

THE HOME OF GREAT SILENCE.

the desert, had wandered off from the railroad at different times and never returned. And then he clinched it by the statement that they never returned for their month's pay. I knew that their bones were somewhere lost there in that waste.

Before, behind, everywhere this dead country stretches away. It was created for something, but only God knows what. With the patience of the white sand to chisel the rock and the lava into weird shapes and presumes. There is not a corner, not an edge, nothing sharp, everything is smooth, rounded, sandpapered—everything smooth of age, of a time before life. Rock-strewn, empty, vast, mysterious, silent.

What is hidden out in these wastes? Gold, silver, copper, and all the rich minerals that are characteristic of a land that has been forced from earth's bowels. And another earth has set the time lock on them. None know how many a giant form has laid down to die in this hostile land, lured on and on by the gold fever, on beyond human aid, and where nature refused to help. Starving coyotes have picked the bones clean, and the dryest air on earth has preserved them as sign boards—"Abandon all hope ye who enter here."

The section foreman told me he had lived fifteen years in this torment and that in one more year he would have money enough to pay cash for a snug little irrigated farm in New Mexico. Heaven, what a price for a farm! He said that he had ten years pay checks that he had never cashed. What a beautiful example of trust in Santa Fe. And what a medley of men is necessary to fill up the odd corners of our great, big, strapping, wonderful country.

The desert is a place of awful winds. The terrible heat rises, other air is sucked in, and the result is those terrible sand storms you have heard of. The winds pick up the sand by ship loads and scatter it everywhere. Man or beast, caught in the open, finds his own grave, for there is no facing or breathing this gale of hot, penetrating smothering sand.

It is a country of great temperature changes, and pneumonia is prevalent and deadly. You will be surprised at this, because you never heard of it, but remember there are mighty few men to die of anything out there, and press reporters are as scarce as water and society.

The summer heat is something awful, and the section man told me the mercury goes to 135, and that a piece of metal laid in the sun would burn blisters on the hand that touched it. Even in winter the noon heat is terrible and but for the day being cloudy he said I would have found it almost unbearable in the sun. A change of from 50 to 80 degrees from noon to midnight is not unusual, and there is where the dread pneumonia finds its place to reap. Many of the stations have double roofs, to help shut out the sun's fearful heat.

There are many rivers that rise in the mountains north and east, but few if any have mouths. They flow down into this land of heat and the sand sucks them up.

There are many sinks, big, pot-holes, in this desert that no doubt were once lakes, filled with powdered alkali dust, and when rain does fall, it makes of these beds of deadly poison, and no animal will touch it.

It is the wolves would not eat it, a dead body would soon become a perfect mummy in this desert—the air being so very dry and the sun so awfully hot.

I never so welcomed a train as that which took me out of the Arizona desert that night. And yet I would like to go back.

Nature says this is her country and forbids you, yet at the same time she beckons you—a spider's bait. There is something about it that draws you. You want some hardy companions, a good guide, an outfit that can stand up to hunger and thirst, and then go back and see what is just over that range, and the next one, and the next.

Robert Service in "Collier's," expresses what I am trying to say, and he does it so much easier:

There's a land where the mountains are nameless,

And the rivers all run God knows where;

There are lives that are erring and aimless,

And deaths that just hang by a hair;

There are hardships that nobody reckons;

There are valleys unpeopled and still;

There's a land—oh, it beckons and beckons,

And I want to go back—and I will.

CANBY

Charley Rape, who has been visiting his parents at this place, has returned to eastern Oregon where he is working with a bridge gang.

Mr. Wilson is having some land cleared this winter.

David Fancher is still clearing land for Ed Bradd.

Irvin Wheeler, who is staying in Portland, came home Saturday night to visit with his family over Sunday.

Mr. Carlton was in Canby last Friday.

Sam Wilkerson was in Canby trading last Saturday.

Ab Cole was in Canby, Saturday.

John Marks of Marks Prairie was in town trading last Friday.

H. Tackelson, we understand, is going to Alaska in a few days.

I would like to have some of the Courier readers give the best methods they know to destroy gophers. I use small steel traps. They beat the gopher gun, I think.

Moshberger & Son of Canby are working in their blacksmith and wagon shop. Mr. Moshberger has a shop in Oregon for quite a number of years.

Warren Kendall and Blaine White have torn down the old barn that stood near the railroad track.

"This is the season of the year when mothers feel very much concerned over the frequent colds contracted by their children, and have abundant reason for it as every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality and paves the way for the more serious diseases that so often follow. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures, and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists."

It advertising pays at all, it pays to play it steady.

COLTON

A REMINDER.

There are fifty thousand reasons that we have for being proud of this state wherein we have our happy homes. Nearly any man who's left it, on returning has avowed it will be the last time that he ever roams. There is not a place in the state to compare with this for climate and our motto is "Progression," even church and school bells chime it.

We are our own legislature when it comes to making laws or repealing them if we are so inclined, and by all it is admitted there are scarcely any flaws in our government that any man can find. We are thoroughly progressive and we put our strength and vim in moving upward, but we have neglected one thing—votes for women.

Most we have a second tier pointed at us by our friends on the north and south and also on the east? We can see what they have done and if we fail to make amends we are far from perfect yet, to say the least. Though the women have fine clothes and fancy food to please the palate they will never be contented till they also have the ballot.

It they should vote the result would be unchanged beyond a doubt, but think of all the pride that would be theirs. With all that new material we'd never be without candidates for councilmen and mayors. Since it is our boast that continually we're moving higher, let us give them all a vote, as this is just what they desire.

It has lately been reported by a good authority that we've all been sadly misinformed for late "This alleged poet-laureate of Dodge, who signs "You See" is a lady, so I'm very proud to state that the one excuse I offer for these lines is this: To let her know that I'm working for her for she is a suffragette.

OLE.

STONE

The business operat ons of this part of Clackamas county are going right along.

The Logan country people claim a new railroad to Portland and Oregon City. It is run by horsepower and there are four and five wagons loaded with Oregon products following close after each other. Well, if it were not for the Logan country and particularly Clackamas county and what is called Stone, Oregon City and Portland would get hungry.

There is another transportation scheme on foot now. Parties are intending to make a backboard of Clear creek to ship cordwood to intersect with another water power out of the Clackamas river.

Another enterprise we have here is in the shape of Grant Mumpower's pole sawmill. He is sawing and planing lumber and selling it, and having conveyed for the loggers cut and expects to make the Clackamas river a water railroad.

Another addition to Stone is a house built for keeping mill feed and flour and shorts and bran. This house was built by the Barton Roller Mill Company.

Two separate parties are talking of putting in merchandise stores at this place.

With Grant Mumpower's pole sawmill and the Clear Creek Creamery Company's creamery, we ought to have a modern electric railroad run to Portland.

Now we want some good printing press man to print a good newspaper here.

A party was cut mowing green grass the other day. How is this for a party? He was cutting grass with an armstrong mower? Such grass or hay is reishied by a milk cow.

The school taught here by Miss Vinton is well attended by the children of the district. Our common schools are second to none in Clackamas county.

DODGE

A few things that might be forgotten, that happened fifty years ago:

H. L. Brown of Linn County was an assessor for the legislature and was called on to say where he stood. He got up and said: "I ain't no speaker, but if there is anything you want to ax me, just ax me."

That Luther Elkins, one of the two Democratic votes that elected E. D. Baker to the senate, lost his bacon by fire that fall. That bacon helped to make history.

That Ezekiel Benjamin bought of Wm. Buck of California the first bees that ever came into Oregon, paying $1000 for ten hives.

There is no question but that Ole is the making of a first class poet if she came near using the feminine gender—he would out out those apologies. That last fellow—Mendelssohn—I don't know him, but I am sure Foley, You See, et al don't know what it is, for I am pretty sure should they step on the skirts of their mases and tear them off the waist they would go right on.

BORNG

Boring Assembly No. 370, United Artisans, met in Ritzer's hall last Wednesday evening and installed the following officers: Master Artisan, Claude P. Cross; superintendent, Minnie Meyer; inspector, Sadie Roseboom; secretary, Claude Danielson; treasurer, re-elected, Louis Ritzer; senior conductor, Hazel Ritzer, re-elected; master of ceremonies, Beate Rehberg; junior conductor, Erna Shultz, re-elected; field commanders, Nora Meyer and Edward Rich; musician, Henry Rehberg, re-elected.

The dance given by the Live Wire Club in their hall over Morgan's garage last Saturday night was very well attended on account of the fine element weather.

An Evangelical mission, in charge of Rev. A. B. Calder, began at the M. E. church last Thursday evening and will continue at least ten days.

This week Rev. Mr. Calder will have the help of several neighboring pastors, including Rev. Hopkins of Gresham, Dr. Wiles of Iliff, and Rev. Dr. Waters of Portland, ex-presiding elder. Dr. Waters will speak next Sunday, both morning and evening.

J. Imel has returned from a few days' visit with relatives at Estacada and Springfield.

Owing to his driving pony receiving a severe wire nail injury in its front foot, and unable to get another horse, Rev. A. B. Calder, the local minister, in order to fill his three Sunday appointments at Boring, Pleasant Home and Iliff, was forced to walk the entire distance.

UNION MILLS

This winter ought to boom Oregon, as it is one of the winters we have talked about. The spring frogs sing their evening songs now, and the migratory birds are working hard.

Mr. Dell Trullinger and family have been over to Hillsboro visiting Mr. Trullinger's brother, I Trullinger, this week.

Mr. Holts of Colton is bringing a drive of ties down Milk creek and it is reported that there is a big drive of shingle bolts to follow for the shingle mills at Malina.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Schamel of Molalla were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Zweifel, Sunday last.

If you think Union Mills is not having a boom, just give us a call. And yet there is room for more.

There is a whisper in the winds that there is a possible chance of a branch of the railroad to Colton. A good proposition.

Mr. D. Trullinger, our enterprising sawmill man, has just received a large drive of logs.

Mr. Frank Shaw of Molino has been very ill. We are pleased to learn that he is improving.

Elder T. F. Soule expects to begin a course of lectures at the Grange hall about next Wednesday.

Is not education becoming a hobby? Quite a number of teachers do not hear all the recitations every day. Why? They claim they do not have time. The report from Colton will possibly bear me out in this statement. Why do young men and women of the country go to the cities? Education. Why are servant girls so scarce? Education. What is filling our penitentiaries? Education.

BEAVER CREEK

Everyone in this little borg seems to be up and around.

Ab Thomas & Co. seem to be turning out a lot of work.

REDLAND

Frank Ballard is breaking his horse to the buggy.

The Northwest Association have resumed operations and are making condensed fly. They have built a skid road and chute and are running wood down Clear creek, thence down the Clackamas to Gladstone, banking same there.

Mr. J. J. Bargfeld is getting ready to build a barn on his place.

Louis Gruell has returned to Molalla.

Mr. and Mrs. Bate have sold their place and will soon move to Redmond, Ore.

Miss Margaret Bate, who is teaching the Evergreen school, is now boarding with Mrs. Schwartz.

N. H. Smith is making needed improvements by building hog pens and poultry houses, which will be quite a convenience to him.

Chas. Orewiler has planked part of the Clear creek bottom road, making said road passable for lumber haulers.

MOLALLA

A special meeting of the Molalla Telephone Association is called for next Saturday, February 3. The object of the meeting is the adoption of by-laws for the new telephone corporation company.

Molalla Grange No. 310 held a regular meeting last Saturday and had public installation. J. R. Cole was installing officer, ably assisted by Otis Ray Daugherty. The Juvenile Grange officers were jointly installed with the subordinate officers. Johnny Echerd, retiring master of the Juvenile Grange No. 3, made his retiring speech to the great satisfaction of all his hearers. No. 310 will hold a special meeting for Grange work on the second Saturday of February.

The L. O. O. F. Lodge No. 184, also the United Artisans, held their regular meeting last Saturday.

MARQUAM

Miss Maud Drake has come home from Portland, where she has been working. She will remain at home during the summer.

A party will be given next Saturday night, February 3, at the M. E. hall. The band is busy rehearsing for their basket social, to be given sometime in February.

Mr. A. P. Arboe is surely having hard luck. He has lost a fine Jersey heifer and a horse in the last two weeks.

A dance was given by the Bentley brothers last Saturday night. Every body had a fine time and is wishing there would be another dance before long.

Mrs. J. R. Nelson has been on the sick list for the past week, but we are glad to hear that she is recovering rapidly.

Mr. Arthur Nelson, who has been clerking for F. J. Ridings, will take a vacation of a month or two.

LOGAN

We extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Gerber. May prosperity and happiness attend them. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fredericks entertained the newly-weds and many friends and relatives one evening last week. Some of their young friends entertained them with a Wagner symphony on cow bells, and lastly the Redland band gave them a serenade.

The boys are going to use the proceeds of their cow bell entertainment toward the expenses of a dance in the near future. Instead of the usual program. A good change.

F. P. Wilson gave two of Portland's unemployed a grubbing job, but one of them has jumped the game. Too many of them do that and cannot be depended upon.

Julius Busch has had some men

GLAD TIDINGS

Mrs. Shaver of Portland is visiting with her daughter Mrs. J. A. Ridings.

Mrs. Anna Beers spent the past week visiting with friends in this neighborhood.

A. B. Hibbard has bought a ranch a few miles north of the Willhoit soda springs where he and family will move in the near future.

Ben Jackson, of near Pratam, Marion county, is visiting with his aged mother.

Mrs. Hattie Myers of the Myers hotel, Marquam, was taken suddenly ill in the evening of Sunday, January 21, and though much better at this writing is still far from well. Dr. Klein, surgeon of Silverton attended her. Her father and mother were sent for and are with her at this time.

Gill Giger, wife and children, along with his brother-in-law, Euben Beer were visiting among friends Sunday.

The writer, speaking a good word to them in regard to the Courier, they immediately fell in line, handed out $1.50, a year's subscription to the Courier, telling me to attend to the matter for them, sending in the money, giving their address, etc.

Now would it be out of place for me to speak a word in praise of our rural mail carrier, Mr. Thomas Echerd? For nearly seven years he has brought the mail to our doors, in summer and in winter. Many of us will leave our warm, comfortable firesides on a cold winter day, go to our mail boxes, receive our mail, return to the warmth and comfort of home, to sit down and enjoy reading our daily and weekly papers, many of us fear not giving even one thought to the man who braves the elements to deliver our mail, who returns to his home in Molalla sometimes actually suffering with cold. Some of us he had to remind many times in regard to the remodeling of our mail boxes. We could not have blamed him for becoming a little impatient at our delay, yet he was ever kind, and obliging and gentlemanly in his demands which brings to my mind and again proves the saying that "A true gentleman is a gentleman at all times, in all places, and under all circumstances."

Death Laid to Accident. Yaquina—Evidence surrounding the death of Miss Sarah Fitzpatrick, who was found shot through the heart at the Monterey hotel near Newport, shows that the young woman was alone when she met death.

There was no evidence of foul play, and it is believed by the family that she came to her death by accident.

34 MEASURES ON BALLOT

Electors at Next General Election Will Be Kept Busy.

Salem.—With the statement of Governor West that there will be at least seven or eight road measures to go on the ballot, with it being noised around that a plan is on foot among the members of the G. A. R. to initiate a bill to make February 12, Lincoln's birthday, a public holiday, with 11 measures already on file in the office of the secretary of state, and with the other measures now being circulated through petitions, or in the course of preparation, there are at least 34 measures which are actually in sight to be voted on by the electors at the next general election with a possibility of the number going to 40 or over.

In 1910 the voters were called upon to pass on the merits or demerits of 22 bills.

Parkinson Files Brief in Appeal.

Salem.—The brief of H. J. Parkinson in appeal to the supreme court from the decision of Judge Galloway of the Marion county circuit court, invalidating the referendum petition directed against the University of Oregon appropriations, has been filed.

104 Fail to Pass Test.

Albany.—One hundred and four of the 141 pupils who took the eighth-grade examinations in Linn county last week failed.

Itching piles provoke profanity, but profanity won't cure them. Doan's Ointment cures itching, bleeding or protruding piles after years of suffering. At any drug store.

W. Baker broke his donkey engine while pulling stumps for Thomas Bros.

The Beaver Creek Lumber Co. had to shut down their mill on account of high water last week, but started up this week with a full crew and are turning out lots of ties.

By the loads of ties and cordwood that are being hauled, our rock road will see its finish by spring, as some are hauling over 2000 feet to a load. Jack Bohlander left Friday last for Coos Bay, to take his old job, driving a donkey engine.

H. Herman was in town last Saturday on special business, and also visited his brother, A. B. Herman.

J. J. Steiner of Portland was visiting his parents in this borg recently, and subscribed for the Courier while in Oregon City, in order to get the news of his old home and friends.

C. Fisher and W. H. Parry and P. Steiner have been busy hauling oats to ship to Portland.

Some potato buyers were in this borg recently and offered a good price. Some offered $1.35 per hundred pounds. But no one sold, as everyone is holding for higher prices.

A. Staben and brother Henry have been busy sawing wood for Fred Kamrath, our road boss.

O. Mochnko is clearing and plowing. He is plowing up the old Shabel ball ground. He intends to plant his entire farm to spruds.

George Holman is hauling oats to the city this week.

V. Bohlander bought some hogs from Elmer Longin last week. An Elmer is overstocked with pigs, he sells them at very reasonable prices.

Six Per Cent Semi-Annual Interest Coupon Bonds

The Clackamas Southern Railway Company is now offering to our home people its first mortgage 6 per cent semi-annual interest coupon bonds, and as the bonds are limited to ties, rails and equipment, and all other work, such as grading and bridges, are paid for by stock subscriptions, the bonds issued by this company are first class.

These bonds are issued in the following denominations, viz.: $100, $500, $1000.

THE CLACKAMAS SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY offers the following reasons why these bonds should be sold in Oregon:

FIRST—It is an Oregon enterprise and owned by Oregon people.

SECOND—The country traversed by this line is thickly populated and has freight and passenger traffic in sight to make it the best paying road in Oregon for its length.

THIRD—The best business men and farmers in the county are stockholders in this road and authorized the issue of these bonds at the stockholders' meeting by unanimous vote.

FOURTH—These bonds draw 6 per cent interest and the holder gets his interest twice each year.
