

Which Do You Prefer?

It is important for reasons of health and practical economy for every housekeeper to ask herself this question:

"Do I prefer a pure baking powder like Royal, made of cream of tartar derived from grapes, or am I willing to use a baking powder made of alum or phosphate, both derived from mineral sources?"

The names of the ingredients printed on the label show whether the kind you are now using or any brand, new or old, that may be offered is a genuine cream of tartar powder, or merely a phosphate or alum compound.

Royal Baking Powder contains no alum nor phosphate.

SCHOOL CLUBS BUSY

Superintendent Calavan and Extension Worker Visit Schools

His program of work kept County School Superintendent Calavan very busy last week, and in his labors with the schools of the county he was assisted by Miss Helen Cowgill, a member of the extension staff of the Oregon Agricultural college.

Mr. Calavan and Miss Cowgill conducted a series of very interesting meetings at several schools and paid special attention to the progress of industrial club work during the last three days of the week. The first of the meetings was held at Ardenwald, where the keenest interest is aroused by the industrial club work. The clubs are already engaged in project work, according to the superintendent.

At Wichita the school workers found much interest, but no permanent organization. The children will work along the lines followed by the club members.

At Batten there is no organization, but at Jennings Lodge the school is well organized into clubs and the children are alive with interest in their work. The same condition obtains at Oak Grove, where work has already started.

At Clackamas the club work is being carried on by a large and enthusiastic club, which has its projects under way. Harmony school is organized and is working with keen interest. Here the children are to have a school garden in addition to their regular school duties.

Gladstone school maintains interest in the work through a well organized club and projects have already started at Willamette.

At Mt. Pleasant, where Mr. Calavan and Miss Cowgill visited on Friday afternoon, there is a class of 35 enrolled in the various club projects. Progress is being made rapidly with the work and the interest of the group was abetted by an illustrated lecture on various phases of the club undertakings by Miss Cowgill.

LOGAN

At the annual meeting on May first the election of officers of the Clear Creek Mutual Telephone company resulted as follows: President, R. M. Miller; vice-president, A. M. Kirchem; other members of the board of directors, L. S. Tenny, L. Funk and G. C. Armstrong; secretary and treasurer, O. D. Robbins; manager, A. L. Funk. The secretary's report showed a very encouraging condition as compared with past financial reports, as it seems there should be about $100 left at the close of the year, as applied to the outstanding debt. This will be quite different from having to accept temporary loans from officers to tide through the close of the year, as was the case last year, and for a number of years previous.

Mrs. Maude Goud, the central operator, was voted an increase in pay and was presented with about $10 from subscribers as a mark of appreciation for efficient services. Open hours on Sunday will be from 7 to 9 in the morning and from 5 to 7 in the evening and during closed hours completed calls will be 10 cents each when operator is present to answer. The company has about 120 phones in use; has about 30 miles of pole line and 115 miles of single wire. The main line is nearly all rebuilt with substantial, treated cedar poles and we are beginning to think we shall soon have a line we can be proud of for equipment and service.

At the ball game last Sunday, the score stood Logan 5, Redland 6.

It seems we misunderstood the report of the game between Logan and Stone last week and the report was reversed, as Stone won the game.

Julius Busch's new auto took a roll over a bank near Rock Creek bridge last week, but fortunately no serious damage resulted to the car or occupants.

We hear that Henry Swales has bought a new automobile.

TWO FACED JANUS.

He Was the Ancient Sun God as Well as the God of War.

Poor old Janus! Do you know how shamefully posterity has maligned him? You have heard all your life that Janus was named for the Roman god Janus and that Janus was the god of war, hence the first month of the year must be turbulent. Or perhaps you have gone deeper into the significance of the first month's name and have been told that it was given the honor of heralding that gory god because he had two faces, one looking into the past and the other looking into the future, as the first month of the year naturally would do. But through it all you have held rigidly before you the fact that he was the patron, the devotee, perhaps even the instigator of war.

As a matter of history, Janus was a venerable and thoroughly established deity before the little band of Trojans carried eastern culture to Italy, when the primitive Italians had not begun to suspect that war was an institution which called for a "goat." War needed no justification or excuse. Men fought because that seemed the only thing to do. As for Janus, he was their greatest sun god. He presided over the rising and setting of the sun, and hence he was the god who looked after the propitious beginnings and happy endings of all undertakings. He was represented with two faces, which looked to the east and the west. His temple in Rome was closed only in time of peace, and as there seldom was peace it was usually open. Hence he was called the god of war.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

TRIBUTE TO THE MULE.

With All His Faults He Is a More or Less Noble Character.

The mule is singularly free from the ills to which horses are heir. He has more days' work in him in 365 consecutive days than any farm animal or farm engine. He requires less feed when at work than any horse that can approach his capacity, for when he is idle he can forage successfully where the draft horse finds the picking too slim. He takes pot luck with his owner cheerfully and keeps fit upon it. In peace the mule is man's most faithful servant, although the gentlest of his kind is not entirely free from original sin and the oldest may experience unaccountable sporadic outbreaks of devilment.

In war the mule retains his character as a hard toiler, a good scout and a homely figure about whom the poets and painters at the front do not grow enthusiastic. Although he is unsung when living and not greatly honored, he is not unworthy when at thirty or beyond he lies down, sighs peacefully rather than regretfully and gives up his Spartan spirit.

If there is a hereafter for animals the mule's paradise is a series of Elysian fields with fences that only a good jumper can clear, with colts to chase, with something alive and preferably two legged to kick and with plenty of rough, plain victuals and a few goats to play with in sportive moods and negro drivers not brutal, yet not too indulgent, for human companionship.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Portuguese and Codfish.

It is an interesting fact that the fishermen of northern Portugal started and developed the fishing industry on the "banks" off the northern coast of America, and though they now send fewer ships, their taste for salt cod from Newfoundland is unabated—in fact, it is a national Portuguese delicacy. It is found in every little grocery shop, hard and brown as a board. A number of Portuguese have made their homes on the islands to the south of the mainland of Massachusetts, and there the dark eyes of the Iberian maiden, raven locks and a certain picturesque element in dress are not infrequent. This connection with Portugal dates back many years, the ships of Marthas Vineyard bridging the distance over sea and returning with Portuguese crews.—Exchange.

Royal Nicknames.

Louis XIV was "Le Grand Monarque." His court was the model for European princes.

Louis Philippe was the "Citizen King;" at one time he was "King Smith;" the name he assumed when he escaped from France.

Mary, queen of Scots, was the "White Queen."

Mary of Modena, wife of James II, was the "Queen of Tears."

The "Nine Days Queen" was Lady Jane Grey.

Christian III, of Denmark was the "Father" of his people.

Somewhat Confusing.

"And how is grandma, Brian?" asked the kind friend.

"Oh, she's better," replied Brian.

"The day before yesterday the doctor said she might get up the day after tomorrow, and yesterday was tomorrow, and today is the day after tomorrow. So she's up today!"

DANCE IS A SUCCESS

Large Sum of Money Results from Auction of Program

The auction idea in connection with the Rose Queen dance held at Busch's hall on Friday evening was certainly a brave one, and netted the campaign committee nearly $150, which will go toward the election of Miss Rose Uptegrove as queen of the Portland Rose Festival.

From every viewpoint the dance was a great success. Judge Grant B. Dimick was the man behind the hammer on the auction block and to his efforts are attributed much of the success of that sterling campaign feature. The bidding throughout the evening was keen and a sum approximating one hundred dollars was the result of the auction of the candidate's dances. The dances with Miss Uptegrove sold rapidly and the highest bid of the evening was that placed by Willard Hawley, Jr., who paid $11 for the privilege of the event.

The first open dance on the candidate's program sold to Dr. Guy Mount for $8 and Ralph Parker raised the price of the next number to $7 before he was assured the pleasure of dancing with Miss Uptegrove. Willard Hawley, Jr., paid $3 for the Paul Jones number, and lost his charming partner within a very short time. Three extra numbers on the program brought a total of $13.50.

Members of the Fallsarian organization acted as floor managers during the dance, and they added an important part to the success of the ball.

Other details of the dance that helped toward its splendid success were the music of the Moose orchestra and the delicious refreshments that were served throughout the evening by a bevy of attractive young ladies.
