownell was the principal speaker at the safety-first meeting held at mill J, Crown-Willamette Paper company, on Tuesday. This is the first gathering of its kind held by the mill company this year and plans that the management are considering will bring prominent speakers before the employees at regular intervals throughout the year. The meeting was presided over by E. K. Stanton.

Small Blaze at Mill

The quick response of workmen prevented serious damage being done by a small blaze that started from defective wiring in mill A of the Crown-Willamette paper company on Sunday morning. The loss was negligible as a result of the prompt attention of employees.

Fire Destroys Home

The home of R. B. Hayhurst at Redlands was completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin on Monday. The home was unoccupied at the time of the fire and no cause for the blaze can be assigned by the owner, who is a brother of Benjamin Hayhurst, manager of the Home Telephone company of Oregon City.

THE WARNING

SUNDAY & MONDAY

The part of a man who, through being a "good fellow" and his own worst enemy, goes through a literal hell before he learns his lesson, is admirably portrayed by Henry Kolker in "The Warning," which is coming to the Grand Theatre on Sunday and Monday. The story is told in allegorical form, and aside from the poignant interest which attaches to the theme and the way in which it is worked out, is one of the most striking examples of screen artistry which has ever been presented. Dore's illustrations of the "Inferno" of Dante have been drawn upon in a realistic manner, and the grip which the pictures take upon the minds of those who see them is not easily loosened.

There is no attempt at preaching a sermon in connection with the theme, but with consummate skill the warning is conveyed, and there is no mistaking it. Some remarkable photographic effects are shown, the night side of New York life, a series of pictures of the "Great White Way" having been taken at night, with the flashing, winking, grating, glittering illumination furnishing its own light to the camera, being only a portion of the groups. Even he who runs may read the story, and he will have to run fast and far to escape reading it. Mr. Kolker has visualized the downfall of a man who gives way to "boon companionship" and its logical results with a vividness which cannot fail to impress, not only by its realism, but by the beauty of its presentation.

COUNTY AND CITY LOCALS

Miss Kathleen Harrison has returned to her home here after spending several days with friends in Portland. Mrs. W. H. Harrison spent Thursday in Portland and returned home with her daughter.
