Divorce Decrees Asked

In asking for a divorce from Thomas H. Willett, Mrs. Rosa E. Willett alleges gross cruelty and habitual drunkenness and asks for the restoration of her maiden name, Rosa E. Morgan. The couple was married in this city on August 1, 1912 and there are no children. Property rights have been settled out of court.

Myrtle Knight Sanders asks for a divorce from Samuel Guy Sanders in a complaint filed in the circuit court this week. The couple was married at Baker City on August 7, 1907 and separated on April 23, 1914. There are no children and no property rights. Mrs. Sanders alleges that her husband is and has been infatuated with another woman.

Mariam Smith has filed a complaint against Edward Morris Smith asking for divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty and habitual drunkenness. She alleges that he was once arrested for mistreating her. The couple was married on July 6, 1914.

James Elder would sever the matrimonial bonds that tied him to Elizabeth Elder on August 1, 1912. Mr. Elder alleges that his wife left the comfortable bed and board he was providing in October, 1913 and has since refused to return.

REV. EDWARDS LEAVES
Congregational Pastor Will Take Up Missionary Work

The resignation of the Rev. George Nelson Edwards, pastor of the First Congregational church of Oregon City, was read to the congregation of the church on Sunday morning.

Mr. Edwards, who has been pastor of the local church since the fall of 1911, has been called to Montana, where he will take up missionary work for the Congregational church. His headquarters will be at Billings and he will leave for his new post in the near future. In his new work it will be the duty of Mr. Edwards to advance in all possible ways the religious education in the church and Sunday schools of Montana.

Throughout the time he has been in this community Mr. Edwards has been a very active worker. He has held several important church positions in connection with his pastorate here, including two years as president of the Portland Congregational Minister's association. He is present president of the state missionary board, and has been chairman of the State Sunday School committee. Mr. Edwards is also moderator of the East Willamette association and member of the Inter-Denominational committee on Summer Schools for Ministers at Eugene, in addition to being one of the board of directors of the Northwest assembly. His resignation is to become effective on May 22.

ESSAY PRIZES AWARDED

Carol Ely Wins First Honor in W. C. T. U. Contest

The W. C. T. U. of Oregon City has just completed and awarded prizes for the essay contest which was started among school children of Clackamas county some time ago. The subject set for the essays was "Cigarette Smoking and Its Evil Effects," and more than 700 essays were submitted to the committee in charge of the contest, Mrs. C. F. Romig, chairman.

Miss Carol Ely, pupil in the Oregon City high school, was awarded the first prize, a beautiful set of books. Harry Romig received the second prize. In the seventh and eighth grade division Helen Ann Jones won the first prize and Lott Beattie won second. Jack Swan and Bessie Forbes won first and second honors respectively in the fifth and sixth grade division.

In the high schools of the county outside Oregon City Muriel Joy Nichols of the Milwaukie school was the first prize winner and Lillie Koenig of the same school was a close second. Bina Krogh of Milwaukie and Helen Anne Jones of the Eastham school received first and second prizes for the essays they submitted in the seventh and eighth grade divisions. In the lower grammar school grades, the fifth and sixth, James Swan of the Barclay school took first prize and second honors were awarded to Katherine Cobb of the Willamette school.

Presentation exercises were held in the auditorium of the local high school and many guests were present to witness the presentation and to enjoy the program that had been arranged for the day. The Rev. J. K. Hawkins delivered the invocation. Vocal selections were rendered by two quartets. The first including Misses Maude Lageson, Esther Staats, Flossie Blackburn and Mabel Morgan, and the second composed of Dellar Armstrong, John Beattie, Frank Champion and Robert Myers. Mrs. L. B. Andrews presented the prizes to the winners in the essay contest, and in each case the awards were popular literary works.

Methodist Church Notes

A cottage prayer meeting, well attended, and of much spiritual power, was held at the home of Mrs. Nettie Robbins, on High street, Monday afternoon. This group is doing a work most gratifying to the pastor in keeping alive the revival fires and strengthening new beginners in the Christian life.

Roy B. Cox, Superintendent of the Sunday School, and his wife, entertained eighteen members of the Sunday School Board at their home Monday night, the occasion being the regular monthly business meeting. Reports showed a remarkable growth in attendance. The finances are in excellent condition. Added facilities for work were ordered for the Primary Department, under the direction of Mrs. C. I. Stafford. The Children's Day Program to be given the second Sunday in June is well under way. It was ordered that in the near future a picnic for the children be given, and the matter was referred to a special committee to fix the time and place. At the close of the business session refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake were served. All departed in high praise of Mr. and Mrs. Cox as entertainers.

Mrs. C. E. Meyers, of Gladstone, entertained the Women's Home Missionary Society Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Rhoda Gray called the meeting to order. Miss Mary Case conducted the devotional exercises. There were seventeen in attendance.

The following persons took part in the program of the hour, viz.: Mrs. Clara Jack, Mrs. Hoag, Mrs. L. P. Horton, Mrs. A. F. Jack, Mrs. Bessie Cushing, Mrs. J. K. Hawkins and Mrs. Nettie Robbins. The general subject of discussion was stimulated by the text book entitled, "Home Missions in Action." It was reported that a sewing machine had been purchased and presented to the Portland Industrial Home, and that nineteen calls had been made to see the sick and strangers. Two committees were appointed, one to provide necessities for a local family in need; the other, to decorate the graves of three hundred members of the society on Memorial Day. At the close of the business session a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. A joint meeting of the Home Missionary Society, The Queen Esther Circle, and the Home Guards, is being planned for the near future at which time a big entertainment will be given, and the mite boxes opened.

The "Count on Me" class, with more than thirty young people of High school age enrolled, Miss Minnie Case, teacher, met in their regular monthly business meeting at the church Tuesday evening. New officers were elected as follows: President, Maud Kennedy; vice president, Ruth T. Hawkins; secretary, Martha Locke; treasurer, Asel Taber; sergeant-at-arms, Myrtle Henderson. A committee was appointed to look after delinquent members and to endeavor to keep up the attendance through the vacation months.

The Bible study class, which meets on Wednesday nights under the pastor's instruction, has outgrown its first place of meeting and is now being held in prayer meeting room of the church. A surprise was sprung on the class at its last meeting in the form of the first examination, covering the first month's study.

At the 11 a. m. service Sunday the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered. Mother's Day service will be held in the evening at 7:45 o'clock.

Be careful who you nominate at the primaries next week and you will have no room to complain about the candidates for election next fall.

COUNCIL UP IN ARMS

Resents Interference of Citizens in Its Fight on Riley

Things are merry down Milwaukie way, where the city council is attempting to oust City Marshal Sam Riley on charges that he is shirking the duties of his office. Against the council is a large number of townspeople, who have petitioned the aldermanic body to drop its attack on the marshal.

Last week, after reading sundry petitions and hearing other sundry kicks from several sources, the council ordered printed a statement of its position on several important matters in connection with municipal affairs, and especially, concerning Sam Riley's job.

"We are constructing a municipal water system, which, when completed, will cost $50,000," says the statement issued by the council. "We sought a competent man for water superintendent. We believe one man could look after the water system, police duties, street repairs, crosswalk cleaning, and matters of public welfare and safety. We talked the matter over with the marshal but found him very indifferent. We also found that he did not enforce laws and ordinances without some citizen made a complaint to him, although he admitted he knew the law was being violated. He said the council had no jurisdiction over him, and the only one he looked to for orders was the mayor. From his attitude the council decided he was not the man for water superintendent and voted to discontinue his salary after the first of May, exercising its authority under the charter.

At the last regular meeting of the council a petition was presented which the council considered senseless and insulting and unworthy of official consideration, tabling it without being read in full. It reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned, voters and citizens of Milwaukie, respectfully petition you to reconsider your action in regard to taking from the marshal all his salary and that you give him the salary he received before you meddled with his salary and his duties. We look upon your actions in regard to the marshal as pernicious, detrimental, unwarranted and unlawful interference with the duties of a faithful and efficient public officer, over whose duties the city council has no jurisdiction or control and we further petition you not to hinder him in his co-operation with the county and state officers in the interest of the public good and in the same proportion as the decent element expect them to co-operate with him.

"As to the statement the council must not hinder him in his co-operation with county and state officers. To this we state the council has at no time hindered the marshal in anything; he has done just about as he pleased and faithfully takes all the money he can get. Mr. Julius Wilbur of the Friars' club, is one of the signers of this petition of the marshal's which ends: 'as the decent element expect.' We scarcely believe the signers of this petition realized what they were signing, and the reflection they cast upon their neighbors who have not signed it.

"You must realize there is something to do in our town if we wish to build it up, invite people to buy homes and become residents. Do you know that filth and garbage can be seen everywhere? That we have had two cases of typhoid lately, one of them fatal? That the station on Milwaukie highway is at times a public disgrace? That chickens, dogs and cattle are allowed unrestricted liberty? This should not be the case, if the laws and ordinances were enforced by the marshal."

Socialist County Convention

YOUR HOME PAPER

Too frequently even its constant readers do not appreciate their home newspaper. Too often they cast some unnecessary shadow upon it, and condemn it rather than attempt to right the wrong or to bear with the editor, whose trials are manifold and of many varieties. To these few the tribute written to the country newspaper by William Allen White, editor of a country paper in Kansas, should strike home, and should twist many fancied wrongs into the real appreciation that the average country newspaper deserves. Mr. White says:

"But the beauty and the joy of our papers and their little worlds is that we who live in the country towns know our own heroes. Who knows Murphy in New York? Only a few. Yet in Emporia we all know Tom O'Connor—and love him. Who knows Morgan in New York? One man in a hundred thousand. Yet in Emporia who does not know George Newman, our banker and merchant prince? Boston people pick up their morning papers and read with shuddering horror of the crimes of their daily villain, yet read without that fine thrill that we have when we hear that Al Ludorff is in jail again in Emporia. For we all know Al. We've ridden in his hack a score of times. And we take up our paper with the story of his frailties as readers who begin the narrative of an old friend's adventures.

"Our papers, our little country papers, seem drab and miserably provincial to strangers, yet we who read them read in their lines the sweet, intimate story of life. And all these touches of nature make us wondrous kind. It is the country newspaper, bringing together daily the threads of the town's life, weaving them into something rich and strange and setting the pattern as it weaves, directing the loom and giving the cloth its color by mixing the lives of all people in its color pot—it is this country newspaper that reveals us to ourselves that keeps our country hearts quick, and our country minds open, and our country faith strong.

"When the girl at the glove counter marries the boy in the wholesale house the news of their wedding is good for a forty-line wedding notice, and the forty lines in the country paper give them self respect. When in due course we know that their baby is a twelve pounder, named Grover or Theodore or Woodrow, we have that neighborly feeling that breeds the real democracy. When we read of death in that home we can mourn with them that mourn. When we see them moving upward in the world into a firm and out toward the country club neighborhood we rejoice with them that rejoice. Therefore, men and brethren, when you are riding through this vale of tears upon the California limited and by chance pick up the little country newspaper with its meager telegraphic service of 3,000 or 4,000 words or at best 15,000 or 20,000; when you see its array of countryside items, its interminable local stories, its tiresome editorials on the waterworks, the schools, the street railroad, the crops and the city printing, don't throw down the contemptible little rag with the verdict that there is nothing in it. But know this, and know it well: If you could take the clay from your eyes and read the little paper as it is written you would find all of God's beautiful, sorrowing, struggling, aspiring world in it, and what you saw would make you touch the little paper with reverent hands."

Church Is Recognized

The Jennings Lodge Congregational church, the Rev. Howard N. Smith pastor, organized about a year ago, was given official recognition at a meeting held in the church on Monday evening. Several other churches of the Congregational denomination were represented and among the prominent visitors were the Rev. A. J. Sullens of Portland, superintendent of home missions for Oregon and southern Idaho, and the Rev. J. H. Matthews of Seattle, Northwest Superintendent of Sunday school work. The Jennings Lodge church has prospered since its organization and now has forty members.

Students Have Gay Time

The sophomore class of the Oregon City high school greatly enjoyed its excursion to the mouth of the Willamette aboard the river steamer Paloma last Friday afternoon. Nearly two hundred pupils and their friends made up the excursion party and the afternoon was gay for all guests. Beach's boys' band furnished delightful music throughout the trip.

Dancing and various games formed the feature amusements of the trip and a fine luncheon was served, in addition to refreshments. Several of the members of the high school faculty accompanied the excursionists.

Will Tunnel Under Locks

The location for a tunnel to be built by the Crown-Willamette Paper company under the government locks in the river near its plant here, has been established, although the company does not contemplate its construction for some time. The terms of an agreement with the government, provided for in the deed transferring the locks from the P. R. L. & P. Co., to the government, give the paper company the right to build such a tunnel or to bridge the locks if such is necessary. Contemplated uses of such a tunnel as it is proposed to build are as a receptacle for steam, water and gas pipes.

Play Is Success

"A Kentucky Belle," produced at Mount Pleasant on Saturday evening by the Mount Pleasant Civic Improvement club, was a decided success, and more than two hundred people comprised the audience which witnessed the production. More than $42 were netted from the play and this fund will be used by the club to complete sidewalks in the district to connect with those built by Oregon City.

Miss Mildred Aiken, Miss Linnie Osburne and Ralph Niles enacted the heaviest roles in the production, and the entire cast did very creditable work.

Sending Supplies

School Superintendent J. E. Calavan is mailing this week to the several district school boards of the county supplies for the year. These supplies include blanks for making out the annual reports of boards and other forms. Superintendent Calavan has requested that boards of directors contemplating an increase in the school tax levy for the coming year send to his office for the proper notification forms. These forms must be posted thirty days before the special election.

Willamette Wins

The baseball game between the Milwaukie and Willamette school teams on Saturday afternoon at Canemah park resulted in the defeat of Milwaukie by a score of 11 to 10. Robert Goetz, superintendent of Milwaukie schools, accompanied his team to Canemah and C. F. Romig, principal of the Willamette school, was sponsor for the representatives of that school.

Improvements at Mulino

A clean-up campaign that has resulted in the great improvement of the school grounds and surroundings at Mulino has just been completed. In fixing up the grounds it was necessary to move the school's flagpole to a more appropriate and slightly location.
