LIVESTOCK SHOW IS INTERESTING

THREE-HUNDRED DOLLARS IN CASH PRIZES OFFERED TO FARMERS

BIG PARADE WILL BE HELD

Entries for Show are Received From All Sections of the County

Much interest is being displayed by farmers throughout the county in the livestock show which is to be held in conjunction with the annual Booster day celebration in Oregon City on May 27. Some of the finest of the blooded and registered livestock in the county has already been entered in their respective divisions, and attractive prizes that are offered on animals of all classes will attract a large number of exhibitors. A premium list, which calls for approximately $300 as cash awards to exhibitors, has been prepared by the Booster Day committee. Additional prizes will be provided for if the Booster day committee finds its financial standing will permit.

The following is the complete premium list to date, any additions to be announced through the press:

BOTH LOCAL MILLS HAVE RAISED WAGES

CROWN-WILLAMETTE OFFICIALS ANNOUNCE TEN PER CENT WAGE INCREASE

Stepping into the line formed by the other large industries of the land including its local rival, the Crown-Willamette Paper company management has announced a ten per cent. increase in the wages of all employees at its mills in Oregon City, Camas, Wash., and Lebanon. The increase in salaries was announced on Saturday and made effective since the first of the present month. It will effect a total number of approximately 1700 workmen in the three mills operated by the company.

All men, including those who work by the hour, will benefit by the increase and the company has thereby added some $110,000 to its annual payroll. In the case of the laborers who draw the lowest prevailing wage at the mills the increase will amount to more than ten per cent. The men who have been paid $2.00 a day will hereafter draw $2.25, an increase of 12½ per cent. There are about 800 men employed in the Crown-Willamette mills in this city and with the large number benefitted by the recent wage increase announced by the Hawley Pulp & Paper company, the monthly payroll of the city's chief industries will add materially to the tone of prosperity that has been humming here recently.

The labor situation in the Crown-Willamette mills at Camas has been causing the management much worry and within a few hours after the second small strike of the past ten days the increase was announced and the men who had walked out returned to their labors. Locally there is a question as to whether or not the wage increase will settle the Camas trouble. Workmen there are demanding time and a half for Sunday work, and in certain departments of the mills an additional increase is asked for.

The Camas strike has not in any way effected the local branch of the Crown-Willamette industry and Oregon City officials of the company are certain that the trouble in Washington town has not been so serious as was pictured. Last Saturday the second strike occurred at the Camas mills, but before nightfall the men were back at their places and worked all day Sunday to make up for the time lost while they were debating their grievances.

BIG BOOSTER EDITION

Courier Will Do Its Part in Boosting Big Celebration

The Courier will publish a special Booster day edition next week for the convenience of advertisers who appreciate that occasion as an excellent advertising opportunity, and its pages will be crowded with news of the day that will interest every one of this paper's large list of readers. The events of the day will be chronicled and a complete program of events will have a conspicuous place.

The paper will be circulated throughout the county in plenty of time to permit its full perusal by readers in time to take advantage of anything advertised in its pages on Saturday—Booster day—and it will serve not only as a directory and program for the festivities of that important day, but will be a guide to shopping at the proper time and at the proper places.

Merchants contemplating interesting the public in their wares on that day will do well to see that their advertising copy is in this office as early as possible to insure its proper presentation in the big Booster day edition. It is limited and most of it has been spoken for, not only because of the occasion, but because of the fact that this will be one of the most important advertising issues that The Courier has published in many years. We ask you to speak early if you care to have space reserved for your copy.

YOUNG THIEF CAUGHT

Mountain Youth Certain in Affirming His Innocence

After a strenuous trip into the hills Constable Frost on Wednesday arrested Lester Townsend, a twelve-year-old lad whose residence is on a homestead in the mountains back of Colton, and not distant from the well-known "Bee" ranch. The lad is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Townsend and after a severe examination conducted yesterday afternoon by the Constable, District Attorney Hedges and Deputy District Attorney Thomas A. Burke, he confessed to breaking into the cabin of August Rakel.

From the cabin young Townsend stole traps, guns and many other valuable possessions of Mr. Rakel. He turned things topsy-turvy and tore the paper from the walls. The spoils of his search he secreted in a lonely spot in the mountains and will lead the county officers to his cache today. Upon being examined here yesterday the boy firmly maintained his innocence for two hours, denying any knowledge of the thievery or of the

ANNUAL MEETING TO BE BEST EVER

PROGRAM FOR GLADSTONE WILL CONTAIN THE NAMES OF MUCH PROMINENCE

MUSIC WILL BE BIG FEATURE

Directors of Various Departments Will Have Work in Charge This Year

Thirteen big days. And every day will be crowded to the last hour with the most interesting features that the chautauqua stage knows. These are the plans for the Willamette Valley Chautauqua assembly to be held at Gladstone Park from July 7 to 19, as announced by the secretary, H. E. Cross. The session this summer is the twenty-third annual assembly and in all ways it is planned to make it the best of all.

The program prepared by the officers and directors of the assembly includes some of the foremost talent in the land and, although there are features to be added, enough has been announced to insure a splendid chautauqua. Among the lecturers who are to be at Gladstone during the chautauqua period are Lou Beauchamp, Hon. Victor Murdock, Sylvester A. Long, Dr. Ernest J. Sias, Dr. Elliot A. Boyd, Frederick Vining Fisher, S. Platt Jones, Frederick J. Halton, Charles Zuehl, Francis Labadie, Dr. W. A. Hunzberger, Robert Parker Mills and Dr. Sutcliffe. Among the notable musical features announced are the New York City Marine band, Witek's Royal Hungarian orchestra, Gullatto trio, Lyric Operatic company, Kaffir Boy's choir, Sequoia Male Quartette and the Comus players.

Shakespeare programs will be featured during the assembly. Mrs. Eleanor Sanford-Large is director of this department and she is planning several novel entertainments in commemoration of the great bard on the occasion of his ter-centennial.

Prof. Cowan of Portland will again have charge of the musical program and Miss Nola Crites will superintend the junior chautauqua. Prof. Grille, who has served as head of the athletic and physical culture departments for a number of seasons, will again conduct that branch of the work.

As the date of the assembly approaches more detailed plans will be announced by those in charge. Every effort will be made by the officers and directors to make the 1916 assembly the biggest and best that has ever been held. The officers of the assembly are: C. H. Dye, president; George A. Harding, vice-president; E. G. Caulfield, treasurer and H. E. Cross, secretary. The directors are: George A. Harding, H. E. Cross, C. H. Dye, E. G. Caulfield, George F. Armstrong, Christian Schubel, F. E. Jack, Emma M. Spooner, F. A. Olmsted, W. A. Huntley, John W. Loder, Mrs. A. B. Manley, Dr. George A. Hoeye, Jennie M. Kemp and Elizabeth A. Kelly.

QUEEN CAMPAIGN CLOSES

TOMORROW NIGHT, MAY 19

Whether Miss Rose Upton, grove, Clackamas county candidate for Queen of the Portland Rose Festival, is to be or not to be, will be known definitely after the count of the last big rush of votes tomorrow evening. The contest closes on Friday evening and ballots received after that time by the local committee will not be counted in favor of the local candidate.

The standing of the Clackamas county candidate will advance considerably over the count today, but the committee is not resting on its laurels. News from other valley towns indicates that contest managers are doing everything possible to elect their candidates, and if Clackamas county's candidate is to wear the royal robes must be accomplished between now and tomorrow night. Manager H. L. Kelly and the members of the contest campaign committee are addressing a last plea to those who are interested in seeing the local candidate elevated to the queenly throne and ask that every spare vote and every spare ten-cent piece be sent to the committee at once.

Will Clean Up Cemetery

The trustees of the Beaver Creek cemetery have issued an appeal to the residents of that community to turn out in force on next Wednesday to aid in cleaning up the cemetery. There are many things to be done and the more help the trustees get, of course, the greater will be their accomplishments. This is one of the important features of a general cleanup campaign and the trustees emphasize the importance of getting a large group of residents to help in the work.

LIVE WIRES HEAR A BUNCH OF TALKS

DR. GUY MOUNT IS CLUB'S KING CANDIDATE. TWENTY-TWO SPEAKERS PRESENT

Twenty-two cut and dried campaign speeches were delivered to a for-bearing audience at the weekly Live Wire meeting on Tuesday, and while exposing the planks of their several and varied platforms the candidates lost no time in exposing themselves to the public support of the large number who attended the meeting.

Candidates for every nomination at the primary election tomorrow spoke their pieces and were thankful for the opportunity, promising everything in the political category if nominated and elected. The majority of the candidates would be county commissioners and all were wonderfully well versed in road building and in the methods that must be pursued to bring about efficiency and economy in the administration of public affairs. Most of the candidates promised to be "courteous" and "impartial" to all taxpayers if nominated and elected—and every one who spoke got away with some such statement.

The Live Wire meeting was well attended in view of the fact that 22 candidates were present, although much of the business of the organization was set aside to allow the candidates a hearing. Manager Kelly of the Rose Queen campaign sprung a surprise when he announced the resignation of the members of the bachelor committee. To fill the vacancies and to increase the contest treasury, those who did not care to become members of the committee were forced to buy the privilege. A favorable sum was turned into the fund as a result of this scheme.

The Live Wires unanimously elected Dr. Guy Mount as a candidate for king of the Booster day, making the second entry into the royalty race. Main Trunk Howland appointed a committee to take charge of the campaign of the club's candidate.

BOOSTER DAY PLANS ARE FOR BIG THINGS

ROYAL ROSARIANS TO COME; OTHER ORGANIZATIONS INVITED

Under the direction of the publicity committee of the Commercial club and Manager H. L. Kelly, plans for the Booster day celebration in Oregon City next week are rapidly taking a form that insures the success of the program that has already been outlined. New entertainment features are being added each day and new interests are developing that will probably result in bringing to the city the largest crowd of merry makers that has ever assembled here.

On Monday Manager Kelly appeared at a Rosarian luncheon at Portland and outlined the scope of the Booster day. That marching organization voted to attend the celebration here in a body and to order out the famous Rosarian band. The Rosarians have appointed a committee to have charge of the trip to Oregon City and it is probable that the club will come here aboard a chartered river steamer.

They will participate in street parades and in all the fun that is planned for Booster day. The band will give public concerts during the day. Invitations have been sent to the Albany Pheasants, the Eugene Radicals and the Salem Cherrians. It is probable that one or more of these organizations will be present.

At a meeting of the Fallsarians here on Monday evening plans for the participation of that organization in the Booster day festivities were made. The Fallsarians have entered Charles T. Parker as a candidate for king of Booster day and an active campaign in his behalf has been started.

Plans for various street events are being made by the committee and the manager. An automobile parade will be one feature of the celebration and prizes aggregating almost $200 have been provided for the entries in this event. A feature that will appeal to the youngsters is a roller skating meet on Main street. Cash prizes have been offered for the winners in this event and the little folks are already displaying an interest in the several contests on skates.

The publicity committee and the manager meet practically every day and at each meeting new plans are discussed for the program. Before next week the program will have been completed and will be of such a nature that to miss the Booster day celebration will be a decided loss to any one in the county. The city will be prepared to receive and entertain the largest crowd in its history and from the present outlook such a crowd will be in attendance.

Yesterday the committee in charge of the Booster day program received from Governor Withycombe a response to an invitation sent to him asking his attendance on May 27. The communication, addressed to Manager H. L. Kelly, follows:

SEWER ON TENTH STREET DELAYED

TAXPAYERS OBJECT TO CONSTRUCTION AND MATTER IS POSTPONED

GRADE ORDINANCES PASSED

Council Covers Unconstitutional Action by the Authorizing of Amendments

After many protests from property owners in the district the city council voted at a special meeting on Thursday evening to postpone action in the matter of constructing a sewer system in district number 10 until the first regular meeting in 1917. Thus ended, temporarily, the war that has been waging between one faction of the city council and the owners of property in district 10.

A number of property owners attended the hearing at the city hall last week and objected either to the unfairness of the assessment against them or to the construction of the sewer at this time. The latter were of the opinion that the greater portion of the district was too far out to require a sewer system at present, and impressed the council with the knowledge that it was attempting to handle a problem that would not be presented for solution for many years. Some taxpayers said that the construction of the sewer at this time would mean confiscation of their property and one person refused absolutely to pay his assessment at this time.

After urging the adoption of the report of an assessment committee comprising Councilmen Templeton, Roake and Cox, the former, remarking that "the tail seemed to be wagging the dog," scored Councilman Cox for not participating in the investigation conducted by the councilman committee. Councilman Cox defended himself satisfactorily for his failure to attend the investigation and made a motion that the committee's report be laid on the table until 1917. Councilman Metzner was the only other one to orally support Cox in his motion, and said that he had understood before the committee made its investigation that no immediate action was to be taken on the report. Councilman Cox's motion, when put to a vote, carried easily and the report, together with the proposal to construct the sewer, will not be aired again until next year, and assessments are void.

The special meeting was called for the purpose of hearing objections to the assessments, but this business was preceded by the appearance of a Booster day committee asking for financial aid for that celebration. O. D. Eby and H. L. Kelly spoke briefly in presenting the cause to the council and on motion of Councilman Templeton, amended by Roake, the council voted to donate $99.90 to the Booster day festivities.

At a special meeting of the council held on Wednesday evening two ordinances re-establishing the grades of Main street between Seventeenth and Eighteenth and of part of Seventh street, passed the second reading. In addition to this formality, for which the special meeting was called, little business was transacted.

The council voted a special three-month permit for the removal of the Raasch and Lamb pool hall from the Main street room in the Andersen building to a basement in the same building. The city charter provides that such places of business be located where they will be in full view of the street and to avoid exceeding their rights under that clause the councilmen voted to instruct the city attorney to prepare an amendment to the charter which will do away with that antiquated section. It is proposed to have this section revised before the three-month special permit granted last evening has expired.

City Engineer Miller presented a revised plat of the cemetery to the cemetery committee and the same was accepted. By means of the new plat it will be possible to locate the addition to the cemetery on the property it should have covered when the original plat was made by Mr. Noble, former city engineer.

McKay Starts Suit

Stanley McKay of Donald, Ore., through his attorneys, Clyde Garmire of Portland, and W. A. Dimick of Oregon City, Friday filed suit against John N. Sievers, justice of the peace of the Oregon City district, and against Clackamas county for the return of $50 bail money ordered forfeited in December by Justice Sievers. The bail was forfeited on account of McKay's non-attendance at time of his trial on a charge of failing to give one-half of the public road to Bert and Marie Harvey. McKay was traveling in an automobile from his home to Portland when he met Harvey and his sister going up the south end road with a horse and buggy.

Full and complete program in next issue for booster-day.

TEACHERS AGREE TO AN INVESTIGATION

EXPRESS BELIEF THAT CONDITION DEMANDS AIRING FOR WELFARE OF ALL

Agreeing with The Courier in its request for an immediate investigation, and expressing their willingness to submit themselves as parties to such an investigation, the teachers who have resigned their positions in the Oregon City high school offer to the public a statement of their attitude.

In its editorial expression The Courier held as culpable neither one side nor the other, in the controversy that has disrupted the harmony and the progressive spirit of the high school staff as a whole. The trouble in the teaching staff is so apparently destroying the benefit or the work of all concerned, and is so decidedly inimical to the interests of pupils and school patrons that an investigation should be conducted without further loss of time, and the cause of the revolt thereby determined.

In fact, this paper believes as do the teachers, who submit the following statement of their position, that "the issue demands attention purely for the future good of the school."

In the following communication the teachers in the high school agree to any investigation the school board sees fit to conduct:

Editor Courier:—While realizing the fair spirit of your editorial in last week's Courier, on the high school situation, its character prompts this reply in order to acquaint the public with the attitude of the resigning teachers.

We agree with you that there is "Something Wrong," we also agree with you that an immediate hearing is necessary for the best interests of all concerned. The board has known of our attitude for some time, but for reasons unstated has taken no action. We, as teachers, do not feel that it is up to us to force the issue which demands attention purely for the future good of the school, but we take this opportunity to acquaint the public with our readiness to act in this matter at any time the board so wills, for the welfare of all concerned. We are ready for the investigation.

FALLSARIANS ELECT

Marching Club Enters Parker as Candidate for King

At a meeting of the Fallsarians on Monday afternoon Theodore Osmund was elected to the presidency of the organization and in the direction of club affairs will be assisted by C. G. Huntley, vice-president; Thomas A. Burke, secretary; M. D. Latourette, treasurer and H. E. Williams, Captain. Captain Williams took up his duties for the year immediately by announcing the first drill of the season tonight, to be followed by strenuous drill periods on Sunday morning and Monday and Wednesday evenings. Members who do not attend these drills will be fined. H. L. Kelly, Percy Caulfield, Charles W. Risley, John F. Risley, C. W. Robey, J. D. Olson and H. G. Starkweather were elected to membership in the Fallsarian organization.

Charles T. Parker was selected as the Fallsarian candidate for king of the Booster day celebration to be held Saturday, May 27. As a starter in the campaign that will be carried on in Mr. Parker's behalf, 24,000 were purchased by the members. M. D. Latourette will be general manager of this feature of the Booster day program and Mr. Parker's campaign will be managed by a committee comprising G. V. Ely, J. E. Jack, F. J. Houlton, W. F. Tipton and J. C. Cochran.

DEAD LAD HONORED

Rev. G. N. Edwards Conducts Service for Earl Siddons

Though his grave lie undiscovered at the bottom of the Willamette, a touching service was conducted on Wednesday at the Congregational church in honor of the memory of Earl Siddons, the Oregon City high school boy who was drowned in the river here on April 19. The Rev. George Nelson Edwards conducted the service and paid a sentimental tribute to the young man whose loss is mourned by relatives and a host of friends among the students who were his classmates at the local high school. The boy's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Siddons, of Spokane, Wash., joined the relatives with whom he lived in Oregon City, at the service yesterday.

Johnston Boy Found

Oliver Johnston, who has been carrying an advertising banner through Main street for a local furniture store, was taken into custody by Acting Chief of Police Burke on Thursday. The boy disappeared from his home at Wichita on the Estacada carline, during the early part of the week and came to this city, where he secured the job of carrying the banner.

BANKERS HAVE A FINE CONVENTION

BANQUET SERVED BY LOCAL HOSTS IS FEATURE OF ANNUAL MEETING

FIFTY DELEGATES PRESENT

Money Masters are Taken Through Big Mills Here and Elect New Officers

Practically every bank in group one of the Oregon State Banker's association was represented at the annual convention of the group held in Oregon City on Saturday. There were more than fifty delegates present in addition to a number of prominent people from several sections of the state. From the time the business meeting was called at half past ten on Saturday morning until the inspection of local industrial centers had been completed late in the afternoon the bankers were kept constantly at enjoying the program that had been prepared for them and there was not one voice in the large group to dissent from the general opinion that the convention was the most successful which group one has held.

The business session was held at the Commercial club and started most auspiciously with the delivery of an invocation by the Rev. J. K. Hawkins, pastor of the Methodist-Episcopal church. O. D. Eby, president of the Commercial club, extended a hearty welcome to the bankers and A. C. Shute, president of the American National Bank of Hillsboro, responded. After reading the minutes of the last meeting a very interesting address on "Cost Accounting and Banking Methods," was delivered by Dean W. Morton, of the U. of O. school of commerce. Mr. Morton outlined, at the conclusion of his talk, the extent and purpose of the work that is being carried on in the classes in the school of commerce.

At the noon hour long tables set up in the club rooms held a royal repast for the visitors and hosts. The dinner was one of the finest that the club rooms have known and in justice to the money masters who sat at the tables it must be said they paid a fine tribute to the viands and the cooking. At the conclusion of the luncheon Mrs. Eva Emery Dye delightedly entertained the convention with her review of the history of Oregon City, taking the community from its foundation to the present and into a forecast of future greatness.

The bankers then assembled in the club parlors and greatly enjoyed the very instructive talk by Hector MacPherson, head of the department of economics at the Oregon Agricultural college. Mr. MacPherson took as his subject "Rural Credits," and cast many interesting lights on that timely subject. T. H. West, traffic manager of the Laid & Tilton bank, Portland, and vice-president of the American Institute of banking, spoke on the purposes and accomplishments of the national thrift campaign that is being sponsored by bankers throughout the nation. "Farmer" C. L. Smith, of the O. W. R. N. Co., interested the group with his address on "The Relation of the Banker to Agriculture."

At the business meeting called immediately after these addresses S. L. Parrett, president of the United States National bank of Newberg was elected chairman of group one. Other officers elected were: J. A. Thornburgh, president Forest Grove National bank, vice-chairman; H. B. Evans, cashier First National bank, Canby, treasurer; E. C. Sammons, assistant cashier, Lumbermen's National, Portland, secretary. Chairman Parrett will appoint four additional members to the executive committee at a later date. Leroy D. Walker, president of the Bank of Commerce of this city, is the retiring chairman, and the newly elected chairman was formerly vice-chairman.

The local committee which had charge of the convention and which is given major credit for its success included:

O. D. Eby, T. W. Sullivan and E. E. Brodie, representing the Oregon City Commercial club; E. G. Caulfield, cashier of the Bank of Oregon City; M. D. Latourette, vice president of the First National bank; Leroy D. Walker, president of Bank of Commerce, representing the banks of Oregon City.

An amusing and profitable feature of the luncheon was the hold-up staged by H. L. Kelly and Ralph Sheppard. Just at the conclusion of the meal the gentlemen, masked, entered the room and commanded the guests to contribute to the Rose Queen contest campaign. Little Winifred Ball, garbed prettily and with many fresh blossoms pinned to her dress, paraded on the table with a basket and a pistol, selling the flowers she carried. The "stunt" netted the campaign committee more than $20. The idea of holding up the bankers was conceived by Mr. Kelly and Mr. Sheppard and was not known either to the visiting bankers or to their hosts.
